Gov. Talmadge Opens Campaign Against Roosevelt

CONVENTION SELECTION MEET OPENS

Sen. McAdoo Urges Democrats to Hold Meet in San Francisco

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — San Francisco bid $150,000 and promised more today in an effort to persuade the Democratic National Committee to send the presidential nominating convention to that city next June.

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Philadelphia today bid $200,000 for the Democratic national convention. Chairman James A. Farley asked whether San Francisco cared to bid further. Senator William G. McAdoo raised San Francisco's bid to $201,000, then added another $500 to meet the $150,000 in prizes offered by Philadelphia.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia appeared today at the convention-selection meeting of the Democratic National Committee and with a single word opened his campaign to prevent reelection of President Roosevelt.

Talmadge uttered a firm and distinct "no" against a resolution by which the committee endorsed the Roosevelt New Deal.

The approving resolution was offered by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City and was seconded by Sen. Kenneth McKellar, D., Tenn.

He stated that the Democratic National Committee "congratulates the party on the opportunity to ratify the Roosevelt administration and reaffirmed loyalty to the President and endorsed his efforts to cure economic ills."

Talmadge, expressing the sentiment that he "wasn't looking for a fight," appeared at the committee meeting after ostensibly absenting himself from the $50-a-plate Jackson Day Democratic rally at which President Roosevelt spoke last night.

SEEKS INDICTMENT OF MRS. HAZEL GLAB

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9. — A statement issued by District Attorney Buron Fitts today disclosed that authorities would seek a grand jury indictment in the unsolved death of John L. Glab, retired druggist.

His wife, Mrs. Hazel Glab, recently was sentenced to two to 14 years imprisonment for forging the will of the late Albert L. Cheney, elderly financier.

The district attorney's statement said: "We have unearthed new evidence which we are submitting to the grand jury Monday, asking a first degree murder indictment be returned."

Glab was killed seven years ago but his death never has been solved. Mrs. Glab was questioned following the shooting of her husband, July 18, 1928, but was unable to convince officers at the time that she knew nothing of his death.

GOLDER IS HELD IN ROBBERY OF HOTEL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9. — Harry Gump, 35, professional golfer and hotelman, was on his way to Los Angeles in police custody today to face charges in connection with the $27,600 holdup of the Grand Hotel in Santa Monica last July.

Police said Gump admitted having drawn a map used by the robbers in looting the hotel of $25,000 in jewels and $2500 in money. He was unable to raise $25,000 bail and was turned over to two Los Angeles detectives after his arrest here.

Two men and a woman are in custody at Los Angeles and a fourth has been picked up in Idaho in connection with the robbery.

OPponents of NEW DEAL HIT BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — No doubt remained today that President Roosevelt plans to lead a forceful, aggressive campaign to confirm the New Deal in power at the polls next November. For the second time in less than a week, the chief executive last night struck at enemies of his administration with unequivocal epithet and stinging analogy.

His speech to the $50-a-plate Jackson day dinner officially opened the Democratic side of the 1936 campaign. To confirm the beginning barage of the Democratic heavy artillery, the Democratic National Committee meets today to hear a fighting speech by National Chairman James A. Farley and to name its convention city.

Message on Air
Recent presidents, with the exception of Herbert Hoover, have sought to take only a comparatively small part in their re-election campaigns, leaving the great burden to followers and political subordinates. Mr. Roosevelt, who spoke by radio to 2,000 other Jackson day dinners in all parts of the country and to the nation at large, made it plain that he would ride at the head of his army, unshattered sword in hand.

As he did before congress, he paid his respects to a minority of business and finance which he said was ready to "gang up on the people's liberty." Some of his speech was in the vein of his speech before congress, a vein the American Liberty League and other critics said was calculated to rouse class hatred. He had not uttered a hundred words when he made this statement:

"I am happy to stand here tonight and declare to you that the real issue before the United States is the right of the average man and woman to lead a finer, a better and a happier life."

$50 Per Plate

The president spoke before approximately 1500 ranking Democrats who had paid $50 each for a five dollar dinner and the privilege of hearing him speak. The other $45 will go into the Democratic war chest. Heartening to

TOWNSEND STUDIES HIGH COURT RULING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Dr. F. E. Townsend today studied with attorneys the possible effect of the supreme court AAA decision on his plans for $280 monthly pensions to the aged.

Townsend admitted there was a possibility the pension plan might have to be changed in view of the court's sweeping decision.

If no other method of enacting his plan appeared possible, Townsend said, he probably would throw his forces into a fight for a constitutional amendment that would provide a certain foundation for his pension program.

Any plan of action, however, he made clear must await close study of the legal aspects of the question. One possibility, he said, was a change in the draft of the Townsend pension scheme to allow states to administer the benefits.

JOHN GILBERT DIES FROM HEART ATTACK

SUBSTITUTE FOR AAA TO BE PROPOSED

Tentative Program Will Be Presented to Farmers at Meet Friday

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — A new drive for a constitutional amendment was started in congress today as a result of the supreme court AAA decision.

Sen. M. M. Logan, D., Ky., introduced an amendment which would give congress the specific powers which the court has held it does not now possess.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Administration and congressional leaders began gathering up the pieces of the shattered AAA today, hoping to tie them together into some form of substitute legislation.

Some tentative program of immediate action it was believed, will be presented to 100 representatives of farm organizations meeting here tomorrow and Saturday at the call of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Legal interpretation of the supreme court's far-reaching decision declaring the whole AAA set-up unconstitutional, was confused. Clarification of the status of $1,200,000,000 paid in taxes by processors was expected when the court decided the eight rice processing tax cases argued recently.

Legal experts in congress said an act of congress would be required if the $979,000,000 in processing taxes paid into the treasury are to be refunded. Disposition of the $200,000,000 processing taxes impounded in federal courts probably will hinge on decision in the rice cases.

The department of justice telegraphed all United States attorneys instructions that "all processing tax injunction suits in which funds were deposited in escrow or impounded in court should be held in status quo until after decision of the supreme court in the rice cases."

HOUSE NEUTRALITY HEARINGS LAUNCHED
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — House neutrality hearings opened today with presentation to the foreign affairs committee of a charge by Edwin M. Borchard, Yale professor, that executive incompetence rather than trade entanglements led the United States into the World War.

Borchard, testifying on the administration's neutrality bill, charged it would make the "strong nations stronger and the weak weaker" in war time. He charged that American citizens traveled on the Lusitania and Sussex, both British ships, despite German warnings and "took their lives in their own hands."

DAVIS AND EDEN IN NAVAL CONFERENCE

LONDON, Jan. 9. — A combined British and United States effort to decide whether the naval conference should be abandoned as hopeless was reported today by British sources.

Norman H. Davis, head of the United States delegation, was said to have conferred privately with Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, to decide whether the conference can continue or should be adjourned.

It was believed Davis urged that Japan be asked either to show a more amenable spirit or assume responsibility for the breakdown of the conference.

Great Lover Stricken In Home Today

Inhalator Squad Unable to Rekindle Spark of Life After Hour's Work

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9. — John Gilbert, dapper screen lover and playboy of Hollywood, died today in his home on Tower Grove drive, on the outskirts of the film colony.

Members of rescue squad 15, of the Hollywood fire department, worked for an hour in an effort to rekindle a spark of life in the noted actor after a summons from the Gilbert home. The effort failed and it was announced that Gilbert was dead—apparently from heart disease.

Gilbert had been ill since Christmas, confined to his bed most of the time for almost three weeks. He was reclining in bed this morning, a nurse beside him, when the fatal attack struck him. The nurse spread the alarm to several servants in the actor's home. A servant summoned the

STERILIZATION CASE TAKEN UP BY GRAND JURY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9. — The San Francisco county grand jury was called into informal session today to discuss conditions attending sterilization of Ann Cooper Hewitt, 21-year-old heiress seeking $500,000 damages in a civil action against her mother, two physicians and a psychiatrist.

Foreman Robert Lincoln said he would submit facts thus far gathered in the case to jury members and ask them whether they wished to conduct an official inquiry.

Intervention of the grand jury followed indications that at least two officials ordered to investigate legality of the operation constituted mayhem against Miss Hewitt. Her civil suit claims she was sterilized while under the impression she was undergoing an appendectomy.

Defendants in the lawsuit are Miss Hewitt's often-married mother, Mrs. Mayron Cooper Hewitt; Dr. Samuel G. Boyd and Dr. Tilton Tillman, and Mrs. Mary Scally, a psychiatrist.

CONCESSIONS GRANTED ORANGE COUNTY IN FIGHT OVER WATER

CONCESSIONS which indicate a desire on the part of officials of the Tri-County Water Conservation Association to settle the suit filed by James Irvine to restrain upper river water interests from spreading water to the detriment of this county have been made by officials of the water association in the first direct move to settle the water battle.

This news was brought to directors of the Orange County Water District by Paul Bailey, consulting engineer for the district, in his initial report to directors yesterday afternoon on progress of negotiations with the upper river water interests in settling the water dispute.

Bailey told the directors that the water association officials have a state permit to spread 1000 second feet of water along the Santa Ana river, and are offering now to reduce this to 600 second feet, an amount Bailey said in effect would result in their spreading about half the amount of water.

The engineer pointed out that this county has not agreed to the proposal, and said that the concession shows substantial progress in the negotiations inasmuch as the conservation association had receded from their original claims.

It was pointed out that the association has not established prescriptive rights to the 1000 second feet for which a state permit was granted for spreading. Bailey said the negotiations are

BROCK GIVES APPROVAL TO CITRUS PACT

Marketing Agreement Will Go Into Effect January 14, Announced

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Jan. 9. — Regulation of the shipment of California oranges and grapefruit under a marketing agreement will be effective January 14, it was announced today by the state department of agriculture.

Word of the approval of the agreement by A. A. Brock, director of the state department of agriculture, was received here today from Los Angeles.

The license, provided under authority of the state AAA, gives the director of agriculture the right to fix on a week to week basis the quantity of California-grown oranges and grapefruit which may be marketed within the specified period by all shippers.

"Methods of fixing the intrastate shipping quotas must be similar under the California AAA to the methods used by the secretary of agriculture governing interstate shipments," a department bulletin stated. "The state director of agriculture will each week be given the benefit of estimates submitted to him by the California orange and grapefruit control committee, which are constantly in touch with the requirements of California markets."

First state quotas probably will be set for shipments originating on and after January 19, the department announced.

Director Brock signed the license and made it effective upon being advised by AAA officials in Washington that the recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court on the AAA in the Hoosac Mills case did not invalidate that part of the AAA providing for marketing agreements and orders affecting intrastate commerce.

The marketing agreement finally was approved after a series of meetings in Southern California.

ROOSEVELT'S HOSTS TO SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — President and Mrs. Roosevelt tonight will be hosts to the supreme court of the United States at the annual judicial reception.

The court, which this week in a 6-3 decision tossed out one of Mr. Roosevelt's prime recovery programs, will be honor guests at the reception.

DEATH CALLS JOHN GILBERT

The fascinating John Gilbert, famous screen star, died suddenly of heart attack today in his home on Tower Grove Drive, Bel-Air. At the left below is shown Gilbert with his fourth wife, Virginia Bruce, from whom he was divorced several months ago. And along side them, down the line, are the great lover's former wives. No. 1 was Olivia Burwell, who married and divorced him early in his career; No. 2 was Leatrice Joy, married in 1922 and divorced in 1925; and No. 3 was Ina Claire, married in 1929 and divorced in 1931.

GREAT BATTLE FLEETS READY TO GO-OPERATE

LONDON, Jan. 9. — France and Great Britain will have a great battle fleet, ready to cooperate in any emergency, within easy striking distance of the western Mediterranean in less than two weeks.

By what may be a coincidence the fleets will be in excellent position for quick action when the league of nations resumes its study of the Italian-Ethiopian crisis probably January 20.

Not only will two gigantic battleships, an aircraft carrier, a cruiser and a destroyer flotilla of the British home fleet be cruising near Gibraltar, but one powerful French fleet will be conducting maneuvers in the waters adjacent to Toulon and Corsica, off the Italian coast, and another, will be cruising near Casablanca, Morocco, 160 miles miles from the straits of Gibraltar.

The Toulon-Corsica fleet—the first French squadron—will start its maneuvers Jan. 20, when league delegates are expected to open their meeting.

Plans for the cruises and maneuvers, all emphasized as of entirely routine nature, were announced yesterday in Paris and London.

The announcements come only a few days after the completion of general staff plans for French-British cooperation in event of a mysterious "emergency"—actually an attack on the British fleet or on territory belonging to or vital to Britain by Italy.

It has been disclosed at Paris, also, that France would have 400 naval airplanes available for immediate action in event of an emergency, and that the great naval air base of Berre, near Marseilles, would be available for British use.

WEALTHY BOY LOST IN DESERT FOUND

INDIO, Cal., Jan. 9. — Possemen searching for Alfred Altman, 12-year-old son of a Brooklyn manufacturer, found the boy safe and well today in the desert near here.

The boy, missing in the rugged desert country since Tuesday, and feared to have perished, walked out from behind a boulder almost into the arms of a rancher, Jerry Roberts, one of the 18 men scouring the area for him.

"Hello, I'm hungry," he announced. "I want some breakfast quick."

REPUBLICANS OPPOSED TO INFLATION

Hamilton Fish Leads Anti-"Greenback" Onslaught on House Floor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Bitter Republican opposition to inflationary methods of paying the bonus developed today as the house debated the united front veterans bill.

The united front bill specifies no exact manner of obtaining funds which which to pay the veterans the $1,000,000,000 in cash which it is estimated the measure will require.

Inflation leaders included Rep. Wright Patman, D., Texas, have been hopeful of lacking a currency expansion proviso on the bonus measure.

It was considered certain President Roosevelt would veto any inflationary bonus proposal and veterans organizations devised the present "united front" bill with that in mind.

The prospect of a presidential veto remains, however, as Mr. Roosevelt has indicated no change of attitude since vetoing the bonus bill which came before him last year.

Fish Leads Fight

Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr., possible Republican vice presidential candidate, led the anti-"greenback" onslaught, amid cheers and applause of the Republicans. Fish termed the president's budget measure "pure holoney."

Fish's attack came as the house approved 148 to 0 a rule permitting four hours of debate on the measure and freedom to offer amendments.

The bill which provides full and immediate cash payment of all veterans' certificates, is sponsored by the American Legion. Disabled American Veterans and Veterans of Foreign Wars. It does not specify how the money shall be raised.

The bonus issue was given right-of-way over the $375,000,000 executive and legislative offices appropriation bill for the 1937 fiscal year, which was debated on the floor yesterday but whose passage was delayed for the bonus.

Seek Restrictions

Despite agreement of warring house bonus factions, the bill is an almost certain target for many amendments. Leaders believe most of them will be rejected. Republicans are expected to seek restriction on the method by which the bonus may be paid.

Advocates claim that the bill reduces in half the total immediate cost of the bonus payment over any other previous measure. They said that it will mean an outlay

CRUSADERS OPPOSE TOWNSEND'S PLAN

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9. — The California Crusaders, statewide non-partisan organization opposed to "crackpot legislation and irresponsible legislators," today addressed an open letter to California's delegation in congress urging vigorous opposition to the Townsend plan, especially as incorporated in the McGroarty bill now before the house.

Signed by Samuel J. Hume, regional director of the Crusaders, the letter declared the Crusaders favor "sound pensions for the aged but will wage war against the general fallacy that the government can somehow bestow sudden riches on one group without bankrupting the whole nation."

Hume characterized the McGroarty bill as "most dangerous."

Colorado Farmer Harvests Wheat During January

FORT COLLINS, Colo., Jan. 9. — When it comes to agriculture, B. L. Bannelle, who operates 150 acres of land five miles southwest of here, agrees that Christmas might just as well be celebrated on the Fourth of July.

Bannelle has been harvesting wheat (that's correct, wheat) during the last week and got 10 bushels to the acre. At present prices the crop is worth $1500.

He attributed the phenomenon to the unusually mild winter Colorado has been experiencing.

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Jan. 9. — Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and her daughter, Constance, arrived from New York on the S. S. Bremen today.

It was understood they were going direct to Cardiff to join the Lindbergh family.

fire department rescue squad. But death beat the inhalator squad to the scene.

Previous Attacks

Two or three previous heart attacks had weakened Gilbert, according to his attorney, P. H. Moore.

Gilbert's death followed by less than a month that of Thelma Todd, blonde comedian, who also loved the gay spots and who, like John, often was the "life of the party" when Hollywood folk got together for an evening.

News of the actor's passing cast additional gloom over the studios, where workers still discuss the mysterious elements of the death of Miss Todd. A small crowd had gathered near the Gilbert home shortly after the news spread through Hollywood.

Dr. Leo Matson, the star's personal physician, made a call at the home, but left shortly.

Gilbert, whose real name was Jack Pringle, once ranked as the screen's "greatest lover."

Four Marriages

In private life, he kept pace with his movie roles by marrying four times. His fourth wife, Virginia Bruce, also of the films, divorced him in May, 1934. His previous wives were the late Orla, via Burwell, Leatrice Joy and Ina Claire.

Gilbert was born in Logan, Utah, July 10, 1891.

He spent his early boyhood as a "transient scholar," receiving his earlier education in schools all over the country. One of the schools was the Hitchcock Military academy at San Rafael, Calif.

The stage attracted him and he embarked on a career before the footlights that was brief compared to his veteran service on the screen. Besides acting, he achieved a brief measure of fame as a writer before coming to Hollywood.

His first camera effort was under the banner of the late Thomas Ince in "Apostle of Vengeance." The flicker was produced in 1917, long before the movies learned to talk.

His dapper appearance and handsome looks lured him as a coming star but lean days were still to come before he achieved the prominence that later was due him.

In 1919, the old First National company promoted his career by starring him in "Heart of the Hills."

Joins With Fox

Fox took him in tow in 1922 and gave him a leading role in "The Count of Monte Cristo." After that picture, he went over to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which boomed him to stardom and established him as the "million-dollar star." In consideration of this title, he was given a million-dollar contract that, oddly enough, Gilbert was later to regret.

Starring vehicles came in rapid order for the next few years. He appeared in such hits as "He Who Gets Slapped," "The Merry Widow," and greatest of his hits "The Big Parade."

Then came the talkies and Gilbert, the screen's "great lover," faded.

His voice was unsuitable for speaking roles and, although he spent a small fortune "doctoring" it under expert instruction, he never came back to the heights he traveled during the era of silent pictures.

of cash around $1,100,000,000 aside from funds available already.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio, R., N. Y., a leader of the house Liberal bloc, plans to offer an amendment preventing removal of veterans from federal relief rolls after they have cashed their certificates.

The bill sponsored by Representatives Fred M. Vinson, D., Ky., and John McCormack, D., Mass., and Wright Patman, D., Tex., author of the bill to pay the bonus through issuance of $2,200,000,000 in Greenbacks.

This powerful trio reached an agreement to vote down any amendment not sponsored by the house ways and means committee, thus assuring passage of the bill almost intact.

"We want the bonus payment first," Patman said, "and the method of payment can come later. Under no circumstances will I attempt to substitute my currency expansion bill for the measure before the house."

Four Hours Debate

One hour will be allotted for discussion of the rule for the bill and four hours will be given to general debate.

Chairman John J. O'Connor, D., N. Y., of the house rules committee, predicted the vote would be reached Friday afternoon. Overwhelming passage in the house was admitted on all sides. It will then be sent to the senate for action.

The bill authorizes use of the $1,600,000,000 in the adjusted-service certificate fund, and about $1,600,000,000 in additional cash to pay off the bonus. The total face value of certificates is over $3,500,000,000. Interest would raise this to $3,700,000,000.

Of that about $500,000,000 is due the United States government life insurance fund through loans. The bill proposes to take care of this through issuance of 10 year 3 1/2 per cent bonds to the fund.

This would leave only $1,600,000,000 to be raised through new cash immediately. Veterans cashing their certificates before April 6, 1937 will receive their full face value. If they withhold them, they will receive 3 per cent annual interest from 1937 to 1945.

Advocates believe that about $500,000,000 in certificates will be held to take advantage of the interest, thus meaning a $1,100,000,000 new cash outlay.

TALMADGE IN OPPOSITION TO NEW DEALERS

question after applause which greeted its reading had subsided.

"All those in favor," shouted Farley.

There was a great chorus of "Ayes."

The roomful of Democratic leaders turned and craned their necks to see what Talmadge would do.

Gazing straight ahead, the Georgia governor said in a loud voice:

"No."

The early committee session was devoted to routine business. After luncheon at the White House many members meet this afternoon to select the convention city.

The committee ratified reapportionment of state delegations to the 1936 convention as follows: Increases: California, 18; Connecticut, 2; Florida, 2; Michigan, 3; New Jersey, 4; New York, 4; North Carolina, 2; Ohio, 4; Oklahoma, 2; Texas, 6; Washington, 2. Decreases: Alabama, 2; Georgia, 4; Indiana, 2; Iowa, 3; Kansas, 2; Kentucky, 4; Maine, 2; Massachusetts, 2; Minnesota, 2; Mississippi, 2; Missouri, 2; Nebraska, 2; North Dakota, 2; Pennsylvania, 4; Rhode Island, 2; South Carolina, 2; South Dakota, 2; Tennessee, 2; Vermont, 2; Virginia, 2; Wisconsin, 2.

The total delegate vote in the 1936 convention under the apportionment proposed by the 1932 convention and ratified today will be 1100.

Vice President Garner, appearing for the first time in the role of vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, introduced Farley.

Garner effusively praised the tall, bald chairman of the committee as having made "fewer mistakes in politics than any man I know of."

He noted that "our enemies" and even "some of our own people" had criticized Farley's plan to reduce the Democratic party deficit through $50 a plate Jackson day dinners.

"Reports today indicate that even in this Jim Farley made good," Garner said.

Shortly before Farley began speaking Sen. Robert Bulkley, D., Ohio, predicted a sweeping Democratic victory in 1936. Sen. William C. McAdoo, D., Calif., indicated San Francisco would wage a strenuous fight for the Democratic convention.

"I hope that you'll all vote for San Francisco as the next convention city," McAdoo said.

There was a smattering of applause and a few laughs.

OPPOSITIONS OF NEW DEAL HIT BY ROOSEVELT

the party was the presence of certain old-line, conservative Democrats whom Republicans had hoped would be alienated by New Deal policies. Among these were Bruce Kremer, Democratic national committeeman from Montana, Arthur Mullen, of Nebraska, both prominent figures in Mr. Roosevelt's 1932 campaign but eclipsed since. Practically the full strength of the Democratic national committee was present with the notable exception of Alfred E. Smith, who in previous years played a prominent part in Jackson Day dinners.

Much of Mr. Roosevelt's speech last night was analogical, but his audience had no difficulty in following his parallels between the administration of Andrew Jackson and his own. Indeed, Mr. Roosevelt repeatedly made certain of absolute preception by direct connection. He was riotously cheered and applauded at each of many rapid thrusts at opposing forces the audience seemed to have no trouble in recognizing.

LARGE ATTENDANCE MARKS JACKSON DAY GATHERINGS

Northern County Bourbons AAA Decision Hailed as Pledge Support to Administration

BY GEORGE HART

PLEDGING themselves to not retreat and to repulse the enemy in the forthcoming presidential campaign, more than 300 Democrats met last night in Anaheim at the Jackson Day dinner sponsored by the Orange County Democratic Central Committee and the Young Democrats of Orange county. The dinner was held in the banquet hall of the Elks club.

As at every other Jackson Day dinner throughout the nation President Roosevelt was the principal speaker, talking from Washington, D. C. over a nation-wide hookup. At the close of the President's address the group in Anaheim gave unanimous approval to a telegram to be sent the president, extending the greetings of Orange County Democrats and pledging their support in the campaign.

Because of illness Judge Minor Moore, of Los Angeles, scheduled to deliver the Jackson Day address and call to arms for the campaign, was unable to attend and Jack Powell, assistant United States district attorney in Los Angeles, spoke.

Answering the question "Why did the Democrats choose Jackson Day for the opening of the campaign?" the speaker said it was because, in his time, Andrew Jackson was the first great fighter for human rights and today President Roosevelt stands as the greatest fighter of all times for the same ideal.

Referring to Jackson, the speaker said that, when elected president of the United States, he continued his career as a fighter, but instead of fighting the Indians, he battled for the common people. He was the first champion of the policy of a government for all the people. It was Jackson, he pointed out, who abolished the United States National banks, in the face of cries that such action would wreck the nation. This action, Powell said, marked the beginning of the present sub-treasury system.

Turning to the present campaign, Powell said, "The president, in his measure to congress, threw his gloves on the table, declaring to his opponents 'I dare you to challenge the New Deal.' That challenge should be the foremost thought of every Democrat in the campaign which is opening tonight. The book of the New Deal is open for everyone to read.

"In reading this book of achievement do not be misled by political claptrap and propaganda that the nation is going socialist, communistic or going to the dogs. It is not. Just ask yourself 'where was I before the New Deal and where am I now? Am I not in better position today and is the nation not in better position than it was before the New Deal?' That will answer any propaganda."

Referring to the recent supreme court decision voiding the AAA, Powell said that the decision was a severe blow to the administration and the nation, as a whole, but is not a death blow.

"The Republicans," he said, "are jubilant over the decision voiding the AAA. Does that mean that the party means more to them than the welfare of the nation?"

"The AAA was a great boon to the farmer. The Constitution says that taxes can be levied for general welfare. By their actions the Republicans are declaring that the welfare of the farmer is not the welfare of the United States. I say to you that the welfare of the farmer is the welfare of the nation."

"Under the Roosevelt administration this country has made great strides back toward normalcy. It is possible today for a man to start a business safe in the knowledge that, next year, conditions will be improved and that the nation is on a sound financial basis.

Fear Dissipated
"Three years ago the people were afraid to deposit their money in any bank. Does that fear exist today? It does not because of the Depositors' Insurance act, which is a part of the New Deal."

"Three years ago no one would invest in securities. Today the purchase of securities is a safe investment because of the National Securities act which also was New Deal legislation."

"The country, today, is in a sound financial condition because of President Roosevelt and his New Deal and now, that the country is saved there are those who say 'I should be president.' A few years ago they would not have dared to President would refuse the request of the McAdoo-Cotton-Creel group for his blessing upon their "renewed" delegation, and would favor "the delegates named by the people."

J. F. Burke, not upon the scheduled program, but asked to speak at its close, declared that "there is no division" between the national Democratic party and the California Epics; that the Epic production-for-use program offers the President "the way out that he is looking for" in solving the problem of 11,000,000 unemployed; and that "production-for-use will go hand-in-hand with President Roosevelt, a natural, inseparable union."

Resolution Adopted
Discussion of this topic brought adoption of a resolution introduced by Lewis F. Davis, of Santa Ana, as follows:

"Whereas you, the President of the United States, in your address of January 8, 1935, to the Jackson Day Democrats throughout the United States, announced as your supreme purpose the ending of poverty in America, and

"Whereas the Democratic party in the State of California is definitely pledged to this same purpose, we, the Orange county Democrats assembled at the Jackson Day dinner in Southern California, do hereby

"Resolve to sustain and work with you, the President of the United States, in this high endeavor, through the medium of the immediate introduction of Production For Use throughout the nation."

The resolution was wired to President Roosevelt.

Ford Speaks
Supervisor Ford, who recently engaged in a controversy with the Los Angeles city council over his refusal to appropriate county funds for sweeping city streets, was greeted as a people's champion.

After telling of victory in the controversy, he detailed further clashes between himself and the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce over methods of solving the economic problems of that county, where he said, 500,000 persons are depending upon relief agencies for food, and that Los Angeles county's one-fourth share of their food costs $11,000,000 annually, and medical care costs $400,000 per month.

The Los Angeles chamber, he said, tried to sell him the idea that the county should appropriate $500,000 for its support, and "put him on his black-lit" because he believed that this money should go for the needy.

Unaware of Need
"What impressed me was not anger at their smugness, but the fact that they were totally unaware of the magnitude of the need all about them."

Citing the figures of relief cost, Ford declared that "in the fact of those figures, this modern, materialistic-mad people who learned nothing from the stupid folly of the war, move heaven and earth to stop this appalling thing called production for use. They are greedy fear."

Part of the harm comes from the obstacle of getting the facts to the public, said Ford, who said a "controlled, prostituted press presents one of the problems of even whisper the same opinion. "If we return the present administration to the White House for another four years the country will be in such condition that there never will be another depression and anyone can run it."

Playing the nation's newspapers for what he termed their biased reports against the New Deal, Powell warned that from now on a barrage of published propaganda and a whispering campaign could be expected.

Aware Ready
"This campaign, doubtless, will make many people waver and doubt the wisdom of the administration. Every Democrat and every Republican, who thinks right and truly has the nation's welfare at heart, can stop this propaganda and whispering campaign and answer any charge against the administration by quoting achievements of the administration."

In a 10-minute talk on "Rugged Individualism vs. Social Justice," John Shea, student in University of Southern California, asked his listeners if they preferred to go ahead with Roosevelt and his program of social justice or return to the "sound business principles" advocated by the American Liberty League and the rugged individualism of the Republican administration when, "in the debacle of 1929, investments and savings were wiped out and 40,000,000 people were made destitute."

Judge J. G. Mitchell, chairman of the central committee, was chairman of the meeting and Perry Davis, vice president of the Young Democrats of Orange County, was toastmaster. C. R. Allen, of Fullerton gave the invocation. Vocal solos were sung by James Baker, Mrs. Ignatius Glass and Mrs. J. J. Farley, all of Fullerton.

these supporting the desired economic system, which is to free the channels of information."

The radio, he said, "has not yet been wholly prostituted by toothpaste, although, if you give Hearst time, he will try to get control of all the chains."

Optimism was voiced by Ford when he said that in all the colorful political history of America, there has never been so extraordinary a miracle as that of Upton Sinclair, starting out single-handed and, in a period of 12 months, all but capturing a state government.

People Interested
The Sinclair campaign, he said, offered two assuring facts, one being that the people were stung into an interest in public affairs, and the other being the proof of enlarged radius of contact and the shoving back of mental horizons by mechanical progress in transportation and communication.

"The miracle as begun by Sinclair will continue as forecast by President Roosevelt on the radio tonight," said Ford, who hit the "rock-ribbed hide-bound Republicans" and their emphasis upon Constitution Day.

"The makers of the constitution," he said, "tried to give the people a chance. That is what Franklin D. Roosevelt is trying to do. That is what two-thirds of the United States Supreme court failed to see. These recent court decisions will mark, in my opinion, the beginning of a peaceful but drastic revolution in American government, to free the people."

The speaker closed by reciting Lincoln's Gettysburg address, after saying that it applied today, and that Lincoln, in giving it today, would have repeated the same phrases.

He likened Lincoln to Jackson, as "the essential embodiment of the American idea," and "a guide over the hard places in national life."

Burke is called

J. F. Burke, following Ford, gave thanks that officials like Ford can be elected to office, and expressed the view that such men could be elected in Orange county.

He ridiculed the American bankers and industrialists who "were saved by Roosevelt in 1933," and now are crying that they didn't need saving, and are being hampered in recovery.

That, said Burke, reminded him of the local beach lifeguard who told him that when people are saved from drowning, they almost never thank the guard, but complain that they hadn't needed help, even that the life-guard had "ducked" them in bringing them ashore.

Burke said he was "almost glad that the AAA had been thrown into the discard, because it will force the people to a realization of what President Roosevelt has done for the country."

He expressed hope for a fulfillment of the Production for Use plan.

Burke's speech brought deafening applause.

Supervisors Attacked
Percy Rogers, early on the program, centered fire upon the Orange county supervisors.

The recent flood bond election, he said, "was not held at the will of the people, but at the will of a bunch of free-booters in the courthouse."

"When they play with the future welfare of generations yet unborn, they deserve to be driven out of the places into which they have stolen in the night," he went on.

Rogers criticized the supervisors sharply for their $21 per month welfare budget, and "stealing money ahead of humanity."

"Should we tolerate officials who betray their trust?" he demanded. "Should we keep them or remove them?" Several voices called "Remove them," and there was general applause.

Paying tribute to Mrs. Barbara Brooks, of Costa Mesa, Epic leader, Rogers said she was the only member of the county central committee that remained loyal to those who put them on the commission. "The others all are traveling with the Ham Cotton group," he said.

The struggle for control of the Democratic party in California was likened by Rogers to a struggle between a man and a burglar seeking to steal his watch.

"We Democrats are entrenched with 900,000 votes," he said, "while that other group with McAdoo, Cotton and Creel, are trying to steal the party."

Senator McAdoo "has betrayed his party and no longer has the right to call himself a Democrat," said Rogers.

Old Proclamation Read
One of the evening's events that attracted most interest from the assembly was a Thanksgiving proclamation of President Jackson, 100 years ago, read by Mrs. Brooks.

The hearers were startled by the proclamation's reference to absence of unemployment, the reassuring increase in immigration, and the generally bright and cloudless national horizon of that day.

Mrs. Brooks' remarks included an appeal for support of the Epic News, official organ of the party, and vital to its welfare, she pointed out.

In introducing Mrs. Brooks, W. M. Burke paid general tribute to the women workers of the party, saying "whatever we may gain for our program, we will owe it to the women workers." Mrs. Brooks, he said, was one of the most conscientious and able workers in the Epic cause.

STERILIZATION CASE TAKEN UP BY GRAND JURY

The defendants, the suit alleges, conspired to have Miss Hewitt sterilized so she would be incapable of bearing children, thus assuring her mother control of her father's $2,000,000 estate in the event of the girl's death.

Both Police Inspector George Engler and Assistant District Attorney August Fournier said they were convinced the operation was illegal.

Although Mrs. Scally insisted she believed she was conducting her examination of the girl at the request of the San Francisco lunacy commission, members of the body denied the case ever had been before them. Dr. Tillman is a member of the commission.

Dr. Olga Bridgeman, head of the public health department's mental hygiene division, said she had not sent Mrs. Scally to examine Anna as Dr. Tillman said.

Fournier, after extended investigation, was caustic in his comment. "Prisoners are provided more legal protection against sterilization than the Hewitt girl," he said.

Local Briefs

While at play on the school grounds, Westminster, yesterday, Paul Harding, 14, of Westminster, fell, fracturing his left leg, Orange county hospital reports showed today. Harding was still confined at the hospital today, and was improved.

William V. Kirkham, 32, of Garden Grove, and Liane L. Holmberg, 30, of Anaheim, have applied for a marriage license in Riverside.

Relative humidity at 3 p. m. yesterday was 73 per cent, according to records of the meteorological station at Santa Ana Junior college. Temperatures ranged from 38 at 6 a. m. to 66 at 1 p. m.

CORONER SEEKING WOMAN'S RELATIVES

Friends and relatives of Margaret Davis, 36-year-old transient, who was taken to Orange county hospital December 27, after being found wandering about the streets of Fullerton in a dazed condition, and who died last night, were asked by Coroner Earl Abbey today to contact him or hospital authorities at once.

When brought to the hospital, Mrs. Davis could give no address, stating only that she was a hitchhiker, trying to get to San Francisco, where she said a sister lived. She said she had been sleeping in barns, on route. She said a son, Elliott Davis, lives at Houston, a village in Pennsylvania. Hospital doctors said probable cause of death was uremic poisoning.

Pending receipt of word from friends or relatives, the body is held at McAnay and Suters funeral home, Fullerton. There will be no inquest.

INCREASE IN TOMATO PRICE BEING SOUGHT

Tomato growers of Orange county and Southern California, under leadership of the Orange County Vegetable Growers' association will demand from the canners an increase in the 1936 contract price over the amounts paid in 1935.

The canners are being invited to send representatives to a conference with representatives of the Orange county organization and two similar groups, the parley to be held in Los Angeles next week.

According to R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau, representatives of the three vegetable growers' associations, representing practically every tomato grower in Southern California, met yesterday in Los Angeles and attended a joint parley.

At the proposed conference the growers propose to lay their problems on the table and will ask the canners to do the same. Last year the price paid growers for their product was $10 and $11, roadside, with the canners paying transportation cost. Under a new law the growers will have to meet a more rigid inspection, this year, and give graded tomatoes, instead of field run product as in the past.

Flaherty said that the growers realize the fact that California canners must meet out-of-state competition and are willing to cooperate but will insist that this year's price be sufficient to, at least, cover production costs.

Organization of the vegetable growers of Southern California originated with the Orange County Farm bureau, Flaherty said, when the local organization was formed. Realizing that Orange county, alone could not succeed in negotiations with the canners, the Orange county organization was expanded to take in both Japanese and American growers in Orange, San Diego, Imperial, San Bernardino and Riverside counties and the western portion of Los Angeles county. Later similar organizations were formed in Ventura county and San Fernando valley.

Orange county, with approximately 60,000 acres producing an average of 60,000 tons of tomatoes annually, is the outstanding tomato producing area in the state.

Officers of the Orange County Vegetable Growers' association are: Clarence Brown, president; Frank Takanaga, vice president; C. J. Cogan, secretary treasurer. Directors are: R. J. Mitchell, A. W. Lindley, K. Tamura and Clarence Nishizu. Lawrence Kokx of Olive, is temporary manager of the association.

Orange county administrative employees of the SRA today faced the prospect of losing their jobs altogether or taking at least a 15 to 15 per cent pay cut. The drastic curtailment of office personnel and administrative salaries was agreed upon at a conference of SRA officials in San Francisco.

In addition to these new cuts, local SRA employees are being reduced to a minimum. Director Terrence H. Halloran announced today. Nine of the SRA employees are leaving today, leaving the administrative staff, once numbering as many as 226, at 55.

Further reductions will be made in the local SRA staff within the next two weeks, when the staff will be reduced to 79, Halloran said. By January 30 the staff will be down to a maximum of 77 persons and less if the case load continues to drop. The SRA here is turning over 400 work orders to the Works Administration on Monday.

New from San Francisco today revealed also that Frank Y. McLaughlin, state SRA administrator, has tendered his resignation to Governor Merriam. In Sacramento Governor Merriam acknowledged receipt of McLaughlin's petition, asking a leave of absence until June 30. McLaughlin asked permission to resign because of the amount of work evolving upon him as state WPA administrator.

The governor said he "wanted to look around a bit" before appointing McLaughlin's successor, and McLaughlin indicated he would be willing to retain his post until a satisfactory candidate could be found.

It was understood the SRA head recommended Charles L. Schottland, assistant administrator of Los Angeles and former SRA representative in Orange county, to fill the position.

1935 RETURNS FOR CENTRAL LEMON ASSOCIATION $200,786

RETURNS OF $200,786.79 were made to growers connected with the Central Lemon Growers association, the past year, according to a report submitted by Roy Rummels, secretary and manager at the annual meeting held today at the Orange Woman's clubhouse. In addition to the payments on fruit for the season Rummels stated that $47,906.77 had been paid growers in revolving funds and for call.

A total of $16,482.05 retains from sales for the season have been made and credited to the growers accounts in revolving funds, it was stated.

Rummels said in part: "Our pack for the season amounted to 114,808 boxes and our loose fruit sales through the Los Angeles distribution plant were equivalent to 8428 packed boxes, making a total output of 123,236 packed boxes or 554 carloads. This is 61 cars less than was shipped during the season 1933-34."

"Our packed fruit sales were $2.98 per box F. O. B. California, returns to growers were $1.16 per cwt, on all fruit delivered to the packing house. Total returns were $200,786.79. We estimate a return from the fruit that has been sent to the by-products plant that will increase our net returns to the growers, five cents per field box on all fruit delivered."

"Production of lemons in California for the year exceeded the crop of 1933-34, which was a record crop, by 45 per cent. Our picks for the year were 16 per cent greater than 1933-34 after having suffered a heavy loss on account of frost damage."

"Uncontrolled or non-prorated shipments of lemons are of sufficient volume to disturb the orderly distribution and sale of any crop of lemons and in such a year as we have just passed through, with a production of approximately 70 per cent more than the total consumption of lemons in any previous year, the 12 or 13 per cent outside of the Exchange were, at certain times shipping double their proportionate share of the total, and far in excess of what the market conditions would justify. This condition can be corrected through the state pro rate, which we still have hopes of being applied to lemons."

When Julius Richter, 80, who gave his address as 138 South Prospect street, Elsinore, to Orange county hospital authorities, but whose automobile registration showed the address of 1124 Elm street, Long Beach, sought to make a left turn into Chapman avenue, from 101 highway, yesterday afternoon, his car collided with one driven by Frank Symmes, 22, of 1518 Ocean avenue, Long Beach.

Richter, whose car was traveling south on 101, suffered two fractured ribs, and Mrs. Marie Symmes, 46, riding in the Symmes car, suffered fractured collar-bone and two fractured ribs. Both were treated at Orange county hospital and sent home.

Ten-year-old Henry Montanalis suffered scratches and bruises yesterday noon when the bicycle he was riding collided with a car driven by Barbara Borchard, 17, of 407 East Hobart, at McFadden street and Orange avenue, city police were informed.

Tony Rodriguez, 14, 219 Flora street, Delhi, suffered scratches when his bicycle collided yesterday afternoon on Delhi road near Halladay street, with a car operated by Leonard Castaneda, 20, of 207 Flora street, Delhi. Both youths were treated at home.

LIONS CLUB HEARS TALK ON ISLANDERS

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Tales of South Sea islanders who walk barefoot on stones heated to 300 degrees Fahrenheit without injury and flora and fauna found nowhere else in the world, but Australia were discussed by Dr. Wilbur S. Tupper of Whittier college, at a meeting of the Orange Lions club yesterday. Alvin Drumm presided.

Dr. Tupper said that an explanation of the ability of certain tribes of the South Sea islands and South Africa to walk unharmed on live coals and hot stones as a religious rite had never been explained by scores of physicians who have witnessed it. Dr. Tupper said he had seen the rites in the Fiji islands.

The speaker had with him a number of boomerangs made by natives of Australia, who, he stated, are the lowest type of humans on the globe, not even building houses or raising food. They are people who believe in magic, he stated, and who think they can start and stop rain by incantations.

APPROVE SEVEN NEW WPA JOBS FOR $256,866

Seven new Works Progress Administration projects calling for a total expenditure of $256,866 and giving work to 365 men and women, have received approval of President Roosevelt and will be started here as soon as allocation of funds is made on the projects, it was announced today by County WPA Director Dan Mulhaddon.

In addition to these seven projects, Mulhaddon received word today of the approval for starting the project for distribution of federal surplus commodities. This will include the distribution of foods formerly handled through SERRA and distribution of clothing and bedding made on WPA production projects. The projects will employ 10 persons and will be started Monday. WPA will furnish $7552 for the project and the local contribution is $1980.

The most important project approved by the president was the county-wide recreational project, operated formerly under the SERRA and to be directed by Fred P. Jayne, head of the PTWW division of WPA here. Under SERRA, as many as 1500 children daily were given opportunity for recreation. Recreational centers will be established in practically every community in the county. The project is written for a year's time and will employ 181 men and 12 women. WPA is contributing $152,556 and the local contribution is $59,713.

Other projects approved were: plant trees along Coast Highway, 10 men, WPA cost $1455, local contribution $425; grading and oiling Santa Ana streets, 38 men, WPA cost $6662, local contribution $3010; Alameda and Santiago storm drain, 73 men, WPA cost $19,818, local contribution $5033; Newhope drainage district improvements, 40 men, WPA cost $8440, local contribution $675; clerical help at Orange County hospital, one man and two women, WPA cost $1320, local contribution $300; clerical help for agricultural commissioner, three men and five women, WPA cost $4404, local contribution, $2054.

Clemente Mayor Said Improving

Mayor A. T. Smith of San Clemente, who suffered a heart attack, and injury to his head in a fall yesterday morning in front of Sontag's store, East Fourth street, was improving nicely today at St. Joseph hospital. Hospital attendants declared he had "a good night."

The mayor, who was 66 years old yesterday, was in Santa Ana with Mrs. Smith, on a business trip at the time of the accident.

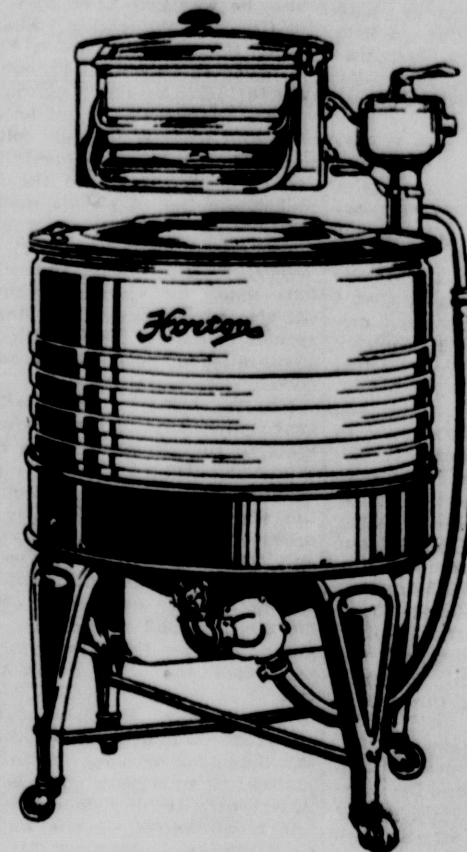

Louis Rochon Is Called by Death

POLLUTION OF BEACHES WITH OIL STUDIED

With a special committee from the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce assisting in the work of checking sources of beach pollution the chamber has received its first report from the Public Beach Co-ordinating committee, sponsors of the investigation. The report outlines the sources of pollution and methods for operation of sample-taking stations.

The committee from the chamber of commerce is co-operating with the Orange County Coast Association in making a study of the sources of beach damage from pollution. Fire Chief Frank Crocker is heading the work at Newport Beach. The report outlines sources of beach pollution lists five possible sources as follows:

Oil seepage from ocean bottom oil springs (will have a high sulphur content).

Drift water from boats (will come within the class of refined oils having a low sulphur content).

Tank cleanings from water ballast used in oil tankers (will be refined oil with a low sulphur content).

Oil from outfall sewer (will have a low sulphur content, but will have a high fat content, as the sewer fat will adhere to the petroleum products).

Pollution from shore wells or pipe lines will be easy to identify, as the pollution will always be close to the location of pollution, and easy to discover).

The report urges that samples of pollution be taken, sealed and sent to the co-ordinating committee headquarters for analysis.

Without Heartburn... Gas... Sour Stomach

MAKE the test that has switched millions to Tums. Munch 3 or 4 of them after eating a meal of your favorite foods or when too much smoking, hearty eating, last night's party or some other cause has brought on acid indigestion, sour stomach, gas, belching or heartburn. See how food "tastes" vanish. You are not taking any harsh alkalies which physicians say may increase the tendency toward acid indigestion. Instead a wonderful antacid that works in an unusual way, by dissolving only enough to correct stomach acid... just like candy. Only 10c a roll. At all drug stores.

TUMS FOR THE TUMMY
TUMS ARE ANTACID... NOT A LAXATIVE

TEXT OF ROOSEVELT JACKSON DAY DINNER ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The following is the president's Jackson Day dinner speech:

"This meeting tonight in the city of Washington, is one of the many hundreds being held throughout our 48 states and territorial possessions and even on board ships at sea, in honor of the memory of a great general and president, Andrew Jackson. To all of you I extend my most sincere and hearty greetings.

"I am happy to stand here tonight and declare to you that the real issue before the United States is the right of the average man and woman to lead a finer, a better and a happier life. That was the same issue, more than 100 years ago, that confronted Andrew Jackson.

"I speak tonight to this Democratic meeting in the same language as if I were addressing a Republican gathering, a progressive gathering, an independent gathering, a gathering of business men or a gathering of workers or of farmers. There is nothing that I say here tonight that does not apply to every citizen in the country no matter what his or her political affiliations may be.

"It is true that we Americans have found party organizations to be useful, if not necessary, in the crystallization of opinion and in the demarcation of issues. It is true that I have received many honors at the hands of one of our great party. It is nevertheless true that in the grave questions that confront the United States today I, as president of the United States, must and will consider our common problems first, foremost and preeminently from the American point of view.

Symbol of Ideals

"To most of us Andrew Jackson appropriately has become the symbol of certain great ideals. I like best to think of him as a man whom the average American deeply and fundamentally understood. To the masses of his countrymen his purposes and his character were an open book. They loved him well because they understood him well—his passion for justice, his championship of the cause of the exploited and the down-trodden, his ardent and flaming patriotism.

Jackson sought social justice and fought for human rights in his many battles to protect the people against autocratic or oligarchic aggression.

If at times his passionate devotion to this cause of the average citizen lent an amazing zeal to his thoughts, his speech and his actions, the people loved him for it the more. They realized the intensity of the attacks by his enemies, by those who, thrust from power and position, pursued him with relentless hatred.

The beneficiaries of the abuses to which he put an end pursued him with all the violence that political passions can generate. But the people of his day were not deceived. They loved him for the enemies he had made.

Backed not only by his party but by thousands who had belonged to other parties or belonged to no party at all, Andrew Jackson was compelled to fight every inch for the ideals and policies of the Democratic republic in which he believed. An overwhelming proportion of the material power of the country was arrayed against him.

The great media for the dissemination of information and the moulding of public opinion fought him. Haughty and sterile intellectualism opposed him. Musty reactionism and hollow and outworn traditionalism shook a trembling finger at him. It seemed that sometimes all were against him—all but the people of the United States.

History Repeats

"Because history so often repeats itself, let me analyze further. Andrew Jackson stands out as a great American, not merely because he was two-listed and fought for the people's rights, but because, through his career, he did as much as any man in our history to increase, on the part of the voters, knowledge of public problems and interest in their solution. Following the fundamentals of Jefferson he adhered to the broad philosophy that decisions made by the average of the voters would be more greatly enduring for, and helpful to, the nation than decisions made by small segments of the electorate representing small or special classes endowed with great advantages of social or economic power.

He, like Jefferson, faced with the grave difficulty of disseminating facts to the electorate as a whole, was compelled to combat epithets, generalities, misrepresentation and the suppression of facts by the process of asking his supporters, and indeed all citizens, to constitute themselves into informal committees for the purpose of obtaining the facts and of spreading them abroad among their friends, their associates and their fellow-workers.

"I am aware that some wisecracking columnist will probably say that good old Jackson no doubt realized that every red-blooded American citizen considered himself a committee of one anyway. Nevertheless, Jackson got his ideas and his ideals across, not through any luxurious propaganda but because the man on the street and the man on the farm believed in his ideas, his ideals and his honesty, went out and dug up the facts and spread them abroad throughout the land.

National Election

History repeats—I am becoming dimly conscious of the fact that this year we are to have a national election. Sometimes at the close of a day I say to myself that the last national election must have been held a dozen years ago—so much water has run under the bridge, so many great events in our history have occurred since then. And yet thirty-four months, less than three years, have gone by since March, 1933.

History repeats—in these crowded months, as in the days of Jackson, two great achievements stand forth—the rebirth of the interest and understanding of a great citizenry in the problems of the nation and an established government which by positive action has proved its devotion to the recovery and well-being of that citizenry.

Whatever may be the platform, whoever may be the nominee of the Democratic party—and I am told that a convention is to be held to decide these momentous questions—the basic issue will be the retention of popular government—an issue fraught once more with the difficult problem of disseminating facts and yet more facts, in the face of an opposition bent on hiding and distorting facts.

That is why organization, not party organization alone—important as that is—but an organization among all those, regardless of party, who believe in retaining progress and ideals, is so essential.

Committees of Organization

That is why, in addition to organization, I make this specific recommendation—that each and every one of you who are interested in obtaining the facts and in spreading those facts abroad, each and every one of you interested in getting at the truth that lies somewhere behind the smokescreen of charges and countercharges of a national campaign, constitute yourself a committee of one. To do this you need no parchment certificate, to do this you need no title. To do this you need only your own conviction, your own intelligence and your own belief in the highest duty of the American citizen.

To act as such a committee of one you will need only your own appointment, an appointment which carries with it some effort, some obligation on your part to carry out the task you have assigned to yourself. You will have to run down statements made to you by others which you may believe to be false. You will need to analyze the motives of those who make assertions to you, to make an inventory in your own community, in order that you may check and re-check for yourself and thereby be in a position to answer those who have been misled or those who would be misled.

After my annual message to the congress last Friday evening, I received many appreciative letters and telegrams from all over the country and I think it will interest you to know that within a few hours I received more of these than at any time since the critical days of the spring of 1933. I have carefully read those letters and telegrams and found two facts which are worthy of repeating to you tonight. The first is that a very large number were sent to me by families who evidently heard my message while grouped together in the family home. "My wife and I want you to know how much we appreciate" or "the Jones family, gathered tonight with our friends, sends you this message of confidence."

Praise Received

In other words, as greatly and perhaps even more greatly than on any other occasion since I have been in the White House, I have been the definite feeling that what I have said about the great problems that face us as a nation received a responsive, an appreciative and an understanding answer in the homes of America. This means a lot to me.

The other interesting fact about these letters and telegrams is the very great number of them that come from businessmen, storekeepers, bankers and manufacturers. The gist of their messages to me is that they appreciate and are grateful for my statement that it is but a minority in business and finance that would "gang up" against the people's liberties. I reiterate that assertion tonight. By far the greater part of the businessmen, industrialists and other employers of the nation seek no special advantage; they seek only an equal opportunity to share in the benefits and the obligations of government.

I am naturally gratefully grateful for this support and for the understanding on their part that the government of the United States seeks to give them a square deal and a better deal—seeks to protect them and to save them from being plowed under by the small minority of businessmen and financiers, against whom I shall continue to wage war.

We can be thankful that people in all walks of life realize more and more that government is a living force in their lives. They understand that the value of their government depends on the interest which they display in it and the knowledge they have of its policies. A government can be no better than the public opinion that sustains it.

Silent On Decision

I know you will not be surprised by lack of comment on my part tonight on the decision by the supreme court two days ago. I cannot render offhand judgment without studying, with the utmost care, two of the most momentous opinions ever rendered in a case before the supreme court of the United States. The ultimate results of the language of these opinions will profoundly affect the lives of Americans for years to come. It is enough to say that the attainment of justice and prosperity for American agriculture remains an immediate and constant objective of my administration.

Just as Jackson roused the people to their fundamental duties as citizens, so must the leadership of this era do it utmost to encourage and sustain widespread interest in public affairs. There was something of the eternal youth in the spirit of Jackson. The destiny of youth became the destiny of America.

Tasks immediately before us are as arduous as the conquest of the frontier a hundred years ago. The nation is still young, still growing, still conscious of its high destiny. Enthusiasm and the intelligence of the youth of the land are necessary to the fulfillment of that destiny.

As I understand the temper of the people, particularly the temper of youth, no party of reaction, no candidates of reaction can fulfill the hope and faith of that spirit. It is the sacred duty of us who are vested with the responsibility of leadership to justify the expectations of the young men and women in America.

We are at peace with the world; but the fight goes on. Our frontiers of today are economic, not geographic. Our enemies are the forces of privilege and greed within our own borders.

May a double portion of Old Hickory's spirit be upon us tonight. May we be inspired by the power

CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL MEET: DEBT REDUCED

Announcement that $1500 had been paid on the principal of the indebtedness for the educational building and that the year was closed with a larger balance in the treasury than last year, was made by Treasurer J. A. George at the annual congregational meeting of the First Christian church last night.

Fine progress in the work of the church was reported by the pastor, the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, and the addition of 77 new members during the year was revealed in a report by A. W. Gerrard, head of the department of evangelism.

The meeting started with a dinner in the educational building, served by the Ladies Aid society under supervision of Mrs. T. D. Knights, and attracted a large attendance of members and friends of the church. Invocation was given by T. D. Knights.

The annual election of officers, on nominations presented by a committee headed by T. E. Williams, showed the following results: Trustees—H. C. Head, T. D. Knights and L. Crasher; elders—M. D. Haskell, John J. Mills and Lewis Williams; deacons—Paul W. Neff, Henry Haskell, Horace Leeding, O. J. Catherman, Charles Lawrence, Joe Braden, Clyde Morrison, Francis Hall, George Berry, W. L. Vose, Grant Henderson and Don Walker. A. J. Swoffer was elected chairman of the board of deacons and T. D. Knights was re-elected chairman of the board of elders. In the organization of the church board the following officers were re-elected: M. D. Haskell, chairman; T. E. Williams, vice chairman; J. A. George, treasurer; and Paul W. Neff, secretary.

During the evening various department and organization reports were submitted as follows: Ladies Aid society, Mrs. Knights; Missionary society, Mrs. J. J. Tibbals; Dorcas club, Mrs. D. H. Tibbals; Women's Bible class, Mrs. John Hansler; Men's Bible class, department of worship; L. Crasher; Orange Avenue Mission church, T. D. Knights; evangelism, A. W. Gerrard; religious education, John J. Mills; pastoral oversight, T. D. Knights; sociability, Paul W. Neff; practical service, Henry Haskell; youth, Frank Pierce.

A large bouquet of flowers was presented to the pastor and his wife in behalf of the congregation by Chairman Haskell, expressing appreciation for the fine work and leadership provided during the past year.

Music consisted of group singing under the direction of Frank Pierce, accompanied by Elizabeth Morgan.

and the glory and the justice of his rugged and fearless life.

The people of America know the heart and the purpose of their government.

We will not retreat.

Card Party Held In Newport Home

TUSTIN, Jan. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crawford, of Newport Beach, were hosts to members of their "500" club at their home Wednesday night. A lobster dinner at 7 o'clock preceded the usual card session. Prizes for high and second high scores were awarded to Mrs. George Prather, Thomas Shelden; Mrs. Millard Foster and George Prather.

Plans were made to hold the next regular meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Crawford. Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Squires were guests, substituting for Mr. and Mrs. Dale Crawford, who were unable to be present.

Club members present, other than the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford, were Mr. and Mrs. Willis T.

Gen. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Phillips, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shelden, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Squires, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Foster, Mr. and Mrs. George Prather, Tustin.

WILL PENALIZE MOTORISTS FOR BAD CAR LIGHTS

Heavy penalties, with possibility of a $50 fine or five days in county jail for first offenders, were promised today in an announcement by E. Raymond Cato, chief of the California Highway patrol, that a state-wide campaign against use of defective or "one-eyed" headlights and defective tail lights is starting immediately.

Chief Cato called upon all traffic courts of California to "back me to the limit" in the effort to banish illegal lights, which have caused numerous bad traffic accidents.

"Orders have been issued to the office of Capt. H. C. Meehan, head of the Orange county highway patrol, as well as to all other highway patrol headquarters, instructing officers to cease warning motorists with bad automobile lights and to start arresting them," Chief Cato declared. "The time has come to end leniency in combating glare and defective lights. In 1934, 150,000 warning citations were issued. Now the campaign will be one of making arrests."

Accept No Excuses
There is no reason for defective lights today as the patrol has authorized more than 1000 garages, battery stations, etc., to check lights free of charge," he continued. "Where adjustments are necessary, a standard rate has been fixed. California's vehicle code recognizes the danger of defective lights as much as the motorist who finds himself driving against glare, or 'one-eyed' cars, and the code provides severe sentences for second and subsequent offenders."

"Courts have the power, in the second offense within a year, to fine offenders $100 or send them to jail for 10 days or both fine and jail them. Third and subsequent offenses within a year can bring a maximum fine of $500 or sentence of not more than six months in county jail, or both fine and imprisonment."

Arrest Violators
In line with orders from Chief Cato, Captain Meehan declared today that from today on, autoists with illegal lights on their cars, would be issued traffic arrest tickets instead of warnings. "At various locations in the county, several officers have made a check once each week on all automobiles passing a given point and many warning citations have been given," Captain Meehan said. "Officers Vernon Barnhill and Dan Adams have been on regular every-night duty to check lights and have warned on the average of 10 motorists each night to have lights fixed. These warnings in the future will be discontinued and arrests substituted in their stead. The car lighting situation in Orange county has been bad for a long time."

"With this campaign, we expect to obtain a much-improved condition on Orange county highways, particularly state highways, and to lessen the danger of accidents due to illegal, faulty lights."

Improvements In Auto Radio Told By Ford Dealer

Numerous improvements have been added on the 1936 Ford six-tube radio, which will sell the set in greater quantities than ever, George Dunton, local Ford dealer, 810 North Main street, declared today, upon receipt of information from the Ford Motor company that almost 350,000 Ford radios were sold in 1935.

The most important change in the radio, from an appearance standpoint, is in adoption of an invisible speaker, mounted above the windshield, Dunton said. The sloping, rounded roof lines remain unbroken and listeners in the car have the benefit of ear-level

Percy Grainger To Give Concert In Los Angeles

Percy Grainger, one of the world's foremost pianist-composers, returns to Southern California after an absence of several years to play a concert at Philharmonic Auditorium January 16, under the management of Merle Armitage. Music devotees of the Southwest are expected to turn out in large numbers to hear Grainger's concert, which will include new arrangements of notable folk melodies.

Temperance Play To Be Given Here

The "Prisoner at the Bar" will be presented at the First Christian church next Sunday evening at 7 p. m. by a cast of 21 local players.

"The Prisoner at the Bar" is a temperance play pointing a strong lesson upon the evils of drink, as depicted by the case of a young man who struck his wife a fatal blow with an iron book-end, while intoxicated. The man is then tried for murder.

George Y. Hammond, as the "prisoner," heads the cast which will include prominent local residents. All the machinery of a court trial will be presented; judge, jury, attorneys for prosecution and defense, and witnesses, will participate in the drama.

The play is being staged throughout the state through cooperation of the churches. It comes highly praised, including the comment of Dr. Roy L. Smith, pastor of the First M. E. church of Los Angeles, who writes: "The presentation of 'The Prisoner at the Bar' at the First Methodist church, Los Angeles, on October 4, was one of the most successful anti-alcohol meetings I have ever attended. The audience completely filled the building, and the drama left them in a mood of great enthusiasm."

No admission charge will be made for the play, but a voluntary offering will be taken. The production was presented at the First M. E. church here several weeks ago, attracting an audience of more than 700 persons.

King Henry III of England kept a pet polar bear in the Tower of London, and allowed it to swim and fish in the Thames.

reception. The chassis case has been shortened and made compact enough to fit beneath the instrument panel and above the steering column. Sensitivity of the Ford radio has been increased and its internal circuit filtering has been improved to keep out external interference, such as that from high tension wires, he added. Instead of having a three-point tone control, a constantly variable tone control is used in the 1936 Ford radio.

JUNIOR LIONS ENJOY FIRST MEET OF YEAR

The Metropolitan den of Junior Lions held the first meeting of the year at the Doris Kathryn cafe this week, according to a report by Willard Miner of Costa Mesa, secretary of the organization. The affair was a dinner meeting and the newly elected president, Lawrence Peck of Santa Ana, presided. The club president was the main speaker of the evening, suggesting plans for future activities of the club, and urging the cooperation of all members. The regular meetings are to be held weekly at the above mentioned location. It was announced. Peck appointed Omar Williams of Garden Grove as membership chairman. A full retinue of committeemen will be named at the next meeting.

Announcement was made that talks by pledges, Bill Mohler and Bill Townsend will occupy the main portion of the program next week. It was also announced that a district board meeting of Junior Lions will be held at the Doris Kathryn cafe next Sunday. Eric Twist, member of the local club and member of the district board of directors, and Omar Williams are delegates representing the local group at the gathering. All local club members are urged to be present at the meeting, as a silver trophy, a traveling prize, is to be awarded for den attendance. Bill Wolfe was a guest at the meeting. Others present were Lawrence Peck, Willard Miner, Omar Williams, Eric Twist, Bill Mohler, Bill Townsend, John Smith, Ray St. Clair, Jack and Robert MacFarland, and Richard Bassett.

Lending On Property Is Increasing

After declining for a period of six years, private and public mortgage lending on farm and home property is showing a substantial increase, according to Ellis C. Diehl, manager of the Santa Ana Building and Loan Association. During the period from 1929 to 1934 a steady decline in outstanding loans was noted, making the reversal in trend particularly noteworthy, he said.

Life insurance companies making loans on both farm and city property, according to Diehl, are showing a preference for improved city property. This is evidenced by the fact that these private lending institutions have outstanding approximately 3.7 times more loans on city property than they have on farms.

Commercial banks and trust companies show an even greater preference for city property, he said. These institutions have outstanding city loans amounting to 5.7 times their loans on farm lands, and savings banks are loaning almost exclusively on city property.

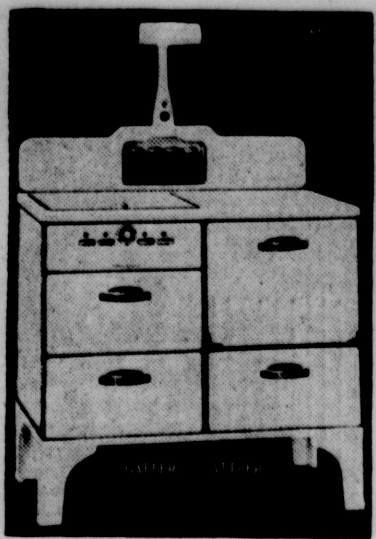

Diehl also pointed out that insurance companies have started changing their loan policy. In the past, he said, they favored short term loans with a small annual amortization. Under the new policy many of the companies are making loans for long periods and requiring complete amortization during the life of the mortgage.

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

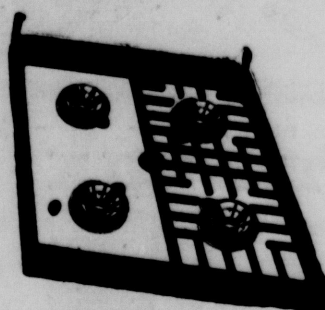

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes
Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than three pounds of waste matter. When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, setting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness. If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day.

MARONEY'S

Don't Be Discouraged Clean Bowel, Stomach Acids Away; Feel Fine!

Mosby's Tablets Sweep the Poisonous Acids From Your System and Then Bloating, Gas, Headaches, Sleepless Nights and Constipation Vanish and Worn Out People Quickly Feel Better All Over—Get Them at McCoy's Drug Stores.

Don't be discouraged! Even though you have tried EVERYTHING for bowel and stomach trouble, DON'T GIVE UP. You may have Bowel and Stomach Acid! A Nation-Wide fight on this "Modern Scourge" is being started. Read this announcement.

ALWAYS CONSTIPATED
Victims of Bowel and Stomach Acid scarcely know what is wrong with them. They can't digest food properly, swell with gas after meals, spit up hot, strong, acidulous liquids, have skin eruptions, coated tongue, thick, bad taste, foul breath, can't sleep right, are headache, worn out and ALWAYS CONSTIPATED. They appear to have all the symptoms of common "bowel and stomach disorder." Yet, "doctoring" for "bowel and stomach disorder" seldom brings benefit, because ordinary bowel and stomach medicines do not reach the acid root of this trouble. So these discouraged, forlorn people continue to suffer—wondering why all medicines fail them—why they can't feel strong and well like normal men and women.

MELT IN STOMACH
Such suffering people will now find

—in MOSBY'S TABLETS—a REAL measure of RELIEF! These tablets melt in the stomach immediately after taking, and the melted tablet substance neutralizes acids. At once there is an easier feeling in the stomach and chest. Within 10 minutes the gas starts leaving you. Distressing flat and painful gas swelling are relieved.

This benefit comes quickly, usually from one tablet! A course of the tablets—three to seven weeks—has an amazing effect upon the stomach organs. If you are a victim of even long-standing indigestion, gas swelling, bloated stomach, spitting up of food and liquids, etc., you should, by all means, take this medicine.

A GREAT LAXATIVE
MOSBY'S TABLETS also are laxative. They contain a combination of cleansing ingredients not often found even in high-priced Special Bowel Compounds. The laxative power of these tablets alone is worth TEN TIMES THEIR COST. They cleanse both the intestines and the bowels and sweep them REALLY CLEAN, bringing out old, black, acidous substance, so foul-smelling it will drive you in haste from the bath room! Then headaches, skin eruptions, worn out feeling and sleepless nights—due to acidous bowel congestion—come to quick end.

These tablets were created—and are being introduced in this city — by Gilbert H. Mosby, acknowledged leader of the Drug Manufacturing World, whose discoveries in the past have benefited more than 20,000,000 people.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— News Behind the News —

BY PAUL MALLON
(Copyright, 1936, by Paul Mallon)

SCOOP
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — The story behind the Morgan hearing is as short as any ever told. It can be written in one word—publicity. The inquiry started off like the headline-grasping grapple of the century.

It is fairly well known that capable Chairman Nye's unannounced purpose is to promote public sentiment for his particular kind of neutrality legislation. He opened the hearing with a three-page stump speech. Copies were available to the press in unlimited quantities.

J. P. Morgan has been a senatorial witness before. He was prepared this time with twice as many pages as Nye. These were delivered in the senatorial manner. But what was smarter, he began giving out advance copies of his speech confidentially to the press in New York two days before. It was in most newspaper offices when Nye started to speak. Thus, he scored a mechanical scoop on Nye and got the headlines in the noon editions for his side. Nye's pals wept.

TRAPPINGS
Mr. Morgan left the midjet at home this year, but in all other respects, his circus was bigger and better than ever. A 40-room suite was required to house it at a hotel.

His army of performers carried brief cases filled with statements on every subject imaginable. Whenever the senatorial inquisitors asked about a French loan or something, he called upon his brief case carriers for Statement No. 123-J or 98-B. These also were available in quantities.

The prize one, however, was an eight-page printed chronology of events leading up to the World war. Some of the events were printed in bold-faced type to catch the eye of casual readers.

STUNNED
The AAA decision may have been the most momentous since Fred Scott, but the following day was the quietest Washington has experienced in a long time. The only reason you did not hear a pin drop was that most of the statesmen were afraid to let even a significant idea fall.

The Senate was not in session. The house, at this momentous hour, devoted itself to the most consequential of all business, the private bills of congressmen seeking money for individual constituents, etc. The only mention of AAA was by Congressman Peterson, of Georgia. He offered to the world as a substitute a bill which he said he had written on his own type-writer in his own office. The cheering from the floor was accompanied by laughter.

President Roosevelt had few calls. No conferences were arranged. His secretary said he would not speak about AAA for some time.

CAUTION
Explanations for this calm-after-the-hurricane were varied. The New Deal crowd said Mr. Roosevelt was wisely awaiting public reaction. He spoke too soon after the NRA decision. A President can go no farther than the people want to go.

A goodly number of Democratic congressmen (particularly those from the South) were mumbling that they did not want to get into a constitutional amendment fight. It requires a two-thirds majority of both houses and three-fourths of the states.

Opponents of AAA muttered personal suspicions that their victory was perhaps a little too big. They were confident the long-range effect would be beneficial, but were doubtful about how to proceed now.

VERDICT
Every insider on both sides had a different personal opinion about the political and economic effect of the decision. New Dealers generally charged the court with playing politics. They admitted the best paying political feature of the New Deal had been wiped out.

But the wariest Republicans were not certain they had been helped materially. They noted that the farm leaders were assembling here to discuss a program which would presumably be tried before the campaign.

NOTES
A hint of the strong feeling within the Supreme court on the AAA may be gleaned from the tone of the minority opinion. It is unusual for three judges to designate the conclusions of their six colleagues as absurd and ridiculous.

An inquiring reporter asked the White House Tuesday if arsenic would be served in the ice cream at the judicial reception that night.

The town of Middlesex, Pa., has erected a big sign over the highway, reading: "Landon was born here."

Congressman Maverick sent letters to the press asking for ideas on the "Crucial Issues of 1936." He wanted to use them in a speech. The almost unanimous response was: "The re-election of Maverick."

The attention of national authorities has been called to a report of the Nassau county, New York, grand jury recommending strengthening of the laws against drunk driving. Eventually every city will have a law permanently revoking the permits of anyone driving while drunk.

There were many government employees at the Jackson day dinner where salaries are less than $5000 a year. They volunteered their $50-a-plate contribution. Incidentally, 155 employees in the interior department bought tickets.

The bonus bill is the only one ever to name specifically the jobs behind it. The Vinson bill starts off: "Whereas the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled Veterans' want immediate cash payment of the bonus, here it is."

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

SPLIT
Anti-Roosevelt Democrats—ex-Governors Smith, Ritchie and Ely—have too much political sense to think that their combined efforts can deny a renomination to the president. But under cover of conspiracies are apparently forming to make the regular Democratic nomination not worth having.

Joe Ely hinted at the game when he announced that he would support Al if the latter became a candidate. Now Mr. Ely is noted for his Yankee caution of speech and the inside word is that he had Al's blessing. Should Mr. Smith act like a willing Barker? When he addresses the Liberty league, the stage will be set to enter him in the first two presidential primaries—New Hampshire and Wisconsin. The "Happy Warrior" retains his popularity there.

Three other states—Rhode Island, Maryland and Georgia—may prove fertile dueling grounds for the insurgents. They might be persuaded to send unopposed delegates to the convention. FDR would still bear the banner but under such an intra-party attack his party would be badly demoralized. It would hearten the GOP and probably split off enough Smith fans to deprive Mr. Roosevelt of many seemingly safe states. It is understood that Jim Farley is not unaware of these Brutus-like schemes.

CLEANUP
Housing Coordinator Peter Grimm has submitted a bullish report on housing construction. Mr. Grimm bases his hopes on two little noted developments. Distress calls for federal refinancing and loans have dropped sharply. Farm Credit districts are now receiving only 50 applications a day instead of 1000 six months ago. Likewise urban dwellers are making less demand on the HOLC. Private money is flowing back into the real estate field at a tremendous rate by means of the FHA's guarantee of mortgages. There is a solid foundation under the structure.

As a result, Senator Wagner's proposed measure will deal entirely with low-cost housing which banks don't care to touch at present. It will provide federal funds for slum clearance. The chief task is to devise mechanism which will substitute local agencies for federal in inaugurating projects and managing them when they are completed. Except for this field, Mr. Grimm plans to pull Uncle Sam out of the housing business whenever private industry takes over.

PENS
The politicians have sent out calls for publicists to write speeches and cook up swasty statements for the 1936 campaign. The presidential contest will be a battle between "ghosts."

Chairman Henry Fletcher is looking around for a man to head the staff of writers he is organizing at GHQ. The Republican congressional committee has hired Edward McK. Lewis, who served as the American Legion's legislative representative at Washington for 15 years. Jim Farley has taken on an able and veteran correspondent—ex-Hearstman Edward L. Roddan—to help out the over-taxed Charley Michelson. And there are more to come.

The rivalry resulted in an amusing incident a few years ago. A certain journalist had half agreed to enlist as a New Deal propagandist for $6000 a year. But the GOP-ers made him a better offer and he accepted. It's a tip-off on the topsy-turviness of political parties and philosophies these days.

U.S.S.R.
Pro-Soviet champions have always blamed Robert F. Kelley, chief of the state department division of Eastern European affairs, for blocking American recognition of Moscow. They held that his backstairs advice was responsible for the frigid attitude of Secretaries Hughes, Kellogg and Stimson. They backed Bill Bullitt of the Philadelphia Bulletin in his unceasing struggle for recognition.

Mr. Kelley recently returned to his desk after his first visit to Russia since before the 1917 revolution. His tour of the industrial regions and the collectivized farm areas opened his eyes. He speaks much more kindly of the economic advances which have taken place under the first and second five-year plans.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Bullitt confides to friends that his ardor toward the Muscovites is cooling. It seems that despite his 18-year championship of their cause they show him no favoritism over rival diplomats. He's just another "foreigner" to the rulers at the Kremlin. And diplomats are human, if not temperamental.

QUIRK
Businessmen who resent government interference in their affairs may grow—and complain—about this one. It supports their charge that Uncle Sam sometimes keeps a "phoney" set of books to prove he can do things better than anybody else.

Private builders squinted when they read in the Monthly Labor Review that construction costs for a certain public project had

CLOSEUP and COMEDY

RUBY KIEHLER IS CONSIDERED ONE OF THE BEST WOMEN GOLFERS IN THE FILM COLONY. SHE SCORES CONSISTENTLY IN THE LOW EIGHTIES.

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By PAUL HARRISON, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 9.—Just as playing tragedy is the ambition of every clown, so does every motion picture actor seem to want to become a film executive. Not many have accomplished the metamorphosis, though.

Low Ayres did; he's a director. So have Arthur Lubin and Jack Conway. Conway was a leading man on the flicker sheets of 20 years ago.

Ralph Graves is a writer now, and Mrs. Wallace Reid, a star of the silents, also turns out scenarios. Wallace MacDonald's stardom in serials seems to have prepared him for his current job as a story editor.

Douglas MacLean and Raymond Griffith were comedians who turned producers. Glen Tryon, another funnyman, has become a director. Charlie Chaplin and Mary Pickford are two performers who also have a hand in practically every angle of the business, and nobody would be much surprised if Miss Pickford attempted a screen adaptation of "Why Not Try God?"

Counting up all, though, you've got to admit that the cloak-and-suit industry has given more executives to the movies than has the acting business.

Rough Reisterers
You probably know that in most cities, when you dial a telephone for the correct time, a dulcet voice says, "When you hear the tone, the time will be 9:36 and 1-2," or whatever the hour happens to be.

Well, that's a handy service for the film colony's practical jokers, horrid people who apparently never sleep. They wait until about 4 a. m., and then begin calling all their friends (if practical jokers have friends).

"Hello," says the drowsy, shivering victim.

"When you hear the tone," the time will be 4:12 and 1-4." Then he hangs a tin pan and hangs up. It's one of the subtler forms of torture.

amounted to only $2.84 a square foot. It was an incredibly low average. With pencil and paper they figured out that this would permit a ceiling only five feet from the floor—a pygmy village. So they made a few inquiries.

They were told that the square foot cost estimates were based on the combined area of ceiling and of Secretaries Hughes, Kellogg and unceasing struggle for recognition. It was a clever method of re? on Rex Tugwell but he may have promised to leave out the ceilings as promenades in future statements.

PINKNESS
FDR has imposed a partial gag down land. An excessively large imposed the censorship too late. Senate Republicans intend to inquire into the rural resetter's contribution to the New Deal. Senator Steiwer's brief case bulges with reports from home that vast sums have been spent in the north-west without producing any results—or farmers. Field agents are said to be riding around in limousines as they purchase broken-down land. Too excessively large swarm of workers gets in the GOP eyes.

Other GOP-ers mean to ask whether Dr. Tugwell speaks the president's views in calling for class warfare. They have their answer already. FDR's words are more provocative than the professor's. Rex must hereafter submit his speeches for advance perusal at the White House not because of what he says, but because he's Rex Tugwell. Ever since the Wirt affair the folks back home have considered him a "pink." It's a color which throws off too vivid a glare under political kilg lights.

NOTES
Nine out of ten men in congress seem to expect the Guffey law to be knocked out....Demand for revision of the social security act is increasing as the tax begins to operate....Agreement on a bonus plan by veterans doesn't mean that the struggle is over—estimates of total outlay vary extravagantly....Hopkins' agency plans to set up "public affairs forums" in various cities....New York City is rapidly growing as a subcapital—government agencies multiplying.

Answer Filed In Suit Over Bill
Miss Frances De Cook, whose address is given as Route 3, Box 437, Anaheim, charged with her sister, Mrs. Colette Little, in a complaint filed December 18 by the Orange County Medical bureau, with failure to pay a $638 medical bill, arising from the care of their brother, Norbert De Cook of the Anaheim address, in 1934 and 1935, today had on file in Judge Kenneth Morrison's court, an answer to the charge, in which she denied agreeing to pay the bill.

Norbert was cared for between August, 1934, and August, 1935, according to the Medical Bureau's complaint, the bureau alleging that the sisters promised to pay $50 per month during their brother's medical treatment but failed to do so.

ART EXHIBIT IS OPENED IN ANAHEIM STORE

ANAHEIM, Jan. 9.—Anaheim's first exhibit of modern art is now at the Danz Piano company store, 112 East Center street, and will remain there through January 25. The work is that of Knud Merrild, considered by California critics a leader among modern artists.

There are 25 works on exhibit, including one, a portrait of D. H. Lawrence, which has been purchased by a widely known collector, Walter Arensberg of Hollywood.

The artist has used wood, plaster, wire, linoleum, oil cloth and glass in creating his pictures. He also shows works done entirely in oils or in water colors, the texture of the painting playing as important a part as the theme in the final effect.

Louis Danz invites Orange county residents to stop and look at the pictures to give them a better understanding of modern art.

MINERAL SOCIETY HEARS INSTRUCTOR

FULLERTON, Jan. 9.—Workings of the laws of light, color and heat of X-rays, Iceland spar prisms, fluorescent and phosphorescent properties of minerals and natural coordinations of matter's primary elements were discussed in a lecture and a demonstration of "Applications of Physics to Mineralogy" by Logan Wheatley, instructor in the Fullerton Union High school, when the West Coast Mineral society met last night.

The speaker was introduced by B. J. Merrill of Fullerton. President F. B. Wallis, of Artesia, conducted a brief business session. A. C. Terrill was elected a director to the California Federation of Mineral societies.

Members of the society will join in a trip to the Palos Verdes hills Saturday. Enroute, the party will visit with a polisher of gems at Lomita. Those attending are to take a picnic lunch and to meet with A. C. Terrill at 208 East Commonwealth, Fullerton.

LOYAL WOMEN TO SPONSOR LUNCHEON

FULLERTON, Jan. 9.—The annual public luncheon sponsored by the Loyal Women's class of the Christian church Sunday school will be January 29 in the recreation hall of the church, with Mrs. B. F. McIlhenny in charge.

Plans were made at a short business meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. George Johnson on North Harvard avenue, where following business a devotional program and social time were enjoyed. The Rev. L. I. Chamlee directed briefly and Mrs. George Riehl directed games.

Assisting Mrs. Johnson as hostesses were Mrs. George Seymour, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Ernest Whipp, and Mrs. J. J. Skinner. Others attending were Mrs. T. K. Gowen, teacher, Mrs. John Mason, Mrs. A. E. McDaniel, Mrs. L. I. Chamlee, Mrs. W. G. Noel, Mrs. W. H. Dryer, Mrs. B. F. McIlhenny, Mrs. Reece Blythe, Mrs. L. A. McGavren, Mrs. O. L. Anderson, Mrs. John Strickland, Mrs. K. P. Siler, Mrs. Walter Bortz, Mrs. Vernon Everett, Mrs. Harry Algers, Mrs. George Algers, Mrs. A. E. Rollo, Mrs. F. T. Chamberlain and Mrs. A. E. Rogers.

Among guests at the meeting, who spoke briefly, were Frank H. Johnson, superintendent of schools here; former District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, former Sheriff Sam Jernigan, William L. Hale, mayor of Fullerton, Assemblyman James Utt of this district, and Charles Van Wyk, Constable Jess Elliott and Herman Zabel assisted in arranging the luncheon.

L. A. School Head To Give Talk At P.-T. A. Gathering

FULLERTON, Jan. 9.—Dr. Martin McNichols, superintendent of the Los Angeles Diocese schools, will address the annual meeting of the Orange County Parochial Parent-Teacher associations at St. Mary's hall Friday.

Arrangements for the county-wide meeting were made at a meeting of the executive board Wednesday night at St. Mary's hall. Mrs. Arnold Kraemer, of Placentia, presided.

The meeting will open at 1:20 p. m. Members of the executive board will be hostesses. They are Mrs. Kraemer, president; Mrs. J. Holland, of Brea; Mrs. J. McNamara, Mrs. Victor Elmers, Mrs. Edward McManus, Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. I. Glass and Mrs. J. H. Wariamont.

Arrange Funeral Of Mrs. Troutman

ANAHEIM, Jan. 9.—Services for Mrs. Mary Jane Troutman, 87, who died at her home, 112 South Kroeger street, Tuesday, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the chapel of Backs, Terry and Campbell. Burial will be in the family plot at Fairhaven cemetery. Dr. Ray C. Harker will officiate.

Mrs. Troutman was born November 16, 1848, in Pennsylvania, and has lived in Anaheim 25 years. She was a member of the White Temple Methodist church and of the Fullerton Women's Relief corps.

Survivors include one son, William I. Troutman of Orange; nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, a brother, William Smawley, and two sisters, Mrs. Amanda Hill and Mrs. Lucinda Mathis, of Anaheim, and third sister, Mrs. Samantha Mills, lives just north of Anaheim on Spadra.

Mojave Chapter To Meet Monday

FULLERTON, Jan. 9.—Mrs. E. E. Smith, of Anaheim, state chairman of literature of the Federated Women's clubs, will address the members of the Fullerton D. A. R. Mojave chapter at their luncheon meeting at 12:30 p. m. Monday in Hughes cafe, according to announcement of Miss Florence Durkee, president.

W. C. T. U. to Hold All Day Session

FULLERTON, Jan. 9.—An all-day devotional meeting will be conducted at the W. C. T. U. session next Tuesday in the ladies' parlor of the Methodist church. Mrs. Elizabeth Munford will be chairman of the day. Mrs. L. I. Chamlee will be in charge of devotions, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Walker of Anaheim, state evangelistic chairman of W. C. T. U. Mrs. Cora Hale will preside.

Y. W. C. A. BOARD ARRANGES FOR ANNUAL EVENT

FULLERTON, Jan. 9.—Preliminary plans for the annual Northern Orange county Y. W. C. A. meeting were made Wednesday when the executive board met at headquarters in the Chapman building. Mrs. A. S. Redfern presided.

Miss Faustina Nanno and Mrs. Arthur Staley were appointed as the committee on arrangements for the annual event which will be the last of January or the first of February.

Mrs. A. C. Terrill presented the plans for the national Y. W. C. A. convention to be at Colorado Springs starting April 29. Mrs. Staley presented the program as it concerns business, professional and industrial problems.

Among those from Northern Orange county who plan to attend the advisors' conference at Riverside Y. W. C. A. January 10 and 11 are Mrs. Archie Ellis and Miss Faustina Nanno, of Fullerton; Miss Irene Freble, of Brea-Olinda; Miss Margaret Varum and Mrs. F. Hawkins, of Valencia High school, and Miss Edna Munford, secretary of Northern Orange county work.

The High School Girl Reserves retreat was announced for February 7 and 8 at Pacific Palisades. Attending the executive board meeting besides Mrs. Redfern were Mrs. Fred Johnson, of Torba Linda; Mrs. Arthur Staley, of Placentia; Mrs. J. Antoinette Nanno, Mrs. Terrill, Mrs. Harold Youde, and Miss Faustina Nanno, of Fullerton, and Miss Munford.

WALTON LEAGUE MEETS
FULLERTON, Jan. 9.—Members of Fullerton Isak Walton league saw three reels of pictures and held a short business meeting at their cabin in Hillcrest park Wednesday night. C. B. Johnson, president, and W. S. Houseworth were in charge of the pictures.

WHY SHOULDN'T I TAKE IT EASY ON WASHDAY WHEN THERE'S A MODERN SOAP THAT SOAKS CLOTHES WHITER AND BRIGHTER WITHOUT SCRUBBING OR BOILING? NOT ONLY THAT, BUT —

Rinso actually makes my clothes last 2 or 3 times longer. That's because Rinso's active suds safely lure out dirt and get clothes whiter and brighter without harsh washboard rubbing. Even stubborn dirt on cuffs and edges yields to a little gentle rubbing between the fingers.

Rinso gives thick, sturdy, lasting suds—even in hardest water. No chips, bar soaps or powders ever needed. Wonderful suds for dishwashing and all cleaning. They get rid of grease like magic. And they're so kind to your hands. Rinso doesn't make hands red and rough looking. Try it—and see!

Grand for washers, too

Rinso is recommended by the makers of 33 famous washers for safety and for snowy washes. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Most women buy the BIG economical household package.

Polish Group To Sue Britain For Fabulous Amount

WARSAW, Jan. 9.—Descendants of Count Strzelecki, the Polish nobleman who did valuable exploration work in Australia and found gold, are preparing to present to the British parliament a claim for $2,150,000,000.

This is the amazing story told in the Polish press and confirmed by Mrs. Sophia Grzechinska, who was a Countess Strzelecka before her marriage. She operates a cafe in Posen while her husband is a commercial traveler.

M. Stanislaw Malewski, a Warsaw lawyer, has been retained to submit this claim to the British parliament.

According to the group of claimants, the fabulous sum is due from Australia because of a gold discovery made by Count Strzelecki, after whom a range of mountains in Victoria is named.

The claim is based on the contention that Queen Victoria granted a share of the output from the "Wellington Gold Mines" because the count discovered this field.

The fortune of Count Edmund Paul Strzelecki when he died in London in 1871 fell to his secretary, John L. Sarwendi, but Polish relatives of the count fought the will before the British courts in 1874 and obtained judgment in their favor, but this decision later was quashed and Sarwendi's rights were upheld.

Among the present claimants are Col. L. Strzelecki, of Warsaw, a former commander of the First Polish Lancers, a priest of the same name, Count M. Strzelecki, a farmer, and M. Slupski, an artist.

Editor Register,

The Townsend plan is being discussed in the homes of all of our citizens today. Undoubtedly there are two sides to the question and I believe the columns of our local paper should carry a discussion and the results of a careful examination of both sides of the question. There should be plenty of publicity regarding the benefits, detriments, and ultimate consequences of such a plan.

In my judgment the present followers of this fantastic "ism" will look back to this movement and wonder why they ever believed in it. Comparisons are dangerous but the Townsend plan reminds me of a child wanting candy, imagining how good it would taste, angry at anyone who keeps it from him but not aware of the stomachache that would follow. A fuller understanding of the workability and consequences is very important.

Enclosed find an article exposing the fallacies of the plan which I hope your paper will copy. I am asking this favor because in a democracy we, the people, need more facts if we are to vote right. While on this subject let me say I am sending this article to the Register because I have noticed that the new owners are giving so much space to the discussion of politico-economic subjects.

This article is a copy of a radio broadcast December 19, 1935 by Fred G. Clark, National Commander of "The Crusaders" entitled "The Townsend Delusion Opens Up."

Yours very truly,
JAMES M. ANDERSON,
Santa Ana.

"Finally the Townsend issue has been brought into open debate. For two years, this most fabulous of all visionary plans advanced in this country in the last century has gone practically unchallenged by either political party or by the press of the country. The reason for this is obvious. Sound business men, sound economists and alert newspaper editors could not be convinced in the early stages of the Townsend Plan that such a fantastic idea could gain enough converts to prove troublesome. When the movement became fairly strong in the Western section of the country, no politician wanted to touch it, because of the fear that the older people of the country would feel that he wanted old folks to starve. We have talked to politicians of all classes who simply passed off the whole Townsend Plan with a shrug of the shoulders. Yet, they would come right back and say: "But I won't oppose it publicly, because everything I say will be misconstrued."

Editors of newspapers have been afraid of the same thing—that the older readers of their papers and the relatives of the older readers would entirely misconstrue the motives of both the editor and the publisher. And, as a result, today there are millions of people in all parts of the United States who have become hypnotized with the argument of the genial West Coast Doctor who is so firmly convinced that he has discovered the Aladdin's lamp in its original form.

"We have repeatedly said that we wish it could be true. We would shout with sincere joy if the Townsend Plan were feasible. The Townsend Planners say they have enemies—what nonsense! Bankers and wealthy people of this country are nearly all identified with industrial operations. With the Townsend Plan operating as its author claims it will, every factory in the country would suddenly find its business doubled overnight. This would be the answer to the most hard-headed manufacturer's prayer. Mr. Townsend is not fighting the profit system—he is not fighting the constitution of rights of private property; therefore, why should the element that would profit most by his plan fight him? The only reason the sound industrialists and business men in general oppose the Townsend Plan is that they know, beyond the slightest question of a doubt, that the Townsend Plan would close every solvent plant in the country. The merchant who is now fighting Townsend would do so if he believed that the good Doctor's plan would double his business—and therefore his profit. The Crusaders have yet to find a business man who would object to having his business doubled, his profits doubled and, above all, to having his tax burden lifted entirely, which is one of the claims put forth by the enthusiastic Townsend Planners.

Why should a banker fight the Townsend Plan? If this country stayed solvent after the Townsend Plan went into operation and business doubled, it would mean doubling the size of commercial bank accounts. Furthermore, if the Townsend Plan were a promise, instead of a menace, as it is, it would bring out tremendous investment banking activity since all factories would have to be re-habited, many new ones would be built, building construction would increase by leaps and bounds and public utilities would expand and all of the money needed in this vast expansion would be raised by bankers through long-term bonds or notes. Would any banker object to suddenly seeing his profitable business double? Most certainly not!

"We know of no man in America who would lose by the Townsend Plan if that fantastic dream were workable. "Now—let's take a look at the other side of the picture. With the Townsend Plan in full operation, who would be left to work? And this would be a serious matter, since the good Doctor's promise put into reality would mean an addition of from 25 to 50 per cent more workmen than were employed at the peak in 1929. In the first place, what will the average husband and wife of sixty years of age do? People at sixty are just as paternalistically inclined as they are at thirty. Suddenly a husband and wife of sixty years will have from four to ten times bigger incomes than they had during the years when they brought up their family. Under the Townsend Plan a husband and wife at sixty will draw four thousand, eight hundred dollars per year. The first thing this couple will do is to bring peace and plenty to their children. . . . take them out of industry . . . take them off the farm . . . take them out of offices and give them a continuous vacation from mowing the factory whistle and the farmstead alarm clock. Since this husband and wife took care of their family on from one-fourth to one-tenth of the amount of the pension, they can and will bring their sons and daughters-in-law and their children together under one roof—or maintain them under their own roof. They won't have to worry about their children's future, because they will get two hundred dollars a month when they get to be sixty!

"Arthur Brisbane intelligently brings out this factor. A father and mother at sixty would be base ingrates to see their children working on farms and in factories when without any possible interruption every moment of their lives they could properly take care of them and let them fish and enjoy the scenery instead of working over the bench, feeding the cows or harvesting fields.

"Now let's get to the next feature: Under the Townsend Plan we would instantly destroy one quality in human beings that has produced much of our prosperity. That quality is THRIFT—and thrift has been considered for centuries one quality that develops character and builds men and nations into greatness and security. Under the Townsend Plan, thrift would become a ghastly joke. What young man would be justified in working early and late and saving his money to pay for a farm which he would have no use for when he had made the final payment on the mortgage? What man and wife with four thousand eight hundred dollars a year income would want to be bothered with a farm or encumbered with a home, if they could live where they like the four seasons of the year? What clerk would work and save and develop good habits of thrift to buy a butcher shop, a shoe store or any retail store or small factory—working long hours to do so—when he wouldn't have the slightest need for any of these enterprises after he has made the final payment on them? And it is this thrift—the inherent desire of man to produce and own something—that has created the activity necessary to establish a great prosperous nation. Here we would have a law which would make the saving of money by the young people of the country a useless sacrifice, and this alone would upset the entire basic principle of modern civilization and destroy the belief every solid character in world's history . . . rich . . . poor . . . or mediocre.

"What will happen to society when either the necessity or the desire to save money suddenly disappears? "Will Dr. Townsend's twenty-four billion dollars, even if it could be raised without destroying us, do the job he says it will do? IT WILL NOT! The wage and salary workers of this country received twenty-two billions of dollars in 1929 and that they received in 1932 and that twenty-two billions of dollars of extra dollars going into pay envelopes did not create the earthly heaven that Townsend talks about. Since twenty-two billions of extra dollars going into circulation through pay envelopes did not create that earthly paradise seven years ago . . . six years ago . . . and five years ago . . . why should this same amount of money going into circulation now do a job it could not do then?

"Dr. Townsend claims that if we put this amount of money into circulation it would practically stop crime. "That's odd! Seven and eight years ago when there were twenty-two billion dollars more going into pay envelopes than now, we had more crime than this country has ever known.

"But—all of this is beside the real point. In all the discussion going on throughout the United States about the Townsend Plan, nearly all commentators miss the meat of the omelette. There is one small kernel around which the whole plan revolves. If the money to pay the twenty-four billion dollars annual pensions were to come out of paper transactions, which amount to from six hundred billion to twelve hundred billion dollars a year, no one would be hurt . . . and the added cost of commodities would be very slight, because it would only take two per cent of twelve hundred billion dollars of transactions to do the job. There is no use running around six hundred and forty acres fighting the Townsend Plan from a million angles when the feasibility of the plan either stands or falls on this one point. Townsend says twenty-four billions in actual pension checks paid from the United States Treasury and collected by the Treasury in the form of taxes would come out of paper transactions and not out of national income. If that is true, then there is nothing more to talk about.

"By all means, give us the plan—since the cost to the public will be practically unnoticeable. But, there is not one economist in America who will assert that this twenty-four billion dollars pension money would not be completely added to the national income. Let's prove this point once and for all, to the satisfaction of everyone.

"Here we will find why not one single recognized economist—not one recognized business man of experience—has endorsed the Townsend Plan. Wages are and always have been a part of our national income. To be explicit: In 1929, the total national income was eighty billion dollars. Wages and salaries amounted to fifty-three billion of that eighty billion. These wages did not come from six hundred billion dollars of paper transactions. They came from the national income and amounted to two-thirds of it. Now, suddenly, the Treasury would pay out in checks, that are exactly the same as salary checks, money that would be paid out just the same as the factory or the government pays out to its employees now. The government would get the money from taxation to fill the pension pay envelopes. Therefore, the twenty-four billion dollar pension fund would come from or be added to the national income of from forty billion to eighty billion dollars and not taken from or added to six hundred billion of paper transactions. This means that the raising of this twenty-four billion dollars would create a twenty billion dollar tax load which would be added to the present ten to fifteen billion dollar tax load of the people of the United States. Here's what it will mean in black and white. Today, every man pays from his income during the year, either in direct or indirect taxes, twenty to twenty-five percent of all he earns, which means that from two to three months of his entire salary goes into taxes—hidden or open. Add twenty billion dollars more and it would mean that each individual would pay from four to six months of his entire salary for taxes, instead of the two to three months that it takes to pay the tax bill now. Worked out in common addition, it means this: The worker today pays from twenty to twenty-five cents of each dollar he earns for taxes, directly or indirectly. Put the Townsend Plan in operation and he will pay from fifty-five to sixty cents of every dollar he earns for taxes. And there is no one living who can successfully contest this statement! Twenty to twenty-five cents of every dollar is certainly burden enough in taxes. Raise this burden to take fifty-five to sixty cents of each dollar we earn and we have inevitable disaster staring us squarely in the face!"

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

For further good address the author, including a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

When the old Bowery Theater was built in New York in 1826 it was the largest theater in America. When the grand opening took place the first show at the new theater was "The Road to Ruin"—a play in which a young spendthrift brings about ruin to his father's bank, and almost has to give up the girl he loves and marry a rich old widow.

The title of this opening attraction at the Bowery theater was prophetic of the theater's destiny. The theater became known as the unluckiest one in the world, and for 35 years mishaps dogged it. Two years after the theater was opened it was destroyed by fire. It was rebuilt by the manager who soon took to drink because of the falling venture—this led to his death and the killing of Charles Young, an actor. In 1836 the building was again destroyed by fire, bringing financial ruin to the new manager who had let his insurance lapse a few days before the fire.

The Bowery was reopened the following year by another manager. Thirteen months later it was again destroyed by fire, insurance this time only partly covering the loss. In 1839 it was opened again, but six years later burned again. For the fifth time, then, the old Bowery was rebuilt, but in 1861 it finally gave up as a theater. Before the war was over, however, it was again made into a theater, but this time only partly covering the loss. In 1839 it was opened again, it survived an uneventful period.

KILL THAT COLD

Give It No Chance to Survive Thru the Use of Half-way Measures!

Treat a cold to kill it, not to coddle it! Many a cold lightly treated turns into something worse. Hit a cold "where it lives"—in the system! That means to take an internal treatment. Hit it with a cold medicine, not with a preparation good for all kinds of ailments. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment you want. First of all, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for colds. Second, it is internal medication and of fourfold effect. First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in the treatment of a cold. Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step. Third, it relieves the headache and fever. Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack. That's the fourfold treatment a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet. Adopt the course of wisdom. When a cold threatens, waste no time with makeshift remedies, but go at once to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two at a time, every four hours. Used in time, Bromo Quinine tablets will often stop a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed of action you want. Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Every drug store sells Bromo Quinine at small cost. Be sure you get what you ask for.

JOHNSONS, FATHER AND SON, IN TODAY'S SPOTLIGHT

Gangway for the Johnsons of La Jolla, young Santa Ana outfielder, who today—both of 'em, father and son, take a bow, Ernie and Don. Ernie is the Boston Red Sox scout, but long before he got that spot he was a fire-devouring shortstop for three American league clubs, White Sox, Yankees and Browns. He never weighed more than 150 but once he challenged to mortal combat turbulent Ty Cobb, a physical marvel, which led the great Cobb to murmur in admiration: "You say your name is Johnson? Well, you're the only Swede ball player I ever saw with any guts."

By devoted routes, including the managerial, Ernie eventually lined up in the Tom Yawkey-Eddie Collins organization at Boston. I don't know exactly why the Red Sox hire a scout for they step out and buy from the Athletics every ball player they really want. But Johnson's services have been highly satisfactory, so they re-

Last year he roamed something like 20,000 miles, as far south as the gulf and as far north as the snowlands of Canada. He was nearly killed by a drunk driver in Muskogee, had to kidnap a pitcher at the University of Alabama to lure him from Cleveland's hawking Cy Slapnicka, now manager of the Indians. Ernie contemplates taking a carload of Orange county rookies with him, sprinkle 'em around Red Sox "farm" teams. He hauled five back last spring. Only one made the grade, Mel McGahey.

Jockey Saunders Is Cleared Of Murder

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 9.—Charges against Willie "Smoky" Saunders, winning jockey in the 1935 Kentucky Derby, in connection with the death of Mrs. Evelyn Silivinski, 24, were dropped today. Walter Schaeffer, 25, race track exercise boy, also charged with the murder, was acquitted last night by a jury which deliberated only one hour and 45 minutes. Sensational testimony implicating Saunders and Schaeffer was given by Mrs. Agatha Mackison, 19, who made the rounds of Louisville night spots with Mrs. Silivinski and the race track figures on the night of Oct. 20. Mrs. Mackison testified that Saunders, who rode Omaha to

11 SIGN FOR RUGBY AT JUNIOR COLLEGE

Eleven men were signed up for rugby at Santa Ana jayssee today and awaiting until next Monday when Coach Al Reboin officially launches practice. The turnout for the initial "discussion" to find out how many are going to participate in the English sport was small but Reboin expects about 30 to be at Poly field Monday. Those indicating their desire to play are Art Craft, Fred Pinkman, Howard Rash, Les Minder, Ed Mossman, Al Tittensor, John Chahndard, Ted Butterworth, Jack Wilson, Bob Brown and Tom Lacy.

LOSS OF DALEY AND URBINE TO CRIPPLE STARS

Hustling George Lackaye today began taking inventory of Santa Ana's baseball stock, and opined his new job as manager of the Stars was no pushover. Lackaye figures some tinkering will have to be done to make the club as strong as last year when it won the first-half of the National Night league race and carried Huntington Beach the full seven games before dropping a thrilling playoff series. Two regulars from that team will not return. Merle Urbine, flashy first baseman, is nearing the end of his preliminary studies at St. Anthony's in Santa Barbara and by summer will be headed toward the priesthood. Leavitt Daley, one of the best and most popular players ever to don a Santa Ana uniform, is the property of Olive. He was traded for Al Reboin just before the Star-Oiler climax games. Daley batted .352 here last term. Reboin led the league in hitting with a mark of .468.

THE LACKAYE STORY

Whether the agitated young man likes it or not, George Lackaye IE and WILL BE the manager of Santa Ana's Stars. He may be interested further in learning that Lackaye was picked TEN DAYS AGO when it became apparent Tom Denney did not care to remain longer in charge. This action was taken at a meeting of the Santa Ana commission held in the Green Cafe, present were Otto Jacobs, John Wilcox, Jim Detrikhe, Lloyd Banks. It was unanimously agreed that Lackaye was the man to replace Denney if and when Lackaye could withdraw gracefully at Westminster, a club with which Santa Ana always has enjoyed cordial relations. When Westminster's Francis Penhall said "I don't blame you, go ahead," it cleared the way for Lackaye. His appointment went in effect as soon as Denney formally asked commissioners not to consider him.

Youel, Flood Co-Captains Of Saint Five

Forward Erwin Youel and Guard Bill Flood, both seniors, were elected co-captains of Santa Ana high school's basketball team at a meeting of lettermen yesterday. Youel completes three seasons of varsity competition this year. He also served as leader of last year's football squad. Flood played one term of Class B basketball before turning out for the first string. He and Center Ed Eastham were picked on the all-star team at the Southern Counties tournament in Huntington Beach last month.

RETZLAFF TO STAKE ALL ON QUICK K. O.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Admitting frankly that his only hope for victory lies in a quick knockout, Charley Retzlaff, Duluth's erratic heavyweight, said today he'll depend on one punch to defeat Joe Louis in their scheduled 15-round fight at the Chicago stadium Jan. 17. "The odds are all against me and I'll lose on points if I go the route," the big slugger said.

Beedle, Card Tackle, Held For Observation

SAN JOSE, Jan. 9.—Police to train, breaking dishes and milk bottles and keeping people awake with the noise he was making. The Southern Pacific policemen boarded the train at Salinas and quieted him by talking football, authorities reported.

DALE BEEDLE
Breaks Dishes And Bottles

Beedle, regular right tackle on the Stanford team that defeated Southern Methodist university in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, was returning to school from the Los Angeles area. His home is in Miami, Ariz. At Stanford headquarters, authorities said they had been informed of the incident and had been told Beedle was the youth in custody here. They said he had played all but a few minutes of the Rose Bowl game and so far as they knew had not been injured.

ROW WITH BARROW, YANKEE BUSINESS BOSS, COSTLY TO BABE RUTH LATE IN CAREER

By HARRY GRAYSON
(Sports Editor, NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—A wild kid's row with Ed G. Barrow proved costly to George Herman Ruth in the serene and yellow of his career. When the Ruthian eye cast ambitious glances at the driver's seat, Barrow, his nemesis, always was there to thwart the old home run king. Ruth wanted to manage the New York Yankees when little Miller Huggins, the man who straightened him out and whom he had learned to admire, died in 1929, but Barrow, business manager of the club, came up with a surprise choice in Bob Shawkey in 1930. That Ruth was never to be given the opportunity to which he was clearly entitled became evident with the appointment of Joe McCarthy in 1931. Ruth was something of a bad boy when he played with the Boston Red Sox, managed by Barrow in 1918 and 1919. It is reported that on one occasion, while Ruth was pitching the Red Sox to their last American league pennant in 1918, Barrow locked the clubhouse door and suggested to the Babe that they have it out. The Babe said to have walked out. It was Barrow who first saw Ruth's potentialities as a long-range hitter, and switched him to the outfield where the home run records that followed were made possible.

BARROW THWARTS RUTH

Ruth and Barrow never did get along, however. They were no closer together when Barrow was lowered to New York in 1921. They were still far apart when the Babe left the Yankees for the Boston Braves last spring. And now the breach between Barrow, crowding 68, and Ruth, who will be 42 next month, is wider than ever. Col. Jacob Ruppert undoubtedly would have given Ruth a whack at managing the Yankees, but ever since engaging Barrow, the brewer has left the direction of the outfit in the hands of that shrewd executive. Barrow has an elephant's memory and plainly was convinced

RETZLAFF TO STAKE ALL ON QUICK K. O.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—Admitting frankly that his only hope for victory lies in a quick knockout, Charley Retzlaff, Duluth's erratic heavyweight, said today he'll depend on one punch to defeat Joe Louis in their scheduled 15-round fight at the Chicago stadium Jan. 17. "The odds are all against me and I'll lose on points if I go the route," the big slugger said.

LEN LOCKHART GETS 16 POINTS IN 42-25 UPSET

Showing that their victories over Oceanside-Carlsbad and Compton jayssees were not due to a run of good luck, Coach Al Reboin's Dons moved into the realm of the Southland's stronger "small college" hoop teams when they scored a stunning upset over the Pomona college varsity, 42-25, at Claremont last night.

STANFORD BOARD MEETS TO FILL SCHEDULE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 9.—The Stanford board of athletic control may take up at its meeting tonight the question of selecting an opponent to fill the open Oct. 17 date on the university football schedule, Don Liebenfelder, public relations director, said today. It was reported elsewhere the board would select either San Jose State or Fresno State to fill the date, but Liebenfelder refused to confirm that report.

Guard Lockhart figured prominently in the surprise victory with 16 points. Always a dangerous marksman, the Dons' canny defense man was especially accurate from deep court. With Lockhart's sharpshooting from mid-court to draw out the Pomona defense, Fred Erdhaus, center, was able to slip in shots from under the basket. Erdhaus was second in the scoring race with 12.

The margin of victory might have been even larger but Coach Reboin substituted freely, using all 11 men who made the journey to Claremont.

Lineups:
Santa Ana (42) (25) Pomona
Lacy (4) F Golleng
Stanley (4) F Groder
Erdhaus (12) C Eschebask
Henry (2) G (5) Bower
Lockhart (16) G (6) Longacre
Substitutes:
Santa Ana—Buchfink, Nissley (6), Browning, Jennings, Riggs, Bower, Penney, Maple, Smith (2), Jye (2), Condit (2), Kinnear, Buskman.
Score by Halves
Santa Ana 15 29—42
Pomona 10 15—25

Grogan-Davis Bout Last For Judges?

Judges may be discontinued for the boxing program of 1936 tomorrow night at the Orange County Athletic club when Eddie Grogan, California Golden Gloves middleweight champion, defends his laurels against Jimmy Davis, hard-socking Negro in the final bout of a triple main event. Although Promoter Sam Sampson has not been given official sanction to discontinue the judge system of deciding winners, he said he would meet with Inspector Tom Cox today and arrive at a definite understanding.

Lupe Cardoza may make his final amateur fight when he meets Matty Matos in one of the features. Cardoza leaves Saturday to compete in the C. Y. O. tourney at San Francisco, after which he may turn professional. The Bill White-Indiana Al Grayson lightweight scrap is expected to be a slugfest match. Other bouts: Maxie Moore vs. Al Flores; Jimmy Woodruff vs. Chief Tillagute; Julian Estrada vs. "Bang" Barrago; Art Arroya vs. "Frenchy" Salazar and Paul Saucedo vs. Larry Ledford.

COACHES SEE MULTIPLE BOWL GAMES AS NEW PROBLEM

Dr. Gus Dorais, head man at the University of Detroit and chairman of the public relations committee of the Coaches' association, is not sure that there is room in the football set-up for imitators of the Rose Bowl game.

"There was some justification for the Rose Bowl game," said Dr. Dorais, who flipped Notre Dame passes to Knute Rockne during their playing days. "It was first in the field. It presents a gigantic spectacle and, as a rule, arouses genuine interest throughout the country. It has gathered a certain amount of tradition. A new problem, which is annually becoming more serious, now confronts college football," Dr. Dorais told those attending the coaches' convention in New York. "The problem is the ever-increasing number of Bowl games and preseason charity promotions. We now have besides the original Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl, Sun Bowl, the Feast of the Sun, and the Blue Bonnet."

Dr. Dorais later discovered the Dust Bowl in Kansas, and did not bring up the Ice Bowl battle in his own Detroit stadium between the professional Detroit Lions and New York Giants in mid-December. "Are these games, promoted by outside interests, a healthy appendage to our college game; or are they, as some contend, a cancerous growth gnawing at the heart of the eridiron sport?" continued Dr. Dorais.

FIRST DEFEAT COSTLY

"Have the colleges the right to permit the exploitation of students in these promotional affairs? Your committee feels that it is time this Coaches' association defines a policy toward these games." "Too many teams are pointing for this bowl or that," explained Dr. Dorais. "That places a greater emphasis than ever before upon victory or defeat. It is bad psychologically for the players and puts an added burden on the coaches. When a squad has been defeated once, the public, knowing that it has been eliminated from bowl consideration, loses interest. So do the players. They have too little zest for the

O'Mahony Flattened By Jilted Challenger

HOLYOKE, Mass., Jan. 9.—After flattening Danno O'Mahony twice in an informal wrestling bout last night, Yvon Robert, a French-Canadian, claimed the world's wrestling championship held by the Irishman. Robert pinned O'Mahony with a legitimate toss and then knocked him cold with a punch in an unscheduled melee that precipitated a riot.

O'Mahony was scheduled to meet Frank Judson of New York, whom he threw in straight falls in 34 minutes. Before the regular bout started, Robert, the titleholder's most persistent challenger, was introduced from the ring; instead of leaving, he defied his overcoat, a sweater and trousers, emerging in wrestling trunks.

The blow and fall knocked O'Mahony unconscious, and after immediate attempts to revive him were unsuccessful, he was carried to his dressing room.

Southern Boys Praise Duvall, Colored Tackle

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—One of the best yarns heard at this year's football coaches' meeting was told by Pete Cawthon, Texas Tech coach. It was about his team playing against Al Duvall, Negro tackle on the Loyola (Los Angeles) team, last fall. Tom Lieb, Loyola coach, wrote Cawthon before the game, offering not to use Duvall if Texas Tech would keep its best player on the sidelines.

"That was a fair proposition," said Cawthon, "but Lieb had me worried because he also said in the letter that Duvall had a great following in Los Angeles and would draw 6000 customers by himself. I had hunch that the boys wouldn't want to play against the colored boy, but I kept thinking about how much those 6000 customers would pay at the gate. I knew we needed that extra money but I couldn't figure out what to do. So I decided to put the proposition up to the boys themselves and I got my big surprise right then. They voted unanimously to let Duvall play, and that's the first time I ever heard of a bunch of Southern boys agreeing to let down the bars and play against a colored athlete. They all took the attitude: 'We'll see what he's got.'"

"The game was the cleanest you ever saw. The boys told me Duvall not only was a fine sportsman but the greatest tackle they had ever run up against. Duvall told me: 'You know, Mr. Cawthon, your boys played me cleaner than some of these coast teams do.'"

Laguna Realtors To Hold Installation Jan. 18

BOARD SEEKS CITY PLANNING ORGANIZATION

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 9.—Addressed by two officers of the California Real Estate association will be highlights of the next meeting of the Laguna Beach Realty board January 18, when officers for the coming year are to be installed. The meeting will be held at noon in the White House cafe.

According to the committee in charge of arrangements for the meeting, the principal address will be given by Charles B. Shattuck, president of the state association. Glenn D. Willaman, executive secretary of the state organization, will be the other speaker.

According to members of the committee in charge of the dinner Shattuck probably will discuss the state association's proposed program for 1936 and Willaman will talk on co-operation of the state group with the local realty board. Contrary to the general custom the realtors will open the meeting to the public, extending a particular invitation to property owners. In urging property owners to attend the meeting members of the board stressed the importance of their attendance if they are interested in supporting the group in its fight against any legislation to place an ad valorem tax on property.

Officers to be installed are: J. R. Talbert, president; Mrs. Agnes Yoch West, vice president; David Pinter, secretary, and Roy Peacock, delegate to the state convention.

The board met yesterday to discuss plans for the installation and to receive suggestions for the 1936 program. At a previous meeting President-elect Talbert had requested all members to submit suggestions. One submitted yesterday and given unanimous approval was to obtain official recognition for a city planning commission. It was suggested that the Laguna Art association be asked to name one member the Realty board one member, one by the city council, one by the chamber of commerce and the four members name the fifth. The city council would be asked to approve the committee and give it official recognition. At yesterday's meeting it was pointed out that a previous planning committee, led by the late Anna Hills, had been responsible for adding several acres to Heister park and for other civic improvements.

ARRANGE PROGRAM FOR LAGUNA CLUB

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 9.—The Ebell club will sponsor a program of music by Cleo Allen Hibbs, composer, pianist and singer, in the sun room of the Hotel Laguna Friday evening. Mr. Hibbs will submit a group of his own compositions, including some given at the Ford bowl at the San Diego exposition last summer.

The nominating committee selected for 1937 includes Mrs. Harry Horn, chairman; Mrs. Eleanor Jones, W. E. Davis, B. F. McKinnney, H. H. Haggerty and Albert Moon. Mrs. H. H. Haggerty, Mrs. C. E. Reed, Lewis Robinson, Emanuel Bastady and George Cole were the nominating committee for the current session.

Mrs. A. E. Rayburn will be director of music, Mrs. Perol Smith, organist, and Mrs. Lillian Neal, assistant organist.

Retaining offices were L. D. Jaynes and A. E. Rayburn, trustees to 1937; trustees to 1938, C. R. Allen and Ormiston Kee; deacon to 1937, C. E. Crumrine; deacon to 1938, Walter McKenzie; deaconess to 1937, Mrs. C. E. Crumrine; deaconess to 1938, Mrs. Walter McKenzie.

A 6:30 o'clock covered dish dinner attended by more than 100 persons preceded the business session. Women of the church were hostesses.

The monthly cafeteria supper sponsored by the aid will be held at the church tomorrow evening from 5:30 until 7 o'clock.

PARTY PLANNED

BUENA PARK, Jan. 9.—Plans for a Valentine party with husbands of members as honored guests were made at the meeting of the Friendship Bible class Tuesday afternoon in the Congregation. al church social hall.

Routine business followed a covered dish luncheon with Doris Spohn, Mrs. Swain and Gladys Hardcastle as hostesses. Kitchen supplies were purchased for the church club cupboard.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Against the wishes of her grandmother, aristocratic Mrs. WILLIAM CAMERON, DANA WESTBROOK marries DR. SCOTT STANLEY.

Before her marriage, rich RONALD MOORE had been in love with her. NANCY, Scott's half-sister, loves Ronald, but hides her feeling behind a disdainful attitude.

Scott finally arouses Dana's jealousy. After a misunderstanding, she returns to her grandmother's home. Mrs. Cameron uses her influence to make the separation permanent, and the break between the young couple widens.

Ronnie is a comforting friend, but Dana remains desolate. Finally, believing Scott loves Paula, Dana decides to divorce him.

Scott believes Dana left him because she was tired of being poor. He becomes a partner of the city's most successful physician, DR. OSBORNE. Dr. Osborne is called when Dana's grandmother becomes ill. Scott goes to the other doctor's place. After he leaves Dana hears a low whistle from the garden and rushes there, expecting to find Scott.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

The bench was illuminated by a winter moon. The path where Dana and Scott had danced two summers before was a broad white ribbon in the moon's cold light. But there was no one at all in the garden. No hatless, blond man with a teasing light in his eyes and an impudent grin.

Gaunt trees, shorn of their leaves, rustled eerily in the wind, and strange, stark shadows moved about her. Dana walked slowly toward the house.

In the doorway stood Aunt Ellen. "Dana! What could you be thinking of—coming to the garden on a November night. I couldn't imagine what had happened when you rushed down the stairs. So I followed you, and then I couldn't believe my eyes. You mustn't do this again. You might have pneumonia!"

"It is cold out here," Dana answered in a lifeless voice. "No, I won't come again." After all, when you came to the garden, there was nothing. Perhaps a mocking bird in the tree had imitated that whistle so clearly. A mocking bird.

Aunt Ellen looked tired and discouraged. Dana slipped her arm about her aunt. "After supper you'd better tuck yourself into bed. This has been a stiff day for you."

"Well, everything's all right now," Aunt Ellen said. "Now that Agatha's going to pull through." Dana was remembering something. Grandmother was going to get well, if she would diet and keep quiet a few days. But Dana had made a promise, and she would stick to it. Grandmother had said

It was best for her to marry Ronnie. Grandmother was right, of course.

Aunt Ellen had thought that Scott would come around and plead for forgiveness on his knees. That was the way men did in the '30's and '40's. But Grandmother was wiser. She knew that in these days a past love is quickly forgotten.

Dana dressed carefully that evening, touching up her lips to extra brightness. She wore a dress Ronnie particularly liked—a dress of sky-blue, made on slim lines with a youthful collar and big sleeves. The girl in the blue dress, in the mirror, had bitter eyes and her red lips had a mocking curve. All she touched up in the world would not hide that.

Ronnie was waiting downstairs. When Dana appeared he would notice the blue dress. Ronnie was going to be one of those husbands who noticed clothes. Set got only an effect, missing details entirely. Ronnie would notice, too, the subtle change in her tonight. He would not know that everything she had done had been planned. That the invitation in her eyes was as deliberate as her previous efforts to discourage him had been.

"Dana," said Ronnie, as they sped swiftly along in the crisp night air, "I went away last summer because I wanted you to miss me. I stayed away hoping you would miss me so much that you'd never want me to leave you again. Child's stuff. But that was the way it was with me. That's the way it is now. I guess one place is as good as another to tell you. I want you. Will you marry me?"

"Nice of you to want me, Ronnie," Dana said in a husky little voice. "Dana, say yes."

Dana smiled, and nodded her head. Ronnie stopped the car. "Make it soon," he pleaded. "I've been so lonely. I want you so much! There isn't any use in waiting. Is there?"

"Soon," Dana laughed. "That's the way I always make my marriages."

Even in the gloom, she could see the shocked expression on Ronnie's face. "Ronnie," she whispered. "you'll have to be patient with me." Ronnie answered ardently. "All I want is the chance. I promise you're never going to be unhappy again." He took her in his arms.

mother of forgotten houses had touched the Cameron house. And let the old place throbbled with vitality.

Dana had waited until her grandmother was well, and then one day had broken the news. "We won't tell anyone," she said. "We're planning to go off one night soon, drive to Lakeview and be married. I couldn't bear any public life. And Ronnie doesn't want it either. Afterward we will go on a honeymoon. Take a cruise—that's what Ronnie wants."

Lines of care were lifted from Mrs. Cameron's face. Aunt Ellen had tried to smile. Dana saw, but couldn't manage it. Sentimental old dear!

Sarah's black face shone with excitement. Nothing could happen in the home without Sarah knowing about it.

"Not a word of this, Sarah," Mrs. Cameron warned through long-lashed eyes. Miss Dana and Mr. Ronnie don't want anyone to know until after they are married."

"Yes, Ole Mis! Nobody could drag it out of me."

"There'll be lots to do. Get some cleaners in here tomorrow. I wish there was time to have those draperies taken down and cleaned. Have Jake get in that garden and rake up all those leaves. We'll have the kitchen painted with some of that quick drying stuff they use now."

Dana listened, a faint smile on her face. The news of her plans to marry Scott two years ago had been received so differently. She mustn't think of that now. She must mark off those two years. From now on, it must be as though they had never happened.

"Have you told Nancy?" Mrs. Cameron turned her beaming face toward Dana.

"Not yet." "She's upstairs in her room." "I'll go up," Dana said. Nancy had washed her hair and was sitting before the fire, letting it dry in a Gypsyish tangle. With the wailing looks about her thin face, Nancy looked really pretty. Her eyes were charming under her straight-lined brows. And she had a pretty mouth.

"Yes," said Dana bewildered. "You're going to marry Ronnie."

"Nancy, you're not pleased?" "Pleased!" Nancy was laughing suddenly, hysterically.

So Ronnie had been right that day. Nancy did hate him. Dana spoke stiffly. "I'm sorry you feel that way about Ronnie. It's hard to understand how you could dislike him when he's so fine and when he likes you so much, too?"

Nancy's long lashes swept her cheeks as she lowered her eyes. "I imagine you're going to tell me you're in love with Ronnie, Dana," she said in a low voice. "Well, you can spare the words. But I suppose it doesn't matter. Nobody knows the meaning of the word nowadays."

Dana said in a low voice. "Ronnie's terribly fond of Ronnie." "Through with the kind of love you mean. I hope I'll never love like that again!"

"And what about Ronnie?" "What difference does it make?" Dana said slowly. "Lots of marriages are one-sided."

Nancy said. "I think you are terrible. And I'm afraid I can't wish you happiness. I'm pretty certain you won't be happy." Her level, scornful voice followed Dana to the door. "You won't need happiness with Ronnie's money."

"I will be happy with Ronnie," Dana told herself wildly. "Happiness is peace of mind and not a fierce hunger. It's having beautiful clothes and a magnificent home and a yacht and high powered cars that stretch from Magnolia to Elm street. It's sitting on a throne with everybody envying you and catering to you."

She was weeping her heart out, because in spite of the brave words, Nancy was right.

EDUCATOR SEES GLOOMY FUTURE FOR U. S. UNLESS FEDERAL SPENDING STOPPED

Speaking in the vein of one who "has his feet on the ground," reads a gloomy future for the United States unless government expenditure is stopped, but withal finds life amusing, Dr. Frederick P. Woelner, Professor of Education of the University of California at Los Angeles, entertained 60 members and guests of the Orange County Peace Officers association, at the association's regular monthly dinner meeting, held last night at James cafe.

Dr. Woelner spoke on "The Inevitable Trend," after his introduction by Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, who described the professor as "an educator with his feet on the ground."

Outwitting Depression
"All we need have, to outwit the depression, is the ability to rise above the situations as they arise," Dr. Woelner said. "Before we get back to normal life, we will have new, serious situations to face. We must say to God, when they come, 'All right, you set 'em up and we'll bowl 'em over.' We must not get excited about our personal records of success or failure during the depression, for it is a record of success to have merely lived through such a period."

Dr. Woelner blamed the expense of government, "not on any particular political party," but upon a system which creates so many laws "that 8,500,000 people are now feeding at the public trough." He decried "the man who continually hollers 'there ought to be a law.'" He stated a Harvard professor recently checked and found 1,500,000 laws on the statute books. "If I were a legislator, I would vote to kill most of the laws and vote against all new ones, until our system of bureaucracy by which so many find their chief job in holding down an office, is punished," he said. "This system of personalized government by which men climb the employment ladder, kissing the foot of the man above and kicking the man below, in the eye, will eventually lead to dictatorship such as we see in Germany's Hitler and Italy's Mussolini today. What we must have, as our wise leaders of the period when our nation was formed, have said, is a society of laws and not men, and the fewer laws, the less unhappy our citizens will be. A minimum of law means a maximum of freedom and happiness."

Forget The Future
"We so often forget that public buildings constructed by the government must be maintained for years after their erection," he continued. "Therefore, if we continue to build them, the cost of government will go up and up, finally to cause the bankruptcy herd which has occurred in Europe."

"The misery in Europe is due to inhibitions of their laws. We must base our future happiness on the American tradition and common-sense."

Dr. Woelner prophesied war in Europe soon.

"We have heavy seas ahead this year, to battle through," he said, "heavier one in 1937 and worse ones still, in 1938, unless we stop spending. We will have to pay for the spending some day. It is not a political party matter, but a battle between the extreme conservatives and extreme radicals. We must seek a middle course of common-sense. We must not become like Europe."

War Inevitable
"War is inevitable in Europe. The nations of Europe are all ready to go, and there will be a major war there in 1936 or 1937. America should sit tight and watch the show from the sidelines, look out for herself and invest her money where it is to her best advantage. My prophecy is there'll be a good show to watch in 1936 and we will not be bored by the year's happenings."

organization last night. Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard was program chairman and Sheriff Logan Jackson, president of the group, chairman of the business meeting which followed Dr. Woelner's talk.

Jose Torres, Albert Hernandez and Paul Cruz, with several Spanish musical numbers and Lucille Anderson and Doris Murillo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Sargent, with two tap dances, entertained.

In the absence of Mayor Fred Rowland, Supervisor Jerome welcomed the visiting peace officers from other areas of the county to Santa Ana.

EXAMS TO BE GIVEN FOR FEDERAL JOBS

Six government posts in the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, are open for college graduates who have specialized in horticultural work, according to an announcement today by Frank Cannon, secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners at the post office here.

The positions are: Senior geneticist, $4600 a year; cytologist, $3800 a year; morphologist, $3800 a year; physiologist, $3800 a year; associate pathologist, $3200 a year; and assistant physiologist, $2600 a year.

Announcing the examination Cannon said that applicants will not be required to report for examination but will be rated on their education and experience, and on publications or a thesis to be filed with the application.

The applicants, he said, must have been graduated with a bachelor's degree from a college or university of recognized standing upon the completion of at least 118 semester hours, with major work in certain specified subjects related to the positions. In addition, they must have had responsible research experience in the field of horticulture corresponding to the position for which they apply. A certain amount of postgraduate study may be substituted for experience.

Mexican Epworth League Groups In District Meeting

The Orange County Mexican Epworth leagues held their monthly district meeting at the Mexican Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday evening.

Numbers on the program were a violin solo by Sol Gonzales followed by a choir number by the Fullerton league under the direction of the Rev. Alphonso Dominguez.

A trio number was played by Sol Gonzales, violin; Baltazar Garcia, mandolin, and Mrs. J. C. Palacios, piano. "Sorority Waltz" was then played by a quartet with Joe Ortiz playing the clarinet, Sol Gonzales, violin; Isaias Granados, guitar, and Baltazar Garcia, mandolin. A quartet composed of Isaias Granados, bass; Bernie Granados, baritone; Arthur Cardon, second tenor, and Ines Granados, tenor, also featured a selection.

During the business session it was voted by the assembly to have the following district meeting in Costa Mesa. The meeting ended with a sermon, "The Past and the Future" by the Rev. J. C. Palacios of Santa Ana. President Ramon Sandoval presided.

THOUSANDS OF TURKEYS AND CHICKENS BORN EVERY WEEK AT CHILDERS HATCHERY HERE

By MALCOLM BOSTWICK

Out at 618 North Baker street, there are more "Peeping Toms" in the making per week per square inch of space than on any similar area for many miles around. That goes for peeping chicks as well as "Peeping Toms" for the location is headquarters, on a four-acre tract, of the Childers Hatchery where 7500 turkeys and approximately 30,000 chickens are incubated every week. The hatchery is one of Santa Ana's finest but least-known industries.

Mrs. W. C. Childers, who has taken complete control, operation and ownership of the hatchery since Mr. Childers passed away a year ago, has just completed installation of two new, expensive, latest-model incubators of 65,000-egg capacity each. And today marked beginning of a construction job for raising the roof of the main building three feet and changing it from a solid roof to a sky-lighted one. The construction also will include remodeling of the three "holding" rooms wherein are kept temporarily, 8400 baby chicks and baby turkeys, held in those rooms for several hours pending their sale and delivery.

Operated 16 Years
The Childers Hatchery has been operating here for the past 16 years and for the past eight years, the incubators have never stopped turning out the fluffy little birds for which they might be termed "mothers."

Mrs. Childers, who also operates as a part of the organization, a chicken ranch at Arcadia, where 25,000 chickens are grown, is assisted by a regular crew of workers which includes her son and daughter, V. E. and Tessie Childers, who work at the hatchery, here. Strange as it might sound, Will S. Hatch, former Tustinite, is in charge of the Childers Arcadia ranch. On the ranch are 15,000 laying hens which help supply the hatchery with necessary fertile eggs for incubating of chickens. Besides the eggs for hatching, supplied to the local plant, the ranch sends out a thousand dozen fresh eggs every week for home consumption. At one time, 1780 dozen eggs in one week, were sent to markets throughout Southern California for sale to housewives.

Biggest Plant in State
While the capacity of the Childers Hatchery, which is considered tops among the state's finest hatcheries, is not so large as the reputedly "largest plant" in the state, at Petaluma, the local plant does rate in production with foremost plants in the state, Mrs. Childers stated.

Each of four all-electric incubators, automatically controlled and temperature-regulated by the Bristol telechron clock-control system and including the two recently purchased new ones, has an egg capacity of 65,000. Three hold 52,500 eggs. An eighth all-electric incubator, smaller in size, has a capacity of 15,000 eggs. At present, four of the large incubators are in use, new steel egg trays having just been installed in all of the older incubators to replace the wooden trays. The change to steel egg trays increased the capacity of the older incubators.

Eggs Are Hatched
The fertile turkey eggs hatch at 28 days and the chicken eggs at 21 days. The modern incubators are so constructed that a 99-degree temperature is maintained constantly in the incubators; in the winter, if the temperature drops, the automatic Bristol clock regulator touches off the electricity and moves the temperature up to normal and, in the summer, a water cooling system automatically keeps the temperature at 99 degrees, no matter how hot the day. Whenever the temperature within the incubators changes, an automatic bell alarm is attached to sound, warning the workers that the temperature is not as it should be. The bell will stop ringing as soon as the right temperature is again reached.

Air Is Changed
The incubators, through high-powered electric fans, draw in a complete change of air every three and a half minutes and this air, passing through a water mist, is thoroughly cleaned before it circulates among the eggs. The cleaned air is heated by circulation over electric coils in winter, or when the weather is hot, may be circulated over cooling coils, in either instance, for the sole purpose of gaining a 99-degree temperature within the incubators. A wet-bulb hygrometer assists the thermometer in keeping "order" within the incubator by accurately pointing out the humidity. The humidity, like the temperature, must remain constant.

Before the eggs go into the incubators, they must be pre-heated to 99 degrees to avoid cooling down the incubators. This pre-heating is done in the fumigating room where formaldehyde, at the same time, banishes the chance of diseased chickens. An electrically controlled boiler, automatically regulates temperatures in the brooder building to keep the new hatched baby chicks warm.

Days for Hatching
Every Monday and Thursday a new hatch of chickens or turkeys is taken from the incubators. On Tuesdays and Fridays, the perfect ones are culled out, packed and shipped either by express or by the two Childers trucks (Chick Pullmans, they're called), one of which is equipped to transport 8000 chicks, the other, 7600, at one time. Cardboard cartons of 100-chick capacity, having necessary air-holes for chick comfort, are prepared at the Childers plant, packed with wood wool, resembling excelsior, and, with the chicks inside, automatically stitched with the Childers electric stitcher. Mrs. Childers guarantees 100 percent live delivery, adding 2 percent extra chickens to each delivery to back the guarantee.

Chicks Are Delivered
Most of the chicks are sold within a radius of 100 miles but truck deliveries are sometimes made at a 300-mile distance. Turkeys generally are sold in coast and Rocky Mountain states as well as California. An automatic chick brooder, which acts like the wings of a mother hen in keeping the chicks warm, designed and invented by the late Mr. Childers, and Mr. Hatch, is manufactured for general sale to chicken growers, at an especially equipped building at the Childers Hatchery here. It is called the Childers Sunshine Automatic Brooder. It is all-electric. Until several weeks ago, Mr. Hatch, who has been at the Arcadia ranch for five or six years, handled the manufacture of the brooder, at Arcadia. Now, however, several men at the hatchery plant here, are kept busy manufacturing the brooders, sold in quantities as a sideline to the "automatic" method of raising chickens and turkeys.

'GALLANT DEFENDER' COMING TO STATE

Charles Starrett, well known screen player, makes his debut as a western action story star on the screen at Walker's State theater tomorrow in "Gallant Defender."

In this story, Starrett who previously has had important parts in dramatic productions, joins forces with the cattlemen who seek to prevent homesteaders from filing claims on a government reserve. Fast riding, quick gun-play and baffling mystery are presented in this story. Joan Perry has the feminine lead in this story by Peter B. Kyne.

The program also presents a comedy, cartoon, newsreel and chapter of "Mystery Mountain" with Ken Maynard.

On the screen for the last times tonight is "The Informer," which has been chosen as the outstanding film of 1935, starring Victor McLaglen, and "Smart Girl" with Ida Lupino.

Political Rumbblings

By PAUL VISSMAN

With the congress again in session it is more than a probability that Mrs. Vera Wettlin will receive her permanent appointment as postmaster in Orange. Her four-year term will date from the time of the permanent appointment.

Appointed to the office two years ago, succeeding W. O. Hart, Mrs. Wettlin served as acting postmaster until after the examination. Mrs. Wettlin failed to pass on the first test because of lack of business experience but was accorded the opportunity to take the examination for the second time. On the second attempt she passed with flying colors.

In spite of the fact that Mrs. Wettlin passed her examination she could not receive her appointment at that time as congress was recessing. Mrs. Wettlin, today is in the enviable position of having served two years as postmaster and still has a full four-year term ahead of her.

While discussing post offices it is apropos to mention that, to date, there are but four Republican postmasters, the last of a vanishing race, still functioning in Orange county. They are Mrs. Sula Abbott at Placentia; Miss Cindrella Phinney, in Tustin; J. H. Whitaker in Anaheim and George Friend at Brea.

Sam Long at Tustin, already has been appointed to succeed Miss Phinney and a successor for Whitaker will be given the endorsement of the Orange County Democratic Central Committee in February. William Bielefeldt, also has been named successor to Mrs. Abbott, leaving the Brea office the only one still to be considered. Friend's term of office expires in March.

Hailed, in one quarter, as "just what the county needs" and "incontrovertible facts," and branded in another quarters as the pangs of "wind-colic" J. Frank Burke's radio address Monday night on behalf of a recall election, aimed at three supervisors, created a storm of excitement over the county.

Political observers today claim that the address fired those zealous, who believe that the county needs a change in its governmental personnel, with ambition to immediately circulate petitions demanding a recall. On the other hand, they point out, adherents to the "wind-colic" school of thought claim that the recall idea died at birth. The man in the middle of the road, who leans neither one way nor another, is merely saying "so what?"

The general opinion is that there will be no recall. It has been pointed out by the politicians and others that it takes a lot of names on a petition to gain the attention of the board of supervisors. These names, they predict, will be hard to secure.

Some critics, according to current gossip, are even impugning Burke's motives in taking the lead in the recall move. They claim that is merely a build up upon which Burke hopes to campaign for office, probably congress, at the next election.

These critics, it is said, declare that the avowed reason of the recall—failure of the supervisors to approve a modified water plan for the recent bond election—was lost sight of in the fervor of the radio talk. The attack on the welfare department, they say, was merely a bid for sympathy—and votes—from those persons who are now on relief.

Proponents of the recall, however, are steadfast in their demand for a change in county government and charge that refusal of the supervisors to heed the wishes of the people for a modified water plan, is ample justification for the move. This refusal, they declare, smacks too strongly of a dictatorship and what this county emphatically does not need or want is a dictatorship.

We shall see what we shall see.

The name of Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, persists in coming to the top every time the political pot is stirred. Originally it was said that he was considering becoming a candidate either for the Democratic nominee for congress, the assembly or state senate.

More recently the rumor is that Adkinson, if he does lose his hat into the ring, will seek election on the Democratic ticket, to congress succeeding Sam Collins, incumbent.

The wise guys, who can tell which political plum will ripen fastest and be the sweetest, are willing to bet almost anything that money that Adkinson will come out for congress. A comparison of salaries is one thing on which they base their predictions. They claim that Adkinson would be crazy to give up his present position for an office that does not pay expenses, let alone a decent living. They also point out that the seat in congress does carry sufficient salary to make it attractive to a man of Adkinson's ability.

In this day when all the office seekers are offering themselves, unselfishly, they say, to serve the people, it seems cold and materialistic to inject the salary angle into a discussion of which office a candidate will seek. But a spade is a spade and a pay check is a pay check and the office seeker who is not considering the salary side of the office is something else. Also no one has ever accused Adkinson of being foolish.

Studebaker Dealer Declares New Cars Arouse Interest

Preparing for one of the biggest sales years in the history of the Studebaker corporation, a nationwide distribution of 1936 Studebakers has just been completed. H. Headley of the Headley Motor company, local Studebaker dealer, at Second and Sycamore street, said today.

Headley reported the new Studebakers being shown and demonstrated at his headquarters, have created enthusiasm and an unusually favorable impression.

"Our local business is definitely on the rise," Headley declared. "In addition to an actual substantial increase in business, we have had a far greater floor play and have far greater interest in the Studebaker than we have experienced in a long time. This situation isn't only local, for we have just received word from the factory that the planned production of 8800 units during December was fulfilled, exceeding the same period of 1934 by 33.3 per cent."

WOMAN DOCTOR OF MINING IS S. A. RESIDENT

By Eleanor Young Elliott

With woman's new economic status in the world leading her into invasion of fields of professions that have always been considered open only to men, it is no surprise that Santa Ana may claim with a sense of justifiable pride, a feminine doctor of mining engineering in the person of Miss Janet Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S. Briggs, 644 North Broadway.

For the past two years, Miss Briggs has been in Vienna studying under the celebrated Dr. Mueller of the Technical school there, and she has just passed her examinations at Leoben University. The coveted degree will be conferred upon her at the end of this month, and then she will be ready to return to her home here.

Unusual Mentality
Throughout her high school work here in Santa Ana, Miss Briggs' unusual mentality was the joy of her teachers and classmates. She entered Stanford University where she received her master's degree in 1933. After a few months at home, she sailed for Europe for further studies in Vienna, the degree to be received this month is her reward for close application to her studies.

Before returning to the United States and her home in Santa Ana, Miss Briggs plans to spend some time in France and the British Isles, and will reach here shortly after the middle of May. She will have seen the greater part of central Europe, for she has devoted vacations to travel.

During the recent round the world trip of her aunt, Miss Gertrude Potts, 637 North Ross street, the two spent some two months together, visiting many places of interest in Italy, Germany and Austria. Miss Potts, who had a year's leave of absence from her duties as teacher at McKinley school, returned only recently from her travels.

ASK WATER BOARD TO HELP SETTLE WATER FIGHT WITH ORANGE COUNTY GUN CLUBS

Representatives of the Orange County Farm Bureau appeared before directors of the Orange County Water District yesterday afternoon to urge the water board to take over the battle started some time ago by the Farm Bureau against the gun clubs in Orange county for alleged waste of water in the formation of duck ponds. The Farm Bureau group also reiterated its desire that the water district assume obligation for future sewage reclamation work.

The Farm Bureau group, which included Chairman John Murdy of the water committee, Ralph J. McFadden, state director, J. J. Lewis and H. Clay Kellogg, expressed considerable dissatisfaction over the compromise made by the board of supervisors with the gun clubs and with an amendment to the county ordinance on water usage which they claimed killed the original ordinance.

Asks For Action
Lewis told the water board that the Farm Bureau no longer is in a position to handle either the gun club or sewage reclamation activities. He urged the water board to see if they can settle the gun club trouble. Attorney A. W. Rutan declared that in his opinion it would not be possible for the district to start any law suits within the district because this is prohibited in the act creating the district. It was felt, however, that the water district could take action in an attempt to settle the matter of how much, if any, water the gun clubs should be allocated.

Members of the Farm Bureau delegation said that the supervisors have allowed the gun clubs nine inches of water, and that they believe this amount to be excessive. Murdy said that in granting the compromise to the gun clubs, the board of supervisors has increased the use of the water for this purpose rather than for central served any water. He expressed doubt that the amendment referred to is constitutional. He urged scrapping of the old ordinance and working out of a new and acceptable ordinance.

Difficult to Convict
The district attorney here has experienced difficulties in securing convictions in prosecution of gun clubs under the ordinance, many of the cases having resulted in hung juries. McFadden called attention to the fact that the courts have held that use of water by gun clubs is not a beneficial use. The water board decided to hold a special meeting of the board or directors, sitting as a committee so they can discuss matters privately. Wednesday night.

Regarding the sewage reclamation project under discussion, Chairman Willis Warner of the water board informed the Farm Bureau delegation that a committee has been named to contact cities in the outfall sewer district and to see if anything can be worked out for installation of sewage reclamation plants to conserve water.

WILL INSTALL REAL ESTATE HEADS FRIDAY

State officials and officers of the California Real Estate association will be here Friday to assist in the joint installation of officers for realty boards of the county, according to an announcement today by Earl Hawks, secretary.

Invitations have been sent to all realty boards to participate in the ceremony. The meeting to be held at noon in James' cafe, will be open to all persons interested in real estate matters, regardless of membership in the board.

Visitors who will take part in the installation are: J. Mortimer Clark, state real estate commissioner, Charles B. Shattuck, president, and Glenn D. Willaman, secretary of the California Real Estate Commission and other state and district officers.

Many Important Events Are Calendered for Women's Club

With their 36th anniversary to be observed on February 4, members of Women's club of Santa Ana already are preparing to make it an outstanding occasion, and at Tuesday afternoon's meeting in Veterans hall, decided definitely upon the place for the yearly luncheon.

This will be in the banquet room of the Green Cat cafe, where last year's birthday party was staged with such success. Mrs. E. M. Waycott, club president, asked for suggestions from the members, but all were unanimous in wishing to return to the Green Cat. The program committee will launch plans at once for entertainment features in connection with the 12:30 o'clock luncheon.

Another club social affair to be held at an early date, will be an evening dinner with husbands to furnish entertainment features. Time and place for this will be decided upon at the January 21 meeting.

There were the usual business matters given consideration Tuesday after which Mrs. E. A. Elwell as program chairman, introduced entertainment provided by club members. Mrs. Waycott, the president, had consented to sing, and members were appreciative of the charm of her clear soprano voice in "My Heart is a Haven," with Mrs. Blanche Hackleton as accompanist. For encore she sang "I Passed By Your Window." Work was given by Eleanor Young Elliott of the Register, who closed the program with a monologue, "Gullie," by Ann Underwood.

In addition to the birthday observance and the husbands' party, Women's club members are anticipating the Home Craft section meeting with Mrs. E. A. Elwell, 907 Lowell street, on Wednesday, January 15; the Garden section with Mrs. Waycott, 416 West Washington avenue, on January 22, and the Social section desert bridge at 1:30 o'clock on January 28 in Veterans hall.

Mrs. Elwell will open her home for a covered dish luncheon at mid-day next Wednesday, when Home Craft section members assemble with her. Each member will be asked to provide her own needs in table service.

Club Spends Evening In Orange Home
Mrs. Clyde Higgins entertained members of a local bridge club Tuesday evening when she was hostess in her home on East Chapman avenue in Orange.

Her guests were Mrs. Allen Carls, Mrs. Helen Reynolds and the Misses Helen Demetriou, Dorothy Dunbar, Florence Turner, Rosalind Schilling, Miriam Samuelson and Marjorie Berkner.

Miss Turner, scoring high, received a bottle of cologne. Mrs. Reynolds won the galleon award, which was a box of scented soap.

The hostess served a salad course at the close of card play.

Padua Hills Players To Be Here in February

The Mexican Players of Padua Hills will be in Santa Ana to present a program under auspices of Wrycende Maedens club Tuesday, February 11 at 8 p. m. in Willard auditorium. It was announced today that the original date of January 28 was changed when club members learned that the Globe Shakespearean Players would appear that night in Fullerton Union High school auditorium as an Orange County Forum program.

It was not until yesterday afternoon that Wrycende Maedens club was able to contact Mrs. Bess Gerner, director of the Padua Hills Players, to set a new date for the entertainment in this city. An informal program of native songs and dances will be presented.

The event will be open to the public, and will be given as the club's outstanding benefit program of the year. Miss Mary Ford, past president of the group, and Miss Katherine Spicer, are in general charge of arrangements. Miss Jean Erma, finance chairman, is taking care of tickets.

Miss Violet Johnson Inspires China Shower

Presiding at a china shower of pretty appointments last night, Miss Carl Erskine was hostess in her home, 2064 Cypress avenue, in compliment to Miss Violet Johnson, whose marriage to Wayne Bartholomew will take place January 17.

Miss Erskine's mother, Mrs. Edna Erskine, assisted in all details of the evening. Packages for the bride-elect were placed on a table where a bridal motif was carried out in the effective use of silver leaves and white candles for decorations. Guests had selected china for the set which Miss Johnson is assembling.

Poinsettias arranged throughout rooms of the home formed a setting for an evening of bridge. Prizes were won by the Misses Evelyn Hunton and Alberta Sanford, who scored first and second high.

Miss Erskine and her mother served a salad and sandwich course at small tables. Their guests included Miss Johnson and Mesdames Kenneth Curl, George Berry, Palmer Stoddard, Kermit Maynard, Robert U. Smith and the Misses Charlotte Richards, Alberta Sanford, Evelyn Hunton, Evelyn Chandler, Katherine Conway, Muriel Anderson.

Quiet Morning Wedding Is Being Planned by Miss Wilma Silver

St. Luke's of the Mountains, that beautiful little Episcopal church in La Crescenta, has been chosen by Miss Wilma Silver for her quiet wedding on Friday, January 17, to Robert Cooper Maypole Jr., of Los Angeles, an event scheduled to take place that morning at 10 o'clock.

Miss Silver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Silver, 700 West First street, Tustin, and Mr. Maypole, son of the Robert Maypoles of Los Angeles, are planning their wedding along lines of extreme simplicity.

Mr. Maypole, who graduated from Kemper Military Academy in Booneville, Mo., has been connected with Forest Lawn in Glendale for the past seven years. His fiancée who graduated from Cumnook School of Expression after completing high school and junior college here, took additional college work at Stanford. She is especially talented musically, and has sung on various Southland programs and over the radio. She is identified with Junior Ebell society and various well known social groups.

For the wedding rites conducted by the Rev. R. R. Pulliam, pastor of the Yuma Baptist church, the bride wore deep tulle crepe with dark brown dress accessories and a long spray of gardenias.

Two Showers Come in Advance of Wedding Next Saturday

Miss Thelma Jamieson, whose marriage to George Miner will take place next Saturday, was incentive for two recent showers, the latest of which took place last night when Mrs. Gordon Evenson was hostess in her home, 140 Pacific avenue, Tustin.

Prizes in bridge were won by Miss Margaret Jamieson and Mrs. Donald Crumley, who held high and low scores. The honoree was showered with miscellaneous gifts piled high in a basket. In serving a dessert course at small tables, Mrs. Evenson had assistance of her mother and sister, Mrs. Walter Hickey and Mrs. Crumley.

Present were the honoree, Miss Thelma Jamieson, her mother and sister, Mrs. Alex Jamieson and Miss Margaret Jamieson. Mr. Miner's mother, Mrs. Rilla E. Miner, and Mesdames Walter Hickey, Donald Crumley, Dolley Flint, Mildred Hale, Theola Holmes and the Misses Eloise Hickey, Frances Miner, Helen Vanderhorst, Martha Jewett, and the hostess, Mrs. Evenson.

Earlier Event

An earlier event in compliment to Miss Jamieson had its setting in the home of Miss Helen Vanderhorst on South Main street. The evening was spent in playing bridge, with prizes going to Mrs. Gordon Evenson and Mrs. Alex Jamieson, who scored high and low.

Other present were Mrs. Paul Troester and the Misses Frances Philbrook, Lucille Moris, Katherine Vanderhorst, Ann Vanderhorst, Ann Goeman, Margaret Jamieson.

A pink, blue and silver decorative motif was observed at the refreshment hour, when bride's dessert, cookies and coffee were served. The bride-elect was showered with miscellaneous gifts.

Announcements

Doris Welles auxiliary of First M. E. church will meet Friday night at 7:30 o'clock with Miss Lorraine French, 1022 West Fifth street.

Ebell Speech-Arts section is scheduled to meet in the clubhouse lounge Monday morning at 11:45 o'clock, where the leader, Mrs. Franklin West, will present Mrs. N. Northrop Wyatt, in a program arranged by Mrs. Mark Lacy, program chairman.

Wyatt, who has lived in Kenya, Africa, will talk on "Members will be provided with hot coffee to augment the sandwiches which they will bring for a light luncheon to precede the formal afternoon program of Ebell society, when Mrs. Jack Valley will talk on national events as glimpsed on her recent stay in Washington, and on books of current interest.

Tux and Gown board members have been called to a meeting tonight with their president, Mrs. Robert Guild, at 7:30 o'clock in her home, 930 South Broadway.

On the board are Mrs. Guild, Mrs. Crawford Nalle, Miss Mary Safley, Miss Loretta Spangler, Miss Nan Mead, Miss Lolita Mead, Messrs. Hume West and Richard Ewert. The meeting will be devoted to completing plans for the formal Tux and Gown dance in February.

Southern District of California federation of Women's Clubs will meet in conclave Friday, January 17, in Riverside where the program, built on the general topic of "Public Welfare," will introduce several interesting speakers.

Miss Alta Buell Weds Charles J. Webb In Yuma

Returning from Yuma, Ariz., where their wedding took place Monday, January 6, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Webb are receiving good wishes from a host of friends, to whom they will now be at home at 1018 South Main street.

Mrs. Webb was Miss Alta Buell, whose parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Buell, were pioneer residents of the community. She has been a practicing beautician here for several years, conducting her own beauty salon, a favorite with prominent women of the city.

Mr. Webb is a native New Yorker who has made many friends since he came to California.

EXTENDED VOYAGE
When the S. S. Monterey pulled slowly away from the dock last night at Los Angeles harbor, she had among the gay voyagers aboard, a little group from this community departing for two magic months or longer in the antipodes. They were Mr. and Mrs. John Menes of East Seventeenth street, Mrs. Flora Finch and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strain of Fullerton. After a stay in Honolulu, the travelers were to continue through the South Sea Islands, to New Zealand and finally to Australia. Upon the return voyage, the Orange county group will bid bon voyage to other members of the tour at Honolulu, and remain in the islands for a little longer visit before returning to Orange county.

BIRTHDAY HONORS

Walter C. Dunlap, 2143 North Main street, last night found a pleasant observance accorded his birthday anniversary, when he and Mrs. Dunlap with their daughter, Miss Duth Dunlap, drove over to Huntington Park to dine with their son and daughter-in-law, the John ("Sky") Dunlaps, Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap and Miss Ruth had planned to go over as a little housewarming visit, for the John Dunlaps have just taken possession of a pleasant apartment at 630 Seville, Huntington Park, from where Mr. Dunlap has easy access to his office with the United Press in Los Angeles. The birthday dinner was Mr. and Mrs. John Dunlap's way of extending good wishes to the senior Mr. Dunlap, and was succeeded by a happy family evening.

FOR CONTRACT
One of their merry seasons was shared Tuesday by that little group of girls and young matrons who match wits at contract twice each month. Mrs. Woodrow Barnett was hostess on this occasion, receiving her friends for a dessert course in her home, 1812 Spurgeon street, as an introduction to the bridge games which followed. Mrs. Barnett and Mrs. Leo West made the afternoon's high scores over Mrs. William Jerome Jr., Mrs. George Bradley, Miss Loretta Spangler, Mrs. Quincy Hardy, Miss Betty Rowland and Mrs. Joseph E. Irwin. One of the members, Miss Inez Davis, left recently for the north, planning to take a librarian course at University of Washington.

EARLY DEPARTURE

Berkeley is beckoning to Miss Mary Safley, popular member of Junior Ebell, Tux and Gown, and other club and social groups, as well as the teaching staff at McKinley school. For Miss Safley has been granted leave of absence from her teaching duties, and is leaving Saturday for a stay in Berkeley. She plans to devote some of her time to special work at the university. Miss Safley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Safley, 1641 East Fourth street. Her brother, Clifford Safley, formerly was telegraph editor on The Register and is now city editor of the Glendale News-Press.

Riverside Women's club, hostess organization for the day, will provide the special music.

Native Daughters today were reminded that their parlor meeting for next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock will be held in M. W. A. hall instead of the customary Knights of Columbus hall. The change was made as a courtesy to Magnolia camp, R. N. A. who asked to exchange halls for the one evening in order to have the larger space afforded by K. C. hall for installation rites.

Weicher-McLeod Rites Have Setting in Local Rectory

Quietly married Tuesday, January 7 in the rectory of St. Ann's Catholic church, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent H. Weicher of this city are en route north on their honeymoon, with plans to return within the next several days to establish their home at 823 South Sycamore street. They will be at home to their friends after January 15.

Miss Leona A. McLeod, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McLeod, 215 South Broadway, and Mr. Weicher, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. E. Hillestad, 1233 South Van Ness avenue, were married at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Rev. Father Thomas Butler officiated.

The bride wore a pearl grey ensemble with a bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor, Miss Marie Geddis of Los Angeles, also wore a grey costume with a cluster of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. Mrs. McLeod wore blue and Mrs. Hillestad, a green ensemble, both with gardenia corsage bouquets. Mrs. John turns a guest, wore blue silk crepe with pearls.

John N. McLeod Jr., of Los Angeles, brother of the bride, was best man.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, where a two-course supper was served. A pink and white color scheme was observed in decorations.

For traveling, Mrs. Weicher donned a salmon crepe frock with fur trimming. On their return, Mr. Weicher will resume his work in this city, where he is co-partner with Ray Cartwright in a local service station. He had his schooling in Brush, Colo. and for eleven years was associated in this city with his father in the Grand Central Pharmacy.

Mrs. Weicher was graduated from Polytechnic High school with the class of 1927. After taking a business course, she entered Nurses' Training school at Long Beach Seaside hospital, from which she was graduated. She was a member of the nursing staff there for more than five years.

Mayflower Club Makes Gift Presentation To Hostess

Mrs. John Fraley and Mrs. J. W. Parkinson were co-hostesses to Mayflower club members Tuesday afternoon in the former's home, 1312 Cypress avenue. They served dessert at small tables brightened with flowers.

Guests had planned a surprise feature for Mrs. Fraley, presenting her with a layette gift.

Present were Mesdames E. W. Cochems, W. R. Ford, William Lawrence, R. E. Smith, V. C. Shidler and daughter, Jacqueline; Laura Sanborn, Archie Perkins, W. A. Maryme, Amelia Perkins, A. C. Wiebe, J. H. Patison, F. W. Sanford, C. W. Rowland, Fannie Cunningham, E. E. Frisby, and Miss Jean Fraley, daughter of the home, all of this city; Mrs. Sarah Maryme and Mrs. C. W. Copeland, Bellflower; Mrs. P. T. Isherwood, Garden Grove; Mrs. J. A. Cubley, Corona; Mrs. Harvey Springer, San Bernardino; and the two hostesses, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. Isherwood and Mrs. Springer will join as hostesses at the next meeting, February 4 in the home of Mrs. E. W. Cochems, 323 East Chestnut street.

Special Entertainment Provided by Hostess

Approaching with much interest, their meetings of the new year, members of the Glade Dancer club were entertained yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William Harding, 526 South Van Ness avenue.

The majority of the guests brought needlework to which they gave attention as they chatted, but found additional entertainment in the tap dances and readings by one of Mrs. Harding's small neighbors, little Miss Vera McVey. For her dances, the little maid sang her own accompaniment very prettily.

Mrs. Harding completed her hospitality by serving refreshments, with the assistance of Mrs. Herbert Thwaite. Members will be entertained at their next meeting, by Mrs. Harrison White, 802 Bush street.

Present yesterday were Mrs. Harding, the hostess, Mesdames Harrison White, Herbert Thwaite, Thomas H. Huffman, Otto J. Hawley, Henry J. McComb, Margaret Golden, Richard Grimes, Charles E. Kyte and Ray A. Graham.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Mercereau, 1506 West Fifth street, are home from Honolulu, where they spent the past six weeks. They sailed to the Islands on the Monterey, returning on the Lurline. This ship of the Matsun line, both Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Mercereau's second trip to Honolulu, where they spent a week in 1932.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Jeff Morrison, formerly of Los Angeles and Santa Ana, are visiting with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison of this city. They expect to be in the Southland until February 1, when they will go to Bakersfield for a stay with Mrs. Morrison's relatives.

The couple will leave for their home at Grants Pass, Ore., on the Rogue River, about March 1, returning north in time for salmon fishing. Mrs. W. Jeff Morrison is a cousin of Lawrence Tibbett, famous baritone singer.

Mrs. T. L. Warren and Mrs. J. E. Kellogg are in Los Angeles today attending the state W. C. T. U. executive meeting in the home of Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, W. C. T. U. state president.

W. I. Davis, 424 South Parton street, has gone to Washington, Kans., called by the serious illness of his father, Clarkson Davis, a member of the G. A. R. who has attended meetings of the local Sedgwick post during visits here in the past.

James Thomas returned yesterday to San Diego after a two-day visit with his parents, Judge and Mrs. William H. Thomas, 1113 West Chestnut street.

W. J. Lieder, 1427 North Broadway, one of the officers of Sedgwick post G. A. R., has been quite ill, but is reported improving steadily.

Lodge Supreme Officer Conducts Ceremony For Beauceant

Mrs. W. E. Patterson became new president of Social Order of the Beauceant last night at ceremonies conducted in Masonic temple by Supreme President Mrs. J. Joseph Smith of Pasadena, as installing officer. Mrs. Deanne Wood of Long Beach, who was a constituting officer for the local organization, presided as mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. J. W. Hancock, junior past president, was escorted east. Other supreme officers present with Mrs. Smith were Mrs. Frank Whitman, inner guard; Mrs. Frank W. Sutton, courier; Mrs. Mary Halderman, past president, all Southern California residents.

Those taking office with Mrs. Patterson were Mesdames J. H. Shaw and Elton R. Roehm, first and second vice-presidents; Mrs. Howard Wassum, preceptress; Mrs. P. L. Toole, recorder; Mrs. J. L. Whitson, treasurer; Mrs. L. L. Kneisel, chaplain; Mrs. A. R. Muller, director of music; Mrs. Hugh C. Wiley, marshal; Mrs. E. P. Eggenkop, assistant marshal; Mrs. C. L. Neuschwander, standard bearer; Mrs. E. E. Dawson, color bearer; Mrs. Henry Diers, mistress of the wardrobe; Mrs. C. E. Smith, daughter of the household; Mrs. J. H. Tompkins, inner guard; Mrs. M. A. Menges, outer guard.

Installing officers with Mrs. Smith were Mesdames Nell Winslow, chaplain; H. D. Meyer, marshal; Arthur Koepel, assistant marshal; S. A. Jones, color bearer; Walter Wright, standard bearer.

R. W. McKnight, commander of Santa Ana Commandery, gave a talk. Mrs. George Warner, soloist for the evening, was accompanied by Miss Lenore Tompkins. Their numbers were "The Old Rugged Cross," "Bless This House" (brahe) and "The Nightingale of London." Miss Lois Allen played the piano during installation.

Dancing Club Holds First Event of Year

Holding their first dance of the new year, many members and guests of the Tante club assembled Wednesday night in the Y. W. C. A. rooms for an enjoyable affair.

Hosts for the evening were Miss Helen Glancy and John K. Schrier. Creating additional interest was a specialty dance where one deck of cards was passed among the girls, and another among the men so that cards were matched for partners.

Ed Wood used an amplifying set in providing music for the occasion. Punch was served by Miss Marie Smith.

Announcement was made that all young working people are invited to attend the dances, which will be held every Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. in the Y. W. rooms.

YOU and Friends

Mrs. Carolyn Wells and children, Barton and Carolyn of this city, returned early this week from a trip east. They left Santa Ana December 20 with Mrs. Wells' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester T. Barton of Los Angeles, going via Union Pacific as far as Salt Lake City. After sightseeing trips, they left on the Rio Grande through Tennessee Pass, and the Royal Gorge to Denver. In Topeka, Kans., they were holiday guests of Mrs. Barton's sister, Mrs. O. E. Osborne. New Year's dinner in the home of Mrs. Peter Eberhart of Topeka was attended by the California residents, among more than 70 other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Mercereau, 1506 West Fifth street, are home from Honolulu, where they spent the past six weeks. They sailed to the Islands on the Monterey, returning on the Lurline. This ship of the Matsun line, both Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. Mercereau's second trip to Honolulu, where they spent a week in 1932.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Jeff Morrison, formerly of Los Angeles and Santa Ana, are visiting with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison of this city. They expect to be in the Southland until February 1, when they will go to Bakersfield for a stay with Mrs. Morrison's relatives.

The couple will leave for their home at Grants Pass, Ore., on the Rogue River, about March 1, returning north in time for salmon fishing. Mrs. W. Jeff Morrison is a cousin of Lawrence Tibbett, famous baritone singer.

Mrs. T. L. Warren and Mrs. J. E. Kellogg are in Los Angeles today attending the state W. C. T. U. executive meeting in the home of Mrs. Eva C. Wheeler, W. C. T. U. state president.

W. I. Davis, 424 South Parton street, has gone to Washington, Kans., called by the serious illness of his father, Clarkson Davis, a member of the G. A. R. who has attended meetings of the local Sedgwick post during visits here in the past.

James Thomas returned yesterday to San Diego after a two-day visit with his parents, Judge and Mrs. William H. Thomas, 1113 West Chestnut street.

W. J. Lieder, 1427 North Broadway, one of the officers of Sedgwick post G. A. R., has been quite ill, but is reported improving steadily.

Mrs. W. E. Patterson became new president of Social Order of the Beauceant last night at ceremonies conducted in Masonic temple by Supreme President Mrs. J. Joseph Smith of Pasadena, as installing officer. Mrs. Deanne Wood of Long Beach, who was a constituting officer for the local organization, presided as mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. J. W. Hancock, junior past president, was escorted east. Other supreme officers present with Mrs. Smith were Mrs. Frank Whitman, inner guard; Mrs. Frank W. Sutton, courier; Mrs. Mary Halderman, past president, all Southern California residents.

Mrs. Stephenson Gives Review for Ebell Section

Edwin Arlington Robinson's posthumous book, "King Jasper" was reviewed by Mrs. T. E. Stephenson Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of the Ebell Modern Poetry section in the home of Mrs. Edith Thatcher and Miss Mabel Whiting, 508 East Chestnut street.

Although expressive of more sadness than most of Robinson's works, "King Jasper" is one of the writer's most beautiful books. It was pointed out by Mrs. Stephenson that the introduction to the book was written by Robert Frost, a life-long friend of the late poet.

Mrs. Aldrie Worswick, leader, conducted a business meeting, during which Mrs. Ralph Smedley and Miss Ruth Rowland were welcomed as new members of the section. Guests were Mrs. F. C. Rowland, president of Ebell society, Mrs. M. Northrup Wyatt, Mrs. J. B. Wolfe, Mrs. C. P. Jackson.

Refreshments were served by the co-hostesses at the afternoon's close.

The next meeting will be held February 4 in the home of Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Tustin, with Mrs. Lillian Pritchett as co-hostess. Mrs. Horace Scott will review poems of Hart Crane.

William Dean Howells Program Announced

A William Dean Howells evening is the pleasant fare which Santa Ana Community Players will enjoy next Tuesday evening in The Barn (Mabury street), according to plans announced today by Lois Rees Auer, the year's Barn chairman for the association.

This program has been planned by Gertrude Horn (Mrs. Robert Horn) who will direct the short farce by Howells, "Evening Dress," and will present Mrs. M. Burr Wellington in a sketch of the famous author, and Leslie and Mary Stephenson (Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Stephenson) in American songs of the Howells period.

Members of the cast of "Evening Dress" will be Hurr Shaffer as "Edward Roberts," Warren Fletcher as "Mrs. Campbell," Mrs. M. K. Tedstrom as "Mrs. Roberts," Juanita Wright Fletcher as "Mrs. Campbell" and Dorothy Hicks as "Bella."

Community Players are reminded of invitation to be guests to-night of the A. A. U. W. and hear Monsieur Rene Belle of U. S. C. speak on the French contemporary theater, in the Y. W. clubrooms.

Darlene Holman Has Birthday Party

Little Miss Darlene Holman's ninth birthday anniversary was observed Monday afternoon with a party given by her mother, Mrs. H. L. Holman, and her sister, Beatrice, entertaining in their home, 1820 North Ross street.

Guests included the celebrant's classmates at Jefferson school, as well as other friends. An afternoon of games preceded a pleasant refreshment interval in the dining room, where ice cream, birthday cake, nuts and candies were served.

Present in addition to Darlene were Betty Kennedy, Beverly and Carlotta Weisgerber, Beverly Givens, Natalie Walden, Alice and Irene Iverson, Margaret Ann Schmiedeburg, Barbara Merget, Barbara Neff, Barbara McFadden, Constance Murane, Constance Elliott, Carolyn Spicer, Elaine Harlow, June Trickey and Barbara Schlund.

MAKE HER SCHOOL OR PARTY FROCK IN YOUTHFUL PRINCESS STYLE

PATTERN 2637 BY ANNE ADAMS

Every "would-be" princess—aged four to twelve—is sure to want this dream of a young frock—youthfully lovely, and cut on simple, princess lines. Her mother's sure to see the double-duty possibilities in just such a pattern, for in challis or cotton print the belted version's ideal for school or playtime. Without a belt, it's a wee bit dressier, so make it up in dimity, or washable printed crepe for Sunday best or parties. Mother will find it whips into shape very quickly for front and back panels which fall straight, and unbroken from young shoulders, are so easy to cut. Panties are included with this frock (to make it just that much more wearable—and smart).

Pattern 2637 is available in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12. Size 6 takes 2 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Special patterns for slimming down stout figures. Flattering collars for working magic changes on all occasions. Frocks. The latest fabric and accessory news. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND A PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Address orders to Register Pattern Department.

You need not confine shortcuts to strawberry time, when cranberries are just begging to be bought.

For convenience use prepared biscuit flour—1 1/4 cups of it, adding 3 tablespoons sugar and milk to mix to a stiff batter, not a dough. Spread the batter in two layer cake tins, not more than 1-2 inch in depth and bake in a fast oven. Put together with this mixture:

2 cups peeled diced apple, measured after grinding.
2 cups washed cranberries, put through grinder and mixed with apple. Add:
1 1/2 cups sugar and mix well.
Spread the fruit mixture between and on top of the two hot buttered biscuit layers and serve with a spoonful of whipped cream.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dish of cranberry sauce cooked with saccharin, or
A sliced orange or halved grapefruit.

1-2 cup any dry cereal with
1-3 cup uncreamed milk and
1-2 teaspoon brown sugar
1 cup coffee with 1-4 cup hot skimmed milk, no sugar, and
1 thin slice whole wheat toast unbuttered.

Calory total, 280.

Do the terms "No. 1 and No. 2" birds confuse you? This applies chiefly to turkeys, and means, not a less desirable grade of meat or degree of tenderness, but a deformity of some part of the frame, usually the breast bone... the result of a debilitated slouch in that particular bird in sitting on the perch at night. Watch for these bargains and use more turkey in your menus.

Apple Crisp

3 good big apples, peeled and sliced
1-2 cup flour
1-2 cup brown sugar
2-3 tablespoons butter
Cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon, mixed with 1 cup white sugar

Slice the apples into a buttered pan and mix with cinnamon and white sugar. Crumb butter, flour and sugar with finger tips, sprinkle over apples and bake in a moderate oven until the apples are tender (about 30 minutes). Serve hot with thin cream.

This is the lazy woman's apple pie dream come true!

Potatoes a la Maitresse
6 good sized cold boiled potatoes
6 hard boiled eggs
2 cups rich well seasoned cream sauce

1 teaspoon dry mustard
1-2 pound yellow cheese, grated
1-2 cup buttered crumbs

Add cheese and mustard to the hot cream sauce and stir until well blended. Butter a shallow casserole and alternate layers of potatoes with cream sauce and sliced egg. Strew the buttered crumbs over top and bake at 375 degrees until the top is well browned.

Naturally, this is a main dish, taking the place of meat and potatoes in great style. Since the oven must be used why not let the dessert be an Apple Crisp, the bread, hot bran-raisin muffins and the vegetable, small whole onions baked in butter and milk, closely covered (steamed rather than baked)?

Party Held For Priscilla Club

VILLA PARK, Jan. 9.—The bi-monthly meeting of the Modern Priscilla club was held at the home of Miss Margaret Holditch and her mother, Ellen Holditch, this week. Refreshments were served following a business session.

Hughes, H. D. Nichols, W. J. Rasch, Carl Rosenau, Ed Stanley, R. H. Sussdorf, William Sutherland, W. M. Tipple, A. M. Caspari, O. Ulrich, and the hostess, Miss Margaret Holditch. Among the special guests were Mrs. James Workman and her two young sons, David and Jimmie, who are great grandsons of Mrs. Ellen Holditch. Mrs. Workman was Miss Margaret Knuth.

COUNCIL HEAD ENDORSED FOR P.-T. A. OFFICE

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Endorsement of the local council president, Mrs. Marion Flippen, as a candidate for first vice president of the Fourth District P.-T. A. was a feature of the meeting of the Orange council yesterday. The endorsement, which will place Mrs. Flippen's name on the ballot at the district meeting in April, followed the suggestion of Mrs. L. L. Williams.

Mrs. C. A. Palmer and Mrs. C. E. Short were hostesses at the pot luck luncheon. Teachers of the school were special guests, and as a surprise feature, George C. Sherwood, district superintendent of schools, was presented with a large birthday cake from the council and a potted plant from the teachers.

Audrey June and Joan Peterson gave a group of Dutch dances and vocal duets, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Joe Peterson.

Mrs. Will Lee gave a report of Christmas welfare work done by the council and Mrs. E. G. Smith reported a profit of $85 earned on the recent benefit carnival. Mrs. Peterson announced the opening of annual study circle meetings next Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Olive grade school, with Miss Janie Van der Veer in charge. Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim brought the appreciation of the children at the county hospital for the Christmas treat arranged by the Olive unit and called attention of all groups to the standards and requirements for the year.

Guests of the day were Mr. and Mrs. George C. Sherwood, Miss Lucile West, Miss Alma Bode, Miss Mabel Lush, Mrs. Louise Bradshaw, Mrs. Florence McCoy, Miss Vena Jones, Miss Will Lee, Miss Rachel Williams, C. I. Thomas, Don Danner, Fred Bewley and F. Townsend.

Members present were Mesdames Clayton Scarborough, R. E. Goss, Anna Linnartz, Ted Seavy, Glenn Reck, Harold Foster, A. O. Clifford, Earl Wood, E. G. Smith, Vern Estes, L. L. Williams, Marion Flippen, Oliver Wickersheim, Victor Huip, Marguerite Ockels, George Greeder, A. J. Schoenfeldt, C. A. Palmer and C. E. Short.

HOLD LAST RITES FOR MRS. COOPER

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Funeral rites were held yesterday afternoon at Gilgoly Funeral chapel for Mrs. Adeline Cooper, 78, who passed away Monday morning at her home at 533 West Maple avenue following an illness of long duration.

Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated at the services. Mrs. Florence Donegan presided at the organ and accompanied Mrs. Carl Pister, who sang "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me."

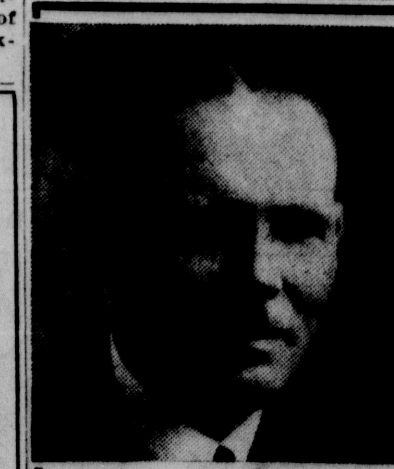

Burialbearers were W. N. Stowell, of Orange; R. B. Knapp, E. R. Hayes and Samuel Mercer, of Sierra Madre; W. C. Southwick, of Santa Barbara, and Jack Hayes, of Pasadena. Entombment was made in Melrose Abbey Mausoleum.

Mrs. Cooper, a native of Kenney, Ill., came to Orange from Kansas City, Mo., in 1906. She was the wife of William S. Cooper.

WORK ON WPA SEWER PROJECT SLATED TO START NEXT WEEK; PIPE BIDS OPENED ON JAN. 17

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Work on a WPA sewer project for the city of Orange will be begun Monday, it was announced at a meeting of the Orange city council last night by W. K. Hillyard, acting city engineer. The sewer on South Main street from La Veta avenue to the Santa Ana boulevard will be enlarged from a 10-inch line to an 18-inch line and 3450 feet of pipe will be laid.

On Palmyra avenue 1950 feet of 10-inch will be laid in constructing a new line from Tustin avenue west to the S. A. Y. I. pipe line and on Tustin avenue at Chapman south to the city limits. Material totaling $3418.40 and labor for the project will be furnished by the federal government and the city will furnish material to cost $3655.57.

Bids for the city's share of pipe for the project will be opened January 17. Fifty-six men including two pipe layers, two cement men, two carpenters, one superintendent, one foreman and 48 laborers will be employed for six months on the project.

I. Eisenbraun was given a license to conduct the Orange Junk shop at 143 South Pixley street. A protest from property owners in the block and on adjacent streets was tabled. A contract was given the Shell Oil company to furnish the city with gasoline for six months with a top price of 11 cents. About 1000 gallons of gasoline is used by the city a month, it was stated.

The street committee was authorized to try to obtain a location for the Orange sign on the 101 highway near the corner where the highway turns toward Orange at the county hospital. C. O. Powell presented a plan for repairing and remodeling the sign. This will be done if a new location can be obtained. Elwood Case was given permission to open a laundry on North Orange street in a building formerly occupied by E. P. Ehlen.

Permission to establish connection with city water lines was extended to A. E. Walkup, Harry Riehl, T. W. Hughes, Mrs. Ray Krueger, A. W. Meyer, F. Everett, Oscar Ristow, George Ristow, George Juenke, P. H. Ebell and Leo Bunke. Leo Bunke will be secretary for the group.

Joe A. W. Swayze reported $123.50 collected in fines. A balance of $3634.43 was reported in the city library fund, $105.45 was collected for permits, 19 arrests were made, 16 citations given by the police department, taxes collected totaled $44,717.90 and business licenses collected $125, according to reports to the council.

Hillyard asked that $10 a month be allowed A. E. Fox for the use of his car in a survey being made of street intersections under the WPA, the request being granted. Councilman E. M. Chapman and Cal D. Lester were appointed to confer with the county supervisors in closing business connected with the joint county and city storm drain on Batavia street. The salary of John Elliste, patrolman, was raised from $125 to $130 at the request of Chief of Police George H. Franzen.

The city council accepted an invitation from the Orange Red Cross chapter to attend a first aid demonstration and meeting at the fire hall Tuesday at 7:40 p. m.

TWO MEN'S CAMPS OPENED NEAR PARK

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Two single men's camps for transients have been established in this vicinity, according to Joe Scherman, state forest ranger. Workers from both camps will be employed on forestry projects. One camp is known as the Silverado camp and the other as the Orange camp. Both are above Irvine park. In the Silverado camp 150 men have been registered and 100 in the Orange camp.

Leaders Of 20-30 Group Take Office

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—With LeRoy Burns, of Santa Ana, deputy district governor of 20-30 clubs, conducting the ceremonies, new officers of the Orange 20-30 club were installed last night at a meeting held at the Orange Woman's club. Roy Hahne is the outgoing president. Wives of members were guests.

Officers installed are as follows: President, Oscar Stuthett; vice president, Don Gullede; secretary, V. G. Wolfe; tall twister, Martin Newby. Honor guests were introduced. These included Sherman Gilgoly, known as the "father of the club," and Dr. A. J. Nies. Dr. Nies presented a past active membership card to G. W. Coltrane, who recently attained his 31st year and so became ineligible to membership.

A program of records was given by Glen Evans during the dinner hour and following the installation ceremonies dancing was enjoyed.

OUTLINE PLANS OF 'Y' ORGANIZATION

ORANGE, Jan. 9.—Plans for a number of coming events were discussed at a meeting of the board of the Y.W.C.A. held at "Y" headquarters last night, with Mrs. Percy Green presiding. These included tentative plans to join the Santa Ana "Y" in honoring the head of national service, Mrs. Edith O. Sawyer, on the afternoon of March 19.

A Girl Reserve recognition service will be held January 19 at the evening service of the First Methodist church and a Girl Reserve conference will be held at Pacific Palisades February 6 and 7. Mrs. C. A. Robinson was appointed to serve as representative of the group on the Orange Community Welfare board.

The resignation of Miss Bernice Vestal as a board member was accepted with regrets. A vote of thanks was extended to the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil war for a recent gift of a silk American flag with standard and a standard for the Christian flag owned by the board.

Mrs. C. A. Robinson, Mrs. Donald Burnette and Miss Florence Boosey are to attend a leaders conference at Riverside Saturday.

THE TWYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

The Twytes all rushed out and they were glad when they heard Scouty say, "This man's a little hunter. He's as friendly as can be."

"We're welcome on this real strange land and I think that is simply grand. No harm will come to us. That's what the hunter just told me."

"Of course not," said the little man. "I'm glad to say that you all can do anything you wish to, just so you don't spoil my fun.

"I'm going to trap beasts all around, as quickly as they can be found. Then, when I get real hungry, I will shoot one with my gun."

"Why, you're so little," Dotty said, "and beasts so big. I really dread to think, sir, what will happen, if a lion chases you."

"I guess that you would make one bite. Why, I'd be simply filled with fright. If any animal rushed out, I don't know what I'd do."

The hunter smiled and then he said, "You think the beasts are large. Instead, they're tiny little fellows. You could hold them in your lap."

"Now, follow me! We'll have a lark and capture one before it's dark. In just about a minute I will make a little trap."

"Oh, I will help you," Duncy cried, as he rushed to the hunter's side. "I'm pretty good at things like that, as you will soon find out."

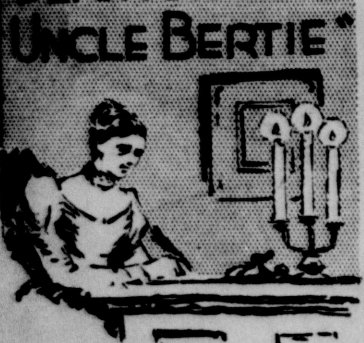

"If we should make a dandy haul and in our trap some beast should crawl, 'twill be goodby for him," because he never will get out."

A real nice trap was made with ease. The bunch then hid behind some trees. "Here comes a tiny elephant," cried Goldy, in delight. "It sees the peanuts used as bait. How thrilling! I can hardly wait. It's heading for the cage now. I sure hope it works all right."

STORIES IN STAMPS
By I. S. Klein

THE letters of Queen Victoria of England refer to King Leopold I, first king of the Belgians, as that "dear, naughty Uncle Bertie," but it was only in a vein of utmost affection, for Uncle Leopold was the great queen's most trusted adviser. And as he advised his famous niece in the rule of Great Britain, so he himself reigned over Belgium for nearly 35 years.

Leopold married Princess Charlotte, daughter of the Prince Regent, George, of England, who later became King George IV. When Princess Charlotte died, Victoria became heiress to the throne, and her uncle acted almost as a father to her. When he accepted the Belgian throne, in 1831, after the Belgians had separated from the Netherlands, the two continued their close relationship by constant correspondence. He died in 1865, at the age of 75.

In 1930, on the centennial of its independence, Belgium issued a set of three stamps picturing its three rulers to that date, Leopold I, Leopold II, and Albert. The stamp of Leopold I is shown here.

Radio listeners will hear a special concert by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra over KECA at 8:30 this evening. The organization will perform the overture to Glinka's "Russian and Ludmila" and Beethoven's Symphony No. 2 in D Minor during the broadcast from Rochester, N. Y.

Phil Cook, radio's famous man of many voices, and his wife, Flo, are co-stars of a new KJH musical and dramatic series currently presented each Thursday from 8:30 to 7.

A world renowned concert pianist, radio's "hottest" flutist, and famous American novelist have been selected by Bing Crosby as his leading guest stars for the Music Hall broadcast over KFI at 7 tonight. They are, respectively, Mischa Levitzki, Joe Venuti and Rupert Hughes.

The Standard Symphony Hour, offering a program which should appeal particularly to those who prefer the better known works in the classical repertoire, will originate in Portland when this program is broadcast over a network including KFI at 8:15 tonight.

With Music Editor David Brookman turning the pages of the "Mobil Magazine" in a sprightly musical melange that runs the gamut from the popular administering tune, "Keep Your Fingers Crossed," to the classic tone-pictures, "Finlandia," by Jan Sibelius, tonight's edition also promises a group of contrasting dramatization when broadcast by KJH at 9 o'clock. The "Oddity in the News," for instance, recounts how Charles A. Lindbergh rewarded Lauren D. Egan, veteran reporter for the New York Times, for a kindness done eight years ago.

FRIDAY
The sixth concert in the C and D Series, will be conducted by Dr. Walter Damrosch, Music Council of the National Broadcasting Company, at 8 a. m. Friday over KFI during the NBC Music Appreciation Hour.

A tribute to radio as "the greatest modern medium for the good of mankind" will be given by Elsie Ferguson during her appearance over KECA at 11 a. m. Friday.

Raymond Gram Swing, editor and commentator, will present another talk on "Behind the Foreign News of the Week" during the broadcast of the "American School of the Air" over KJH at 11:30 a. m. Friday.

Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of Ethel Barrymore, will be interviewed by Margaret Santry on "Tea at the Ritz" program over KJH at 1:45 p. m. Miss Colt will tell about the intimate happenings in the home life of the theatre's "first family."

H. V. Kallenborn, veteran radio commentator who is approaching his fifteenth consecutive season on the air, will again be heard by listeners on the Pacific Coast when he begins a new series to be broadcast by KJH at 3:45 p. m. Friday.

Cathedral-like in its austere beauty, this white marble building has just been completed in Jerusalem to house the Palestine Archeological Museum. In its halls will be displayed the historic treasures that have survived the years, many of them dug from the dust of centuries by scientific expeditions. Construction of the building was made possible by a $2,000,000 gift from John D. Rockefeller.

U. S. SUPREME COURT TEST OF NEW DEAL'S MUSCLE SHOALS PROBLEM IS VITAL TO SOUTH

By JOHN A. REICHMANN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The Tennessee Valley Authority Act was passed under the guidance of the New Deal as President Roosevelt's attempt to solve the generation old problem of putting Muscle Shoals, gigantic wartime development, to practical use.

Since the cessation of the war, according to the New Deal, was to put the beneficial use of the nation's vast power resources available in the ending flow of water through the Tennessee. Legal Theory Evolved.

The project was attempted under the constitutional theory that the government, while it may not compete with private industry—a process which might approach socialism—can dispose of by-products of the exercise of any other government function such as improvement of navigation or flood control.

In support of its plan to make the power generally available TVA arranged to have loans made from the Public Works Administration to permit municipalities to erect their own electric distributing plants.

This policy cut directly across the operations of the Alabama power company which exercised a virtual monopoly of power transmission in the area of Wilson Dam. It was a wholly controlled subsidiary of the Commonwealth and Southern, a giant holding concern.

Voted to Sell Lines

When its area was invaded by the TVA policy, Commonwealth and Southern, through its stock control, voted to sell the Alabama companies transmission lines to TVA.

At this juncture a group of preferred stockholders of the Alabama power company entered the picture. They contended that they were being deprived of their property because abolition of Alabama Power company would destroy their investment. They brought suit in the Northern District of Alabama to enjoin the sale.

After a brief trial before the late Judge William I. Grubb that jurist ruled that the government could not embark on the widespread sale of power as contemplated under the TVA Act.

The government appealed at once to the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, which reversed Judge Grubb and upheld the validity of the act. The stockholders brought an immediate appeal to the Supreme Court.

The case was argued before the court Dec. 19.

TRAILER CAMP GROUNDS

With the increasing popularity of trailer cars, motorists are often confronted with the problem of where suitable camp grounds may be found, especially in or near resorts. According to the touring department of the National Automobile club, there are several camp and trailer-car grounds in Palm Springs. Of these the Topping Trailer Court and the Palm Canyon Drive auto camp are the most attractive. The Belardo camp

DOES HISTORY REPEAT?

When we read the President's message to congress in which he accuses those who oppose his policies of being stubborn, selfish and an enemy of the people, it makes us wonder whether history is repeating itself.

Especially is this true when the titular head of the Republican party says that the President's message on the state of nation might have been entitled "War on Earth and Ill Will Among Men." It recalls what Polybius, an eminent Greek Historian wrote more than 2000 years ago. It makes people, who have read history, wonder whether history is repeating itself. Polybius wrote the following thirty years before the Roman Republic was converted into a pure democracy:

"So when they begin to lust for power and cannot attain it through themselves or their own good qualities, they ruin their estates, tempting and corrupting the people in every possible way. And hence when by their foolish thirst for reputation they have created among the masses an appetite for gifts and the habit of receiving them, democracy in its turn is abolished and changes into a rule of force and violence. For the people, having grown accustomed to feed at the expense of others, and to depend for their livelihood on the property of others, as soon as they find a leader who is enterprising but is excluded from the honors of office by his penury, institute the rule of violence; and now uniting their forces massacre, banish, and plunder, until they degenerate again into perfect savages and find once more a master and monarch.

"And for this change (for the worse) the populace will be responsible when on the one hand they think they have a grievance against certain people who have shown themselves grasping and when, on the other hand, they are puffed up by flattery of others who aspire to office. For now, stirred to fury and swayed by passion in all their counsels, they will no longer consent to obey or even to be the equals of the ruling cast, but will demand the lion's share for themselves. When this happens, the state will change its name to the finest sounding of all, freedom and democracy, but will change its nature to the worst thing of all, mob-rule."

We wonder whether our form of government is going through the same change that the Roman Republic went through 2000 years ago.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS

The question of whether the United States Postoffice Department operates at a profit seems to depend—as do so many questions of profit and loss—on who does the figuring.

Postmaster General Farley says the department made money last year. Its revenues were some $44,000,000 higher than those of 1934, he says, and there was a net surplus of nearly $5,000,000 in the till when the year ended.

On the other hand, there was an item or two which Mr. Farley forgot to count. Specifically, he forgot to count upwards of $70,000,000 which the department spent on various subsidies, chiefly ocean steamship carriers.

That, of course, leaves Mr. Farley's profit looking pretty bad.

Yet there is something to be said for his way of figuring. It is at least a reminder that it is hard to judge the postoffice as a business institution, when these unbusinesslike subsidies have to be figured.

NEAT TRICK OF ECONOMICS

A United Press dispatch from Washington hints that the Townsend plan may be toned down somewhat to meet the criticisms that have been leveled against it.

Its sales tax features may be modified; and this, says the dispatch, is because economists have pointed out that 70 per cent of the people of America have incomes providing them with the bare necessities of life, and so could not afford such a tax burden.

This bit of statistics may be a useful warning for Townsends, but it also cuts both ways. For if 70 per cent of our citizens can just barely meet the daily bills of grocer and landlord, it is pretty easy to understand just

THE JUNCO

He would not migrate if he could,
He'd rather stick around;
In many places in the wood
May food and drink be found.
He flutters lightly here and there
From tree to barren tree
And pours forth on the listening air
A song for you and me:
"Suppose the skies are chill and gray,
They never can drive me away."

What cares he for the bitter breeze;
Soft feathers pad his breast.
He has a hide-out in the trees
Where he finds peace and rest.
Let snow descend, let blizzards blow,
The pine trees still are green,
And he may flutter to and fro,
Contented and serene.

I often think I hear him call:
"This world's a swell one after all."

His summer playmates of the air
Perhaps may be more wise,
To warmer regions they repair.
When winter chills the skies,
Well, let them wander where they will;
Their course is right, no doubt,
But yet by streamlet coope and hill
The junco braves it out.

Though winter may look stark and grim,
It never seems to worry him.

why so many people want the Townsend plan. The one sure way to quiet this clamor for universal old-age pensions would be to raise the incomes of the masses so that they could provide for old age themselves. And that trick, unfortunately, is easier to outline than to perform.

REGISTER CLEARING HOUSE

Editor, Register:—The water situation of the county is an intimate topic to everyone. It is realized by all that it is very necessary to improve the situation for future security. With the heavy burden of public debt to consider it is certain that the water conservation program must be an economical one. That we voters are demanding a reasonable priced water conservation program was much in evidence when the recent water bond issue was again defeated.

But since we have first voted on the water bonds, in 1929, there has been a tremendous volume of water steadily flowing to the ocean each year. It is a definite amount of water—that can be conserved by the erection of a sewage disposal plant. A plan suggesting a reclamation plant of this type was brought to light by one of our prominent farm organizations some time ago, but for some reason forgotten. Their plan stated that such a plant could be erected for around $450,000, I believe.

In Los Angeles county there are three such plants operating on almost a self-supporting basis. If not a complete financial success they are certainly an asset from the water conservation angle.

Probably modesty (if that is the term to use) would forbid the use of such water for domestic purposes. Yet chemists have thoroughly tested the processed water and along with medical authorities, have vouched for the purity of the water, in many respects superior to our own domestic water. It hardly seems to be common logic to draw forever from receding wells and look to sunny skies for constant replenishment. The old adage: "Self-preservation is the first law of nature" should be an incentive for definite action in solving the water problem.

H. HOCH,
Anaheim, Calif.

Editor, Register: I would like to take advantage of your "Clearing House" column to express some opinions on the ever present, though perhaps over-discussed problems of the control of auto traffic and accident rate. A great many people with whom I have discussed the problem, lay blame for our $6,000 annual auto mortality rate on the high speeds made possible by the modern motor car, "fast" speed limits, or inefficient police. Almost unanimous in blaming high speeds, many, including traffic officers, have been so drastic as to suggest compelling motorists to equip their cars with speed governors, making speeds of over 45 or 50 miles per hour impossible.

It seems to me that we are not starting at the beginning when we blame fast cars and speed for our accidents. Fast automobiles are inevitable. I believe the two major causes behind our $6,000 highway deaths are (1) the insufficient knowledge or ability of the general public in operating a car, especially in emergencies, and (2) the limited knowledge of the general public as to what constitutes an automobile other than the steering wheel, throttle, and foot pedals. To the average American an automobile is merely something which takes him to and from his work, or over to the Jones's for an evening of bridge, or down to the beach on his day off. He is proud of the fact that it is streamlined and will do 80 miles per hour. But he is more concerned over the trick lighter on the dash than the 250,000 spectators. Amateur race meets and rallies are held in which the non-professionals vie for honors in driving ability, speed, getaway, braking, hill-climbing, etc. Many of their leading magazines such as the "English 'Autocar,'" "Motor," "Light Car and Cycle," "Motor Sport," etc., are devoted to motoring. The European is extremely interested in the condition of his car and motor and few are the wretches who do not know what makes it that way. However, their knowledge of motoring does not stop with mechanical details, for they know how to control a car in a skid around a turn at a high rate of speed.

And their cars are no slower in performance than ours. We have our big Lincolns and Cadillacs which will do a hundred miles an hour. They have small sport cars in which the passengers sit but a foot and a half to two feet off the ground while traveling at speeds up to 135 miles per hour, powered by four-cylinder motors smaller than the motor in an American Austin. As for durability, many European owners have driven their cars 250,000 miles.

In Italy, for those who like to really drive their autos; those who love the sound of a crackling exhaust, the rush of wind at high speeds, the thrill of sliding around turns and everything else that makes a motorist what Americans call dangerous, the government has built extensive highways that complete a loop and end somewhere in the vicinity of the starting point. For the payment of a small toll, motorists can go onto these highways and, free from traffic regulations, enjoy driving in any manner they wish, to their heart's content. Incidentally, these roadways are built in mountainous or thinly populated regions so that no other major highway intersects them.

Perhaps in America we could benefit from circuits such as these where the restless or sport-loving motorists could "blow off steam" as we say. Perhaps there would be fewer accidents if American cars were built up to the European standard of rugged-ability and durability. Perhaps we would kill less people if more of our motorists knew what make the wheels go around on their cars and could therefore keep them in better condition. And perhaps we would feel safer on the highway if, before a driver obtained his license, he would be made to demonstrate his ability to handle a car at high speeds, successfully pull it out of a skid, etc.

Sincerely,
BOB ADAMS,

The Way a Man Feels Who Has Neglected His Morning Shave

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—This is a story about good faith in government. President Roosevelt insists that good faith requires the government to pay the farmers the money it contracted to give them, even though the supreme court of the United States has said the law under which the contracts were made was unconstitutional.

But on another occasion when good faith arose, namely when contracts between American citizens and their government for the payment of bonds in gold of specified value were up for payment, the Roosevelt administration not only refused to honor the contracts but congress adopted a law forbidding the citizen to go to court to prove his loss unless he filed the suit within six months.

Here is what the supreme court of the United States said in the famous gold clause case on the subject of good faith:

"The fact that the United States may not be sued without its consent is a matter of procedure which does not affect the legal and binding character of its contracts."

"While the congress is under no duty to provide remedies through the courts, contractual obligation still exists, and, despite infirmities of procedure, remains binding upon the conscience of the sovereign."

The Roosevelt administration is embarking now on a course that prefers one set of citizens to another in the matter of honoring obligations of the government of the United States.

The government, having contracted with the farmers who have done their part in reducing acreage, owes the money to the farmers. No voice will be raised against this in congress. But the question of why the congress chose to ignore another contract, written in a government bond and upheld by the supreme court of the United States, is one not so easy to explain.

As far as good faith is concerned, another and more striking instance of its violation has come up this week. The American people, it will be recalled, spoke an overwhelming protest against public law provisions of the revenue act of 1934. The "pink slip," which was to embody the data, became the subject of nation-wide discussion, and congress, by a heavy vote, repealed the provision.

There was no doubt then of what the American people wanted done—they wanted the publicity idea repealed so that kidnappers and snipers and extortionists could not get hold of what would prove to be an excellent prospect list. But when the pink slip provision was repealed, another section of the law was inadvertently left untouched. Under this provision, the secretary of the treasury was to submit an annual report making known to congress a list of persons receiving $15,000 a year or over.

No stipulation in the law said that the report was to be made public. No prohibition was contained in the law forbidding publicity. The law omitted all reference to general publicity of income tax data. The secretary of the treasury maintained faith with the American people by refusing to make the document public. The house ways and means committee had no obligation resting upon it to reveal the contents of the document. But it voted to do so just the same, thus breaking faith with the spirit, if not the letter, of the famous "pink slip" repeal resolution which was adopted by a vote of both houses of congress.

The making public of the list of names and salaries serves no public purpose that could not be achieved in another way. The law could have required that the stockholders of all corporations be furnished the data, but that it was to be preserved in confidence by the stockholders themselves. Certainly, it would have been difficult to complete a list of kidnapping prospects if the information had been scattered to stockholders so that the data about one corporation was not known to the other.

The members of the house ways and means committee who considered the matter, namely those present when the vote was taken and those absent, are the following:

Democrats: Robert L. Doughton, Laurel Springs, N. C.; Samuel B. Hill, Waterville, Wash.; Thomas H. Cullen, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Christopher D. Sullivan, New York City; Morgan G. Sanders, Canton, Tex.; John W. McCormack, Dorchester, Mass.; David J. Lewis, Cumberland, Md.; Fred M. Vinson, Ashland, Ky.; Jere Cooper, Dyersburg, Tenn.; John W. Boehne, Jr., Evansville, Ind.; Claude A. Fuller, Eureka Springs, Ark.; Wesley E. Disney, Tulsa, Okla.; Arthur P. Lamneck, Columbus, Ohio.; Frank H. Buck, Vacaville, Calif.; Richard M. Duncan, St. Joseph, Mo.; Chester Thompson, Rock Island, Ill.; J. Twing Brooks, Sewickley, Pa.; John D. Dingell, Detroit, Mich.; Republicans: Allen T. Treadway, Stockbridge, Mass.; Isaac Bacharach, Atlantic City, N. J.; Frank Crowther, Schenectady, N. Y.; Harold Knutson, St. Cloud, Minn.; Daniel A. Reed, Dunkirk, N. Y.; Roy O. Woodruff, Bay City, Mich.; Thomas A. Jenkins, Ironton, O.

Since an oral vote was taken, there is no way of knowing which members of the committee voted to ignore the "pink slip" protests and those who did not. Maybe the citizens of each district can get that information—for there's no publicity here in Washington on that point.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

PROMISES

It is easy to promise a child a treat, say for next Saturday, if he will be good and take his medicine, or go to bed without making a fuss, or behave nicely when Aunt Susie comes. Very easy. The child accepts the promise at its full value, keeps his side of the bargain manfully and then, when Saturday comes along, keeping that promise, so easily made, often becomes a difficult matter.

"It's Saturday, I'm going to the circus. You promised me you'd take me. When do we start?"

"O, now, let me see. I did say I would take you, but I never had thought about the engagement I had with the club. I'll take you some other time."

The child is helpless. His disappointment is a shock to his faith in his people. They don't keep their promises. They don't mean what they say. They are not to be counted on as he has been counting on them. He feels betrayed, cheated and suddenly very helpless. What can he do against such a breach of faith as these grown-up people have made as a matter of course? Well, he won't be taken in so easily next time.

A loss of faith in people is more of a loss than it might seem at the moment. A child generalizes the rule for him and he acts accordingly. He learns to play the cheating game himself. He says he will learn his lesson, do the errand, refrain from doing something that he ought not to do, and goes blissfully ahead doing precisely what seemed good to him to do. Promises frequently are just exercises in speech.

Such an attitude, far commoner today than he likes to believe, will lower the character of the person who assumes it. He has no standard for co-operation with his fellows, and without it he is certain to make a failure of his life. The notion that cheating the game gives one an advantage in the struggle for success is in itself the biggest cheat of all. No cheat can win. True, it has happened that the cheat has finished the game with the money in his pocket. Money does not always mean that the game of life has been won. It may mean that it has been lost, by cheating, by breaking promises by bad faith.

It may seem to be a far cry from breaking a slight promise to a child and seeing that child fail in getting the best values out of his life, but to me they are very close. Train a child to discount or disregard a promise and you train him to spiritual dishonor. The person who suffers that loss drinks deep of the bitterness of failure.

There is no worse failure, no keener suffering than that of the soul betrayed.

Teach a child that one's word is sacred, better than his bond, and you lay the foundation for his real success. Man does not live by bread alone. He can live on very little bread if his soul is eager to feed his spiritual hunger. (Copyright, 1935, The Bell Syn., Inc.)

Things As They Are

By SAMUEL CROWTHER

Looking over the country from Washington at the beginning of the new year, one notes that few of the men in politics—regardless of party—have learned anything during the year except that the country is tired of expenditures and debt. The inflationists and greenbackers also are against formal debt.

Almost none of the leading politicians has studied the condition of the country. They are more concerned with public sentiment than with the causes of the sentiment.

Senator Borah is talking vaguely about monopoly and the need for being liberal, but, as usual, without saying what he means. Other Republican candidates are stirring themselves to be liberal—also without knowing what they mean. Secretary Wallace is again saving capitalism by some mystic formula of price fixing, regardless of the fact that business and employment jumped forward the moment the shackles of the NRA were removed. Father Coughlin, for the moment on the same side of the street with the Wallace-Tugwell crowd, also finds that business needs regulation to save the nation from revolution. No one is exhibiting the poor, barefoot railways as an outstanding example of how government regulation works.

Secretary Roper, as the winged word of joy, chortles that the studies of his department indicate that the national income paid out in 1935 exceeded that of 1934 by anywhere from 5 to 10 per cent. He thinks he is saying something encouraging. He does not know that if his figures are true, the income of the country has only increased by the amounts spent by the government out of moneys raised by billeting bonds on the banks. Whoever gave the estimates to the secretary should have told him that.

No one in any position of authority or aspiring to any position of authority seems to have any desire to know the facts about the country, much less any desire to face them. The National Resources Board, which gave promise of being a useful body in spite of having some cabinet members on it, had a brain storm, and, giving up the work it was supposed to do, came out with a crazy plan to remake the country into federal districts instead of states, so that central economic measures, presumably of the planned variety, might be more easily administered. A few Democrats would like to see the AAA sustained, but most of them would rather have it overthrown by the supreme court, so that they can have the credit of voting direct farm subsidies and thus get away from the Department of Agriculture a political machine which they are afraid may turn against them in their home districts. They want to ride with the administration but not be tied to the seat. The Republicans would also like to have a little credit for voting subsidies on a high non-partisan basis.

Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade agreements policy has reached a point where it is cutting into some of the Democratic leaders as well as the rank and file, and they are all praying that the act under which the trade agreements are being made will be declared unconstitutional. Otherwise the act will be repealed in round-about fashion.

The country has the will to recover; it has the will to get away from both governmental stimulants and narcotics. That means much. But the bald fact remains that the country is not earning its living.

On December 11 the total loans of reporting member banks in 101 cities were $44,000,000 less than a year before. Loans by various government corporations and credit bodies, on October 31, 1935, stood at $3,318,000,000, as against $7,145,000,000 the year before, or an increase of 16.4 per cent. This means that business is not making its own steam.

These figures, taken in connection with the roller and public works expenditures, render all the year-end statistical surveys valueless. The volume of government money going into trade quickly loses its identity and we have no way of taking the total figures apart to discover how much of the business of the country is natural and how much is artificial.

It is well enough for a salesman or a sales manager to gloat over his records. That is his job. But thoughtful men and women cannot be comfortable when they are spending the proceeds of a mortgage raised on the old homestead. The Republicans are dodging this question: the administration is, gayly saying that the way out is to get a bigger mortgage. They are following the principle of the man who, when dunned by his tailor, always promised to pay and ordered another suit.

Little Benny's
Note Book

By LEE PAPE

We was eating breakfast and ma said to pop, I wouldn't really have to go down town today, but there's a little shopping I could do in a pinch, and it would give me a good chance to have lunch at the Bohemia Tea Room and let that marvelous sykkie woman read my palm and tea leaves again. They say the oftener you go to her the more uncanny her insight seems to get. For instance the first time Jordin consulted her she told her practically nothing, but the 2nd time she told her practically everything.

Little do you suspect it, but you have an A number one sykkie in your very mist, pop said. I refer to myself, in person and no tea room. I don't know why I never told you, but for years I've known all kinds of things about you that I've never mentioned, he said, and ma said, Now Willyum you be not.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating, so I'll give you a few examples, pop said. At the age of 13 months, when you were learning to walk, you tripped and almost broke your left ankle, he said, and ma said, I did nothing of the kind, so you're wrong before you start. You can't remember back to the age of 13 months, so how do you know I'm wrong? pop said, and ma said, For the simple reason that how do you know you're right? Because I'm sykkie, pop said. I can see into the future too. You're going to suddenly meet someone you get up to address the next meeting of the Dawters of Cleopatera, he said, and ma said, Willyum Potts don't you dare suggest such a gassy thing or I'll sneeze right in the middle of my speech by the very power of auto suggestion, and I'm down to speak at tomorrow's meeting. I can't help it if I'm sykkie, pop said.
